Mr. Trotzky Writes.
Mr. Mellon Figures.
The London Times Errs.
—By ARTHUR BRISBANE—

LEON TROTZKY, writing about himself while waiting to re-enter Russia, says he is 50 years old, and "my present deportation to Constantinople is not the last chapter of my life." Fifty is young for a statesman, or scien-old for a revolutionist.

Revolution is a strenuous busi-especially if you take it seri-ly, as Trotzky does. That he lasted so long, with enemies so numerous, and in power, is surprising.

TROTZKY seems a little proud that he never earned a living by "cleaning codfish" or any other manual labor, which is surprising in a friend of the proletariat.

He became a revolutionist as soon as he began to think, was imprisoned by the czar as a boy, and often, later. His father was a Russian Jewish farmer, but he never worked on the farm, except at keeping books.

TROTZKY writes well, but a little loosely, as one never "edited." A well read man, he seemed surprised that Russia's rulers kicked him out after Lenin died. He must know that this has been the fate of revolutionary leaders generally, except that thus far he has kept his head on his shoulders.

SECRETARY MELLON went over his national housekeeping books last week, counted up the receipts and found he had $23,000,000 more than he expected.

AS WORLD'S champion debt payer, Mr. Mellon cuts the public debt by $673,000,000 more. And Uncle Sam, after paying his bills, including additional payments to railroads of $52,000,000 has a surplus of $185,000,000.

A good financial housekeeper is Mr. Mellon.

THE London Times, bought and controlled by American money, taken to England by a branch of the Astors, says there must be a tariff war against the United States.

RESPECTABLE, but dull. The Times says the American masses are to blame for the proposed high tariff. They do not understand that duties will hurt their own pockets.

EVEN the Times might know that the American masses know about the tariff only what they read in newspapers, are not consulted about it, are too busy with radio, automobile and instalment payments to care much, anyhow.

HOWEVER, if you asked the "American masses" what they thought about American tariffs and taxes being settled here or in England, they would answer, "We thought that was all settled back in 1776."

FORMATION of gigantic airplane concerns, with capital running to hundreds of millions, promises well for aviation and the country.

There is not "enough in aviation" to pay dividends on all that money unless something entirely new can be found.

EACH of the great companies will want something new, and work feverishly to produce it, before the public gets tired of backing air companies.

BY compulsion, the companies will enter the field of research and invention, and do the work that the government, for its defense, ought to do.

A HANDFUL of air passengers, and a few tons of mail, with Congress criticizing wisely generous payments, will not pay dividends on hundreds of millions.

But a REAL AIRSHIP, wiping out, once for all, long distance rail travel, would pay DIVIDENDS ON BILLIONS.

A BRITISH airplane carrier found and saved the Spanish fliers after others abandoned the search.

The men were saved because the British kept at it, and because Britons know the value of flying. No lookout man on a ship found the Spaniards. They were found by fliers, sent from the airplane carrier, to search the surface of the ocean in all directions.

KLINE PROPOSES CITY GARBAGE SYSTEM

Mayor Suggests Municipal Ownership—Backs Fight To Collect $1,000,000

Municipal ownership by condemnation and operation of Pittsburgh's garbage and rubbish disposal plants are advocated by Mayor Charles H. Kline in a letter sent to City Solicitor Charles A. Waldschmidt today.

The Mayor tells Waldschmidt to help City Controller H. O. Evans prosecute the claim for $1,000,000 overcharges against the American Reduction Company and to be prepared, in case garbage collection service is impaired by the city's action against the company, to take over the plants of the concern.

MAYOR'S PROPOSAL

The Mayor's recommendation:

If a diminution of service occurs, you should be prepared, without further notice, to take whatever court action is necessary to take over the plants of this concern and restore a full measure of service at least pending the proposed litigation.

In addition, the present contract was made for one year only. It would seem to me that the time has come for municipal ownership and operation of Pittsburgh's garbage and rubbish plants. This can be done by either building new plants or condemnation proceedings in taking over this company's plants. In view of the fact that it was Pittsburgh's capital that originated and carried on this work, and that the recent purchaser no doubt acted in good faith, I think, in fairness, we should try the condemnation course first. An early enough start should be made to have the proceedings completed before the termination of the present contract, so there will be no cessation in service to the people.

If the controller is successful in getting a judgment for $1,000,000 it will be a big set-off for the City to apply against the amount fixed by condemnation as the purchase price.

Even if it is necessary to continue the present appropriation, the City will be the gainer because the amount now voted as dividends by the company can be employed in expanding the bettering the service. In addition, it will forever prevent the recurrence of any such condition as its now alleged by the controller, and place the matter of garbage and rubbish collection out in the full light of day, the same as all other of our City activities.

EMPLOYE BLAMED

Kline asserts in the letter that, "as Mr. Evans frankly told Council the other day, the present condition exists for no other reason than that an employe of his office failed, over a period of eight years, to make the proper audit."

Th employe to whom Evans is said to have referred is H. S. Breitenstein, city statistician. Evans announced today he had accepted Breitenstein's resignation.

The Mayor's stand was expressed in a letter to City Solicitor Waldschmidt.

CONFER ON SUIT

Controller Evans conferred today with Waldschmidt and representatives of Reed, Smith, Shaw & McClay, who have been engaged as consulting attorneys. Early action was promised.

The city's contract with the company provided the latter was to be paid the cost of garbage collection plus $1.50 a ton profit. Evans says an audit has disclosed the company included, among its cost items, Christmas cigars, Duquesne Club initiation fees and dues, a box at Forbes Field for the baseball season and one at Pitt Stadium for football, tickets for politicians' dinners and the like.

Evans said today he had no doubt the company would secure the return of the $500,000 dividends disbursed, it is alleged, two weeks ago.

Fire on Big Liner Thrills Crowd Ashore

NEW YORK, July 1.—(INS.)—Thousands of persons in downtown office buildings were excited today as they saw the trans-Atlantic liner Deutschland, apparently afire, steaming up the lower bay. A large pot of grease on a stove in the liner's kitchen had boiled over, caught fire, and sent off sheets of flame and volumes of smoke through the main ventilator.

Most of the passengers on the Deutschland, which is one of the newest of the Hamburg-American liners, knew nothing of the incident. The liner was just leaving Quarantine and ship news reporters, customs men and immigration inspectors were going up the companionway as the first sheet of flame burst forth.

The Plaza Office Building, Fifth avenue between Ross street and Sixth avenue, was sold at sheriff's sale in the Courthouse today to Attorney E. B. Strassburger for $70,000. Strassburger represents the Atlantic National Bank, of Boston, holder of a first mortgage of $894,013 on the property. There were only two bids—one for $60,000, and Strassburger's. The building was owned by the Plaza Office Building Company, of which J. I. Simon is the principal stockholder.

WABASH FIGHTS FOR ROADS HERE

By HARRY WARD.
International News Service.

WASHINGTON, July 1.—A hot fight for control of a number of strategic railroads in various consolidation plans loomed today, following the presentation to the Interstate Commerce Commission of the Wabash Railroad's plan for a fifth and independent trunk line system.

The fight will center particularly for control of the Wheeling and Lake Erie, Pittsburgh and West Virginia and the Western Maryland.

The Wabash plan is the third now before the commission for consideration, the Baltimore and Ohio and Chesapeake and Ohio plans having been filed some months ago.

In each plan the three minor roads mentioned play an important part in linking up the systems.

P. R. R.'S O. K. SEEN

In some quarters it is believed that the Wabash plan has the tacit approval of the Pennsylvania Railroad.

On top of this the Taplin brothers, of Cleveland, who control the Pittsburgh and West Virginia, want to get the Wheeling and Lake Erie and the Western Maryland and they intend to put up a battle against the Van Sweringens, who control the Chesapeake and Ohio; Daniel Willard—guiding hand of the Baltimore and Ohio—and the Wabash crowd.

The Wabash plan contemplates

Bank Patrons Cry As Clerk Frees Tear Gas Control

Tears filled patrons' eyes in the Monongahela National Bank, Wood street and Sixth avenue, this morning, but there was no sorrow. Patrons hastened to the doors and clerks cleared their counters for hasty exists.

The tear gas defense against robbers proved successful. A clerk accidentally placed his foot on the control lever. A score of outlets on the customers' side of the counters poured forth the fumes. It was several hours before the banking room was cleared of the fumes.

Train Wreck Just So Much 'Lovely Sleep' for Del Rio

Dolores del Rio, tragic-eyed lady of the cinema, came to town today, vibrant, diminutive—and four hours late.

Her train had been delayed by a wreck on the Pennsylvania Railroad, but Dolores refused to be annoyed.

"It meant just so much more sleep," she explained. "Such lovely, lovely sleep!"

She says it like this:

"Lahv-ly."

She predicted she would like the city, the mayor, the councilmen, the citizens and the view from Mt. Washington at night. She had heard about that view from a friend in Baltimore who collects picture postcards.

How did she like the bare leg fad?

"Stockings, they are in the way," said she. "Without them there is much more freedom. Such lovely, lovely freedom."

Her own hosiery, at the moment, was beige.

CITY SANCTIONS RIVER AIRPORT DOWNTOWN

Pittsburgh Aviation Concern Ready to Launch Service Here Within Next Week

Council, in effect, today created a downtown airport for Pittsburgh by granting the Pittsburgh Aviation Industries Corporation a lease for an air terminal on the bank of the Monongahela River.

Shortly afterward George R. Hann, chairman of the board of the Aviation Industries Corporation, announced it would have a Loening amphibian plane here next week. It was inspected by a representative of the company at the factory at Long Island last week and is about ready for the flight to Pittsburgh.

Work on the float to which the plane will be moored has progressed rapidly, but construction of the company's office building on the wharf has been held up by War Department red tape, it was said.

Without a dissenting vote, the councilmen instructed Edward O. Lang, director of Public Works, to issue a 10-months' lease to the corporation for the establishment of such facilities as it needs for the landing of amphibian planes here.

Lang previously had issued a lease to the corporation, in accordance with his power of office, but later withdrew it when the probability of opposition in Council loomed. There was no such opposition apparent at the hearing this morning.

At the hearing, Lieut. E. S. Whitehead, who flew in the Army's goodwill tour of South America, assured the city fathers that there is no extraordinary danger involved in the operation of a downtown airport in Pittsburgh. Whitehead is the corporation's chief pilot.

SUFFICIENT SPACE

Such landings as will be made here are commonplace of aerial navigation, Whitehead declared. There is sufficient open space on the rivers for pilots to bring their ships to rest without danger of striking bridges or other obstructions, he said.

The fear that the big amphibians which the company proposes to use might strike tall buildings is groundless, according to Whitehead. There is no greater possibility of

LOWMAN STORY EXPLAINED

WASHINGTON, July 1.—(AP.)—An explanation of the widely printed reports that Assistant Secretary Lowman, of the Treasury Department, in charge of prohibition enforcement, had been asked to resign by President Hoover, was given today by the Treasury Department.

It was to the effect that a newspaper reporter may have seen a form calling for the resignation of a minor official in the West and jumped at conclusions.

This explanation was made by Secretary Mellon and Under-secretary Mills. Previously, the White House had issued an official denial of the reports, which were circulated last Saturday by the United Press.

"Mr. Lowman has been an entirely satisfactory assistant secretary in his work of enforcing the prohibition law and the stories that he has been asked to resign or that he intends to resign are completely untrue," Secretary Mellon said. "He will continue in office in charge of the work he has been doing."

FRANCE WILL RATIFY DEBT ACCORD TO SAVE CREDIT

MUST AGREE OR PAY BIG AMOUNT

$400,000,000 Due August 1 Turns Tide for Mellon Pact to Gain More Time

PARIS, July 1.—The people ...nce learned today that ...epresentatives will ratify Mellon-Berenger agree...t in a circling movement, ... government thereby saving ...s pride and hurdling its credit ...bstacle.

The means by which the French Parliament hopes to save its face is that of straddling the international political fence, with one foot sturdily planted on French sentiment and the other on a pile of documents—one of which permits ratification by decree.

By permitting Premier Poincare to decree France's ratification, there can be no cabinet reservations to the accord. But the ever-alert deputies, cognizant that their reelections may be made sometime upon the basis of their present action, will then authorize an act, which will couch in no uncertain terms the reservation that the nation will meet its obligations providing the Reich does the same, as ...ed for in the Young reparations plan.

Whether the United States will see fit to accept the ratification in view of the plan of the Chamber of Deputies to incorporate a "safeguard clause" in its act of approval, is a matter that must be decided in conference in Washington.

CONFERENCES PLANNED

WASHINGTON, July 1.—Ratification without delay by France of the Mellon-Berenger war debt agreement appears a certainty, according to advices reaching official circles.

There is a feeling of optimism that an accord will be reached before August 1 which will be entirely acceptable to both France and the United States.

RACKET MURDER NET TRAPS 3

NEW YORK, July 1.—(INS.)—The net around the slayer or slayers of Frank Marlow, Broadway racketeer and cabaret proprietor, was being drawn closer today as three more prisoners, arrested as material witnesses, were languishing in jail.

The men arrested are Daniel Grosso, Nicholas McDermott and James Graham, the last a youth of 18.

Police Commissioner Grover Whalen said that Grosso and McDermott were in an automobile near where Marlow's body was found after being thrown from an automobile to the road in Queens County.

Grosso, who is said to have offered the detectives who arrested him $20,000 in cash if they would let him free, has been sought for three years by the federal government.

He is alleged to have been fifth member of the band which looted a post office truck at Elizabeth, New Jersey on October 1, 1926.

Two members of the gang killed each other in a duel in Detroit. The other two are serving long prison terms.

McDermott is also well known to police, Whalen said. The commissioner added other arrests were expected shortly.

KING RETURNS TO LONDON

LONDON, July 1.—(AP.)—Greeted by tumultuous cheering, King George and Queen Mary arrived in London from Windsor Castle this morning, changing from closed motor car to open landau at Albert Hall, Kensington Gardens. It was the king's return to his chief official residence at Buckingham Palace for partial resumption of the cares of state after a six-month illness.

At 11:30 a. m., a few minutes before the scheduled arrival of their Britanic majesties at the palace King Alfonso of Spain, who is visiting England, drove up, alighted, and entered the palace doors.

There were crowds on every side, many of the mass of humanity having come from long distances to be present at the ride through London's streets, marking as it did return to health of one of the best beloved of England's monarchs.

WILD WELCOME FOR FLIERS

By THOMAS LOAYZA
International News Service.

MADRID, July 1.—All Spain continued its preparations today to bestow the most lavish welcome in the history of the nation upon Maj. Ramon Franco and his three companions, rescued by the British aircraft carrier Eagle after floating for seven days at sea off the Azores.

With H. M. S. Eagle due to arrive at Gibraltar at 9 a. m. tomorrow, aeronautical societies, government officials and virtually every private individual in Spain were laying plans to provide the rescued airmen with the most vociferous and pretentious welcome ever accorded a national hero.

HEADED FOR PORT

The Eagle, which picked up the four fliers and their giant hydroplane, Numancia, just one week after they had been forced down in the sea while attempting a trans-Atlantic flight from Spain to New York by way of the Azores, is steaming toward Gibraltar at approximately 15 knots, and as each hour brought her nearer land, additional preparations for the fliers' arrival were put under way.

It was learned today that Capt. Ruis de Alda, one of Franco's assistants aboard the plane, may be scarcely recognizable when he disembarks from the Eagle at Gibraltar. In a wireless message to his family, the aviator revealed that he had grown a luxurious beard during the week the Numancia tossed helpless on the waves.

PRIMO LOSES WEIGHT

In a statement expressing his relief over the fliers' rescue, Gen. Primo de Rivera revealed that he had lost seven pounds in weight due to worry over the airmen's fate during the last week.

It is understood that the Spanish Premier will leave Madrid sometime today for Gibraltar to be on hand when the fliers arrive. A number of important government officials, as well as an army of newspapermen, have already left for the British outpost on the Mediterranean to extend a suitable welcome.

Due to the fact Maj. Franco is as popular in this country as Col. Charles Lindbergh is in America, it is expected that scenes of unprecedented enthusiasm will be enacted when the intrepid airman and his companions arrive back in this city.

the acquisition of the Lehigh Valley, Wheeling and Lake Erie, Pittsburgh and West Virginia, Western Maryland, Lehigh and New England; Akron, Canton and Youngstown; Elgin, Joliet and Eastern; Toledo, Peoria and Western, and the Chicago and Illinois Midland.

A sixth interest in some short lines and trackage rights over the Pennsylvania, Reading and Grand Trunk at certain points also is sought by it.

AFFECTS PITTSBURGH

The Wabash application said it was obviously in the public interest that the great industrial districts in and about Pittsburgh should have available as many rail routes as practicable, giving them access to the great markets of the Middle West.

"There is no sound reason why such systems as the Erie, Nickel Plate and the Wabash should not have direct access to the world's greatest iron and steel center," the application said. "The Wabash proposes to extend its system eastwardly from Toledo through acquisition of the Wheeling and Lake Erie. The acquisition of this vital, strategic line together with the Pittsburgh and West Virginia, will not only give the Wabash direct access to the Pittsburgh district, but will preserve an important existing competition.

VITAL IN COAL REGION

"With the extension of the Pittsburgh and West Virginia to a connection with the Western Maryland at Connellsville, Pa., it is essential that the Western Maryland be embraced by any system which includes the Pittsburgh and West Virginia and the Wheeling and Lake Erie, thus affording coal operators on those lines access to the Great Lakes and the Northwest, as well as to the Atlantic seaboard."

The application stated the additional system was proposed in the belief that "no four-system grouping in eastern territory, as proposed by certain competitors, is humanly possible without such merging of strictly competitive lines and such distortion of existing channels as to defeat fundamental safeguards of the transportation act."

ASKS CUT IN LINES

The Wabash desires a one-sixth interest in and joint use of the Montour Railroad Company, the Monongahela Connecting Railroad Company, Union Railroad Company of Pittsburgh, and the Newburgh and Southshore Railway. Under the proposal the same interest in these railroads would be given the New York Central, Baltimore and Ohio, Chesapeake and Ohio, Pennsylvania and the Delaware, Lackawanna and Western.

TOLEDO TERMINAL

A one-seventh interest in and joint use of the Toledo Terminal Railroad Company also is to be requested. The petition proposes that the remaining control be apportioned equally to the New York Central, Baltimore and Ohio, Chesapeake and Ohio, Pennsylvania, Delaware, Lackawanna and Western and the Grand Trunk Western.

Trackage rights desired by the Wabash are: Over the line of the Pennsylvania between Logansport and Effner, Ind.; between Harrisburg and Rockville, Pa., and between Delphos, O., and Fort Wayne, Ind.; over the Grand Trunk Western between Ashley and Muskegon, Mich., and over the Reading Company between Shippensburg and Harrisburg, Pa.; between Rockville and a point at or near Blackwood, Pa., and between South Bethlehem and Philadelphia, Pa.

Became Famous in Earhart's Dash for Europe; 'Stunts' Cause Smash

Amelia Earhart, had been recognized as one of the most efficient pilots in the air.

It was his handling of the giant plane Friendship on the long trans-Atlantic trek that drew the admiration of Miss Earhart and led her to declare that virtually all of the credit for the success of the flight should be given him.

Hardwood, one of the passengers, was connected with the flying supervisors' office at Roosevelt Field.

WIFE GETS NEWS

WILLIAMSBURG, Pa., July 1.—(INS.)—To Mrs. John Shradel, sister of Wilmer Stultz, who was killed at Mineola, N. Y., in a plane crash, today fell the task of giving the news to Mrs. Clara Stultz, his mother.

International News Service telephoned the Stultz residence here, and on learning from Mrs. Stultz that she had no word of her son's fate, her daughter, Mrs. Shradel was called to the phone and told of the flier's death.

Mrs. Shradel took the blow like a soldier. "Oh—" she sobbed. "Dead? Dead — I'll — I'll tell mother."

Mrs. Stultz was given first inkling of the fatal crash when she asked, in answering a query, "Has anything happened to him?"

"We're sorry, but he's been in an accident," she was told.

"Oh—was it serious?" she asked. Her voice broke and, fearing for the consequences of the shock, the reporter asked that Mrs. Shradel be called to the 'phone.

Stultz, who brought fame to Blair County when he participated in the trans-Atlantic flight of the Friendship, operated a flying field at Tipton, near here, with Walter Hite.

SERVED IN WAR

Stultz was 29 and served with the air corps of both the Army and Navy in the war. He was associated with Mrs. Frances Wilson Grayson in her first two attempts to take-off for Europe. His name was mentioned in connection with the Byrd undertaking but he finally made the trip in the Fokker plane Friendship with Miss Earhart and Lou Gordon.

Stultz was awarded the Medal of Honor by the International League of Aviators for the trans-Atlantic flight. He was the first pilot to loop the loop with passengers in a big Sikorsky 12-passenger amphibian plane.

George Haven Putnam, backer, selected him to fly the Friendship on the trans-Atlantic flight. He disclaimed any credit saying the honors belonged to Miss Earhart and Gordon.

REFUEL FLIERS LOST

METROPOLITAN AIRPORT, LOS ANGELES, July 1.—(AP.)—Ground officials announced at 8:15 a. m. that the Cessna monoplane flown by Leo Nomis and Maurice Morrison, which was to have completed its first day of a refueling endurance flight at 7:30 a. m., had become lost from the airport in a high fog and unless located before 10 a. m. would be forced down for lack of fuel.

CLEVELAND STILL UP

CLEVELAND, July 1.—(INS.)—Two weary aviators, Byron Newcomb and Roy Mitchell, soared on toward a hoped-for new endurance record today in their Stinson-Detroiter monoplane City of Cleveland. They had been in the air 65 hours at 11:38 a. m.

Much concern had been felt through the forenoon because of the inability to take fuel and other supplies to the endurance plane, due to a heavy fog. Shortly before noon the fog lifted enough to permit refueling when the endurance fliers signaled they were ready.

The tender plane, piloted by Ernie Basham, air mail pilot on leave, was loaded with gasoline and waited in readiness to shove off.

Associated Press.

Waldo E. Robey, 24, of Kansas City, Mo., mail pilot for Continental Air Lines, Inc., was killed when his plane struck a radio antenna mast at Columbus, O., Sunday during a heavy fog.

Ira I. Wilkinson, 45, an official of the Capital Airways Company, and his stepson, Charles Wilson, 18, were burned to death in the wreckage of an airplane which fell in the residential district of Sacramento, Cal., and burst into flames. Ira Martin, the pilot, escaped.

Nicholas Engleman, of Philadelphia, an amateur aviator, was killed near Berlin, N. J. A plane he was piloting fell and caught fire.

Panama Engineers Battle Canal Slide

BALBOA, Canal Zone, July 1.—(AP.)—Panama Canal engineers engaged in digging today for the second time within 10 days. Approximately 25,000 cubic yards of earth slid into the channel south of Contractors' Hill yesterday and there was evidence of impending further slipping. Steamship traffic thus far has not been interrupted.

Yesterday's slippage was at West Side Point, which has not been affected by earth movements heretofore.

U. S. Accepts Radio Farm Broadcasting

WASHINGTON, July 1.—(AP.)—The Agriculture Department has accepted the invitation of the National Broadcasting Company to broadcast a mid-day program over a network of 31 broadcasting stations, beginning July 8. The program, to be known as the National Farm and Home hour, will be broadcast daily at 1:30 p. m. to 2:15 p. m. Eastern Standard time. Secretary Hyde is to inaugurate the new service with an address.

EAST END SAFE THEFT FOILED

men had fled down a ladder placed at the rear of the building to the second floor.

About the same time Plainclothesmen James Leets, John Hickey and Michael O'Connor, who had been watching an automobile parked at Beatty and Broad streets for several hours, saw a man run down the street and get into the car. They arrested him, and took him into the station where he gave the name of Thompson.

BROKE COMBINATION

An investigation of the building showed the gang had used an ax to break off the combination of the safe, and were working on the inner doors when they apparently were warned of the approach of the police by a lookout.

Howard Mayberry, manager of the Graff store, told police nothing had been taken from his firm's safe.

Rhea's Bakery, 441 Market street, was the scene of another safe robbery. The door of the heavy vault was forced open, detectives said, and $2,300 stolen from a compartment. About $500 was overlooked.

Stores of the Kroger Grocery and Baking Company, at 209 Shiloh street, and 612 Jackson street, were entered by thieves who jimmied the front doors. Merchandise valued at $50 was stolen from each.

After looting the apartment of Ethel Pearlman, first floor of 317 Roberts street, of clothing valued at $150, burglars went to the third floor and ransacked the apartment of Mrs. Irwin Lurick, according to a police report.

STEAL CLARINET

Loot valued at $50 was stolen from the home of T. W. Davis, 3400 Delaware avenue, after the rear cellar door had been forced open.

The theft of a clarinet valued at $100 from the room of Charles Calony, 4522 Forbes street, during his absence Saturday was reported to police.

FARM BOARD CHIEF CARE OF HOOVER

President Aims to Comp... Commission This We... Studies Aspirants' Reco...

WASHINGTON, July 1. (AP.)—President Hoove... hopes to complete by the en... of this week the selection o... virtually all of the men who... as members of the Federal Farm Board, will be entrusted with the task of bringing pros... perity to agriculture.

Proceeding with great deliberation in view of the importance he attaches to the board's undertaking, he has filled three of its eight places and has offered one other to a business man and two to farm leaders one of whom, however, is expected to decline.

Cotton is to be represented by Williams, of Oklahoma; tobacco ... James C. Stone, of Kentucky, a... livestock b... C. B. Denman, of Missouri. These three have definitely accepted appointment.

WHEAT POST OPEN

Those who have been offered appointments are Alexander H. Legge of Chicago, who would represent general business; W. S. Moscrip, of Minneapolis, chosen to speak for the dairying industry, and Charles C. Teague, of California, identified with fruit-growing co-operatives. Teague is quoted in press dispatches as saying private business will prevent him from serving.

On the assumption that the place offered Teague will be filled by another representative of the fruit growers, two places on the board remain to be filled from other industries, with a spokesman for the important wheat section yet to be selected. In addition, Mr. Hoover announced when he signed the farm bill that one membership would be filled by a man experienced in the field of banking and finance and equipped to advise his colleagues in the administration of the $500,000,000 fund authorized and partly appropriated by Congress for loans to co-operative farming organizations.

MOST IMPORTANT AGENCY

Mr. Hoover's attitude toward his task, accounting for the deliberation with which he is proceeding, was clearly set forth at the time he signed the Farm Relief Act with the statement describing the board as the most important governmental agency ever established for the assistance of one of the Nation's industries.

So the President's requirements are that his appointees have experience and successful records in dealing with the problems of the farmer, through understanding of the methods and aims of co-operative organizations, and, collectively will be representative of all the major branches of agriculture.

DEMOCRATS UNITE WITH G. O. P. FOR TARIFF PROTECTION

REED FIGHTS MANGANESE EXCISE

Pittsburgh Senator Asserts Levy Will Boost Steel Prices $2.50 Per Ton

By WILLIAM K. HUTCHINSON.
International News Service.

WASHINGTON, July 1.—The old tariff battles between protectionists and free-traders have gone forever, it appeared today, as Democrats vied with Republicans before the Senate finance sub-committees in urging adequate tariff rates on home products.

The old Democratic states of Louisiana and Florida have led the Democratic legions, pleading for tariff protection. In Louisiana, the sugar interests made the loudest appeal, while in Florida the fruit growers led the hue and cry for high tariffs.

MANGANESE BATTLE

While the struggle over sugar rates is certain to be the climax of the traff debate in the Senate, after that body reconvenes August 19, the battle over manganese ore rates will run it a close second. And to the probable surprise of old line Democrats, Democratic Senators will fight for a manganese tariff while Republican Senators will be urging a place for it on the free list.

This about-face on the part of Democrats and Republicans—so far as their party records are concerned—will be due to the use of manganese in steel manufacture. Senators Ashurst (Dem.), of Arizona; Hayden (Dem.), of Arizona, and Wheeler (Dem.), of Montana, already have urged a tariff of 1 cent a pound on manganese ore to protect the ore producers of their states.

REED OPPOSES RATE

This rate has been opposed by Senator Reed (Rep.), of Pennsylvania, because the steel industries in his state import all of the manganese ore used in their manufacture of steel.

"In a ton of the best steel, a tariff of one-cent-a-pound on manganese ore adds $2.50 to the price, since from 9 to 13 per cent of the steel is manganese," said Reed. "In ordinary steel, the elimination of this tariff would reduce the price about 35 cents a ton."

"On the other hand," is the reply of Senator Wheeler, "we are trying to develop our ore industry in the West. So long as manganese ore is duty-free the American industry is being stifled. With all other industries protected, this industry should be protected too."

The manganese ore situation merely reflected a dozen similar circumstances where Democrats have pleaded for the protection of local industries when all other industries are being protected. Senator Trammel (Dem.), of Florida, for instance, pointed out that the fruit shipments of Florida total $40,000,000 a year. He declared the fruit growers were being injured by cheap importations, but the American fruit trade could be built into one of the nation's money-making industries if given proper protection.

The sugar war, however, will overshadow all others. The Democrats undoubtedly will oppose any increase in the present rates of $2.20 and $1.76 for Cuba while the Republicans probably will support a "sliding scale," ranging from $1 to $2.40 for Cuba.

BREAK GROUND FOR CHURCH

Ground breaking services for the new $200,000 auditorium of the Mt. Lebanon Baptist Church of Dormont, were held on ground adjoining the present edifice, Alabama avenue, Dormont, yesterday. Several hundred members and visitors witnessed the ceremony. The Rev. Edward Bleakney, pastor of the church, was in charge.

The scripture was read by the Rev. B. F. Crawford, pastor of the Dormont Methodist Church, and the prayer was offered by the Rev. C. F. Lauer, pastor of the Bethany Lutheran Church of Dormont. The visiting ministers who spoke were the Rev. J. J. Allen, Sandusky street Baptist Church; the Rev. W. H. Cutler, Union Baptist Church of Pittsburgh; the Rev. E. C. McCown, Mt. Lebanon United Presbyterian Church; the Rev. Roland Hudson, Crafton Baptist Church; the Rev. O. H. Sisson, Baptist Church of Wilkinsburg, and the Rev C. W. Petty of the First Baptist Church of Pittsburgh.

The first digging was done by Mr. Bleakney and the spade was turned by Dr. Petty. The oldest members of the church, deacons, trustees, members of the finance and building committees were honored with digging and spading of the ground. The excavation work has started this morning.

MILK BLAMED FOR EPIDEMIC

CHARLTON, Mass., July 1.—(INS.)—With an aged man reported dying, and 84 other cases of septic sore throat reported, eight of them serious, efforts ewere under way today to check the spread of the epidemic. Fears were expressed that the number of cases would mount to the proportions of the epidemic at Lee a year ago, when of 600 cases, 41 were fatalities.

Dr. Clarence L. Scamman, of the state board of health, and Dr. Wilson G. Smyle of the Harvard health commission have assumed charge of the situation.

Little hope was held out for the recovery of John Barry, 72, one of the earliest victims.

As in other epidemics of septic sore throat, milk was blamed for the Charlton outbreak. With the placing of the blame on the non-pasteurized milk supply, dealers voluntarily stopped delivery of milk.

Pasteurized milk for the use of infants was being transported here from Worcester.

Early Indian Pottery in Detroit Institute

DETROIT, July 1.—Pre-historic Pueblo pottery, modern Indian baskets and Navajo rugs are exhibited at the Detroit Institute of Arts here. The collection was loaned by Henry J. Stevens. Most of the pottery in the collection of Indian arts is the work of the Hopi Indians and was acquired in Arizona. A group of paintings by contemporary Indian artists are also included in the exhibit.

INDIAN BUREAU SHAKEN UP BY WILBUR

New Commissioner, Quaker, Will Try to Get Red Men Into Profitable Pursuits

WASHINGTON, July 1.—(AP.)—Charles J. Rhoades, of Philadelphia, taking up the duties of commissioner of Indian affairs today, faced the responsibility of supplanting the century-old policy of the government toward the red men and developing another which, in the words of Secretary Wilbur, will enable him to work himself out of a job.

Banker, president of the Indian Rights Association, an official of the American Academy of Political and Social Science and a member of the American Philosophical Society, he was chosen for the post after Dr. Wilbur had declared that the new chief of Indian affairs must "wean" the red men from the Indian reservations and out of government care, establishing them as independent and self-sustaining members of the community.

LONG TASK

This process, the secretary made clear, could not be completed overnight, but he was confident it could be started immediately. As a beginning, he suggested the establishment of employment offices to place the Indian at a suitable job as soon as his education and training is completed.

The post Mr. Rhoades succeeds to has long been a target of criticism from political and Indian welfare groups. His immediate predecessor, Charles H. Burke, had been under severe congressional fire for months before he submitted his resignation, and it was during his administration that the celebrated Jackson Barnett case arose.

THANKLESS TASK

That the transformation of policy may be, while healthful, not altogether pleasant at first was recognized by Dr. Wilbur with the suggestion that, in the weaning process, the Indian be "handed a pickle and allowed to howl." The inhabitants of the reservations, he said, must be given a stiff course in "hardening off."

Mr. Rhoades' interest in the Indian was inherited from his father, who took an active part in movements for the welfare of the red man. An omen of good fortune, in the opinion of many friends of the Indian, is that Mr. Rhoades, like President Hoover, is a Quaker, follower of William Penn whose fair dealing with the Indian produced one of the bright pages of early American history. Mr. Rhoades will be aided in his new task by a fellow townsman, J. Henry Scattergood, who became assistant commissioner today. He also has long taken an interest in Indian affairs.

WARSHIP WORK AWARDED

WASHINGTON, July 1.—(INS.)—The contract for construction of the first of the five new cruisers to be started in 1930 under the government's cruiser building program was awarded by the Navy Department to the Bethlehem Shipbuilding Corporation.

The ship is to be completed in 36 months from the date of the contract, at a cost of $10,753,000. It will be built in the company's yards in Quincy, Mass.

Another of the five cruisers will be built at the Puget Sound navy yard in 40 months, at an estimated cost of $8,833,000, the department announced. One of the remaining three cruisers in the 1930 program will be built in a private yard and the other two in government yards.

DEBT OF U. S. AT LOW LEVEL

WASHINGTON, July 1.—The federal government closed its fiscal year last night with its finances in a "highly satisfactory state," Secretary of the Treasury Mellon declared in reviewing the fiscal operations for the last 12 months.

The year saw a reduction of $673,000,000 in the public debt, bringing it for the first time since the World War below $17,000,000,000. In accomplishing this, however, the surplus was reduced $213,000,000, making the net improvement in the financial condition of the Treasury $460,000,000.

The $213,000,000 reduction in the surplus was accounted for by a decline of $9,000,000 in receipts and a rise of $204,000,000 in expenditures. Total ordinary receipts were $4,033,000,000, while expenditures chargeable against such receipts were $3,848,000,000, an excess of receipts over expenditures on surplus of $185,000,000. This was as compared with a surplus of $398,000,000 at the close of the preceding year.

Tax receipts—customs, income tax and miscellaneous internal revenue funds—reached $3,540,000,000, a gain of $176,000,000 from these sources. Income taxes of $2,330,000,000 gained $156,000,000. Customs increased $33,000,000, yielding $60,000,000. Miscellaneous revenue fell off $14,000,000, dropping to $607,000,000.

Motorcycle Rider Fatally Injured

WASHINGTON, Pa., July 1.—While riding home from his work near Bentleyville, Arless Baldwin, 29, of this city, was hurled from his motorcycle and fatally injured when struck by a truck at Egg Nog hill, on the National road near Glyde. Baldwin was a truck driver for a highway construction company. He died in the Washington Hospital. His wife survives.

Wife Asks Decree After 60 Years Of Marriage

PANA, Ill., July 1.—(AP.)—Even a fiery cross burned in his front yard failed to sway John Stoneburner, 82, from "inhuman treatment" of his wife, Maggie, 75, she testified in divorce proceedings instituted in Circuit Court here. They had been married 60 years.

Stone burner "kept all food under lock and key," his wife charged. He worked her in the field until she "dropped in her tracks" and then left her lying there.

"Neighbors" learned of her treatment and burned a cross in the Stoneburner front yard. Thereafter, Stoneburner treated her worse, she charged.

FOUR-CENT GAS TAX EFFECTIVE

Thrifty motorists laid in supplies of gasoline yesterday to avoid the increase of one cent in the state tax effective today.

"Nearly everybody filled up" that stopped at the 10 filling stations operated by Fred Fournier, it was said. Sunday sales showed a notable increase.

The Gulf Refining Company reported its Sunday sales were normal, while the Atlantic Refining Company and the Waverly Oil Works Company said they would not receive reports from their distributors and filling stations for several days, and so could not say if the increase in the tax had affected sales.

Inquiries at two Gulf stations and one Atlantic station elicited the information that there was little deviation from normal business either yesterday or today.

"Wealthy persons who have ample storage facilities at their homes no doubt laid in large supplies of gasoline to avoid the tax increase," said C. H. Roth, secretary of the Pittsburgh Motor Club.

WRECK DELAYS EXCURSION

Westbound Pennsylvania railroad trains into Pittsburgh, including one of two sections bearing 1,000 excursionists returning from New York, were delayed from one to three hours today by a freight wreck on the road's main line at Vandyke near Mifflin.

All four tracks of the line were blocked when 18 cars of the freight train spread over the right-of-way after the train buckled from an undetermined cause.

The long delays were caused by the necessity of shifting trains back to Harrisburg, then detouring them by way of Williamsport, Lock Haven and Tyrone. One of these bore Dolores del Rio cinema star, to a personal appearance here, four hours late.

Peppers Neighbor's Home for Vengeance

SHREWSBURY, N. J., July 1.—(AP.)—Having fired more than 100 shots from a .22-calibre gun into the house of a neighbor, James J. King is in jail awaiting trial. He confessed, saying he was sore because Addison Davidson had demanded that he keep his chickens in his own yard.

Rent Overdue, Aged French General Put Out of Home

NICE, France, July 1.—(INS.)—After a four-day siege of the home of the aged Gen. Rambaud and his wife, whose eviction was sought because they could not pay their rent, police and firemen broke in today and seized their furniture.

Duchess de Talleyrand, the former Anna Gould, had volunteered to pay the couples' rent, but despite this offer the siege went on. Gen. Rambaud, who is 84, piled up sandbags and sheet iron into a barricade to prevent the "storming" of his home. His wife, although enfeebled by age, helped him.

The police "attacked" the barricade with clubs. When they failed to break through they employed tear gas.

"It is an outrage to evict this aged couple," declared the Duchess de Talleyrand. "It is especially sad that the General, who fought for his country, should be driven from his home. I intend to aid them."

NEW QUOTAS FOR ALIENS IN EFFECT

Change in Immigration Laws To National Origins Basis To Exclude 13,000 Yearly

International News Service.

WASHINGTON, July 1.—The new immigration quotas, framed on the basis of national origins, went into effect today.

President Hoover made an unsuccessful effort to prevent the change in quotas, but Congress was deaf to his plea, and as a result some 13,000 less immigrants will enter the United States next year than this year. What is more important, the nationalities of incoming aliens are radically revised.

BRITISH QUOTA DOUBLED

The old quota of Great Britain and Northern Ireland is practically doubled under the National Origins Act, while Germany and the Scandinavian countries are cut approximately half.

Under the National Origins Act 153,714 aliens will be permitted to enter the United Etates each year, as compared with 164,647 permissible under the quotas based on the foreign-born population in the United States in 1890, in effect for several years.

OLD AND NEW QUOTAS

Truck Runs Wild, Driver Leaps, Killed

BEAVER FALLS, Pa., July 1.—When a heavily loaded freight truck of the Penn-Ohio Motor Freight Company ran wild on Fallston Hill, near here, today, the driver, Frank May, 18, of Coal Valley, Pa., leaped from the vehicle and was killed. The truck plunged through a guard rail and into a ravine. State police who examined it said the brakes apparently had failed to hold.

Two Die, Baby Hurt As Train Hits Auto

William Villon, 40, and his wife, Della, 38, Negroes, were killed and their 3-year-old daughter seriously injured when an automobile in which they were riding was struck by a passenger train at the Pittsburgh and Lake Erie Railroad crossing in Gallatin, Forward Township, last night. The baby was reported in a serious condition in the Memorial Hospital, Monongahela.

LONG FLIGHT'S END

CAPT. FRANK HAWKS MRS. HAWKS.

After spanning the United States from New York to Los Angeles and return in only 36 hours 54 minutes, Capt. Hawks went, of course, to bed. As soon as he was awake, Mrs. Hawks helped him go through some of the scores and congratulatory telegrams for his record-breaking flights.

FENCE THE END OF A RECORD-SMASHING CROSS-COUNTRY FLIGHT

$15,000 in Home Brew Tax Collected in One Month

NASHVILLE, Tenn., July 1.—(AP.)—The first month's revenue from a tax levied on maalt extract for the avowed purpose of "making the home industry pay," has yielded the state of Tennessee $15,000.

Experts in the State Department of Finance and Taxation, who said their data showed virtually all of the malt extract sold went into "home brew," today made public figures showing the sale of 300,000 pounds in malt extract in June. This was the first month of the new law's operation.

Thus the state obtained $15,000 revenue for approximately 2,000,000 12-ounce bottles of "home-made beer." The General Assembly passed a bill at its last session placing a tax of 5 cents a pound on malt extract. On the basis of evidence to the Legislature that practically all the extract was bought by "home brew makers," advocates urged passage to "make the home brew industry bear its share of the tax burden."

...EMAL TO VISIT UNITED STATES

WASHINGTON, July 1.—(AP.)—Prospects of a visit to the United States by Ghavi Mustapha Kemal Pasha, president of Turkey, are being widely discussed in diplomatic circles in connection with the visit here of Dr. Refik Bey, the Trukish minister of public health.

Dr. Refik Bey has spent more than two months in the United States under the auspices of the Rockefeller Foundation inspecting health and social service institutions. He is now the guest of the Turkish ambassador, Ahmed Mouhtar Bey, and is the first official of the Turkish government to visit the United States since the World War.

President Hoover has entertained the minister at the White House and was deeply interested in the work which the Turkish government has done in not only public health but other reforms. The President asked the minister to convey to President Kemal his heartiest felicitations and compliments.

Although Dr. Refik Bey's visit to the United States is not of an official character in any way, it has revived the reports that the Turkish president might visit the United States some time in the future. Several years ago President Kemal made plans to visit various European capitals and it was reported he might come to the United States. On account of the pressure of his work at home, these plans were postponed, but since then President Kemal has accomplished a great part of that work.

While Dr. Refik Bey's visit has in no way been in the nature of sounding out the American government on a possible visit of the Turkish president, high official circles say President Kemal would be heartily welcomed should he come to the United States.

Police Chief Slain In Mystery Fight

ASHLAND, Va., July 1.—(AP.)—Mystery surrounds the murder of Harry V. Smeeman, chief of police of Ashland, who was found dead in the rear lot of a pharmacy here yesterday. He had been shot through the head.

From marks located by the officers it appears that Chief Smeeman was shot by one man as he struggled with another. His body was found lying prone on the ground with his pistol clasped in his hand.

War Lord Given Rousing Welcome

PEKIN, China, July 1.—(AP.)—Gen. Yen Hsi-Shan, powerful North China leader, who succeeded Marshal Feng Yuhsiang in an important military command June 26, received a cordial welcome from local authorities in striking contrast to the almost unnoticed arrival from Nanking on Tuesday of President Chiang Kai-Shek, of the Nationalist government.

COUNTING THE PROFITS

BETTY SPEER JANE JENNINGS AND NELLY

With the assistance of Nelly, Constance Verner and Betty and Jane raised $12.10 for the benefit of the Sun-Telegraph Milk and Ice Fund.

MILK, ICE FUND INSPIRES POEM

Today's gifts to the Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph Milk and Ice Fund are headed by one of $7.30 from a friend who signs himself "Anonymous." From Greentree comes a poem of five verses telling of a group of youngsters in the little town who heard of the city's tiny tots and their need of milk and of how $3.06 was raised to help provide that milk. The poem says.

"We couldn't sing and we couldn't dance
Like regular show folks do, you know,
So each one did the best he could
And we gave a Milk and Ice Fund show."

These youngsters included Charles and Catherine Baldesberger, Jean and Mary Lou Phillabaum, Mary Anna and Dana Jack Bode. Constance Verner, Betty Speer and Jane Jennings, of Howe street, with the assistance of Betty's little dog, Nelly, conducted a fair, selling lemonade, orangeade and candy, from which they realized $12.10. The final gift in today's trio is for $15 and comes from the Women's Bible Class of the Highland Presbyterian Church, bringing the fund to a total of $249.06.

'SHEIK' OFFICER CAPTURES TWO

NEW YORK, July 1.—(INS.)—He may be the "Adonis of the police department" and former husband of Frances Ingram, opera singer, and Claire Suggs, Buffalo heiress, but Patrolman George S. V. Wandling doesn't let "beauty" interfere with duty.

This was proved yesterday when Wandling enacted the leading role in a running revolver battle up and down Broadway, resulting in the capture of two men accused of holding up a cab driver.

The men, Thomas Kilcullen and Cornelius McLaughlin, will be arraigned today.

Wandling noticed a cab speeding up the avenue and when he perceived the number to be that of a car reported stolen, ordered the occupants to halt. For an answer they opened fire. Wandling answered with his revolver, pursued on the running board of a taxicab. He was joined in the chase by a special officer and the men were finally captured after many exchanges of bullets.

On the way to the station house Kilcullen made a sensational break for liberty but was recaptured.

Georgian Bay Boat Lists, Three Drown

MIDLAND, Ont., July 1.—(AP.)—Three men were drowned yesterday when eight persons fell from a boat into Georgian Bay. The accident was said to have been due to the sudden listing of the vessel. The dead were B. Banatter, George Zeigler and Felix Malone, all of Guelph, Ont.

DOUBLE SLAYING INVESTIGATED

ALLIANCE, O., July 1.—(AP.)—An investigation is in progress in the slaying of Sam De Palmer, 48, an Italian grocer, and his wife, Davina, 38, at the doorstep of their home yesterday.

Mrs. De Palmer died instantly, and her husband a few minutes later.

Working on a theory that the shooting may have been an outgrowth of a neighborhood quarrel, police held Mr. and Mrs. John Barnett, whose home is near the De Palmer residence, on a technical charge for investigation.

The two families had quarreled. Last Thursday, Mrs. De Palmer had Barnett arrested on a charge of pointing firearms.

Police also sought Sam Nickolet, of Bellaire, O., divorced husband of Mrs. De Palmer. It was learned that he and his former wife had been quarreling.

Whoever fired the volleys of shot at the couple as they were entering their home, was secreted behind the porch or behind a tree in the yard, police believe.

Dominick Nickolet, 8, and Lena Nickolet, 6, both children of Mrs. De Palmer by her former marriage, witnessed the tragedy. The gun was fired as the boy ran up the steps of the front porch.

FIVE DIE AS AUTO WRECKS, BURNS

ANGOLA, Ind., July 1.—(AP.)—Trapped in the wreckage of their automobile which had collided head-on with another car, five persons were burned to death late yesterday. The accident occurred on the east side of Lake George, near here.

The dead are:

Henry Trosper, 53, Plainville, Ind.; Mrs. Otha Trosper, 27, Detroit; Iona Trosper, 7, daughter of Mrs. Trosper; Eleanor Trosper, 5, another daughter; Robert Trosper, 3, son of Mrs. Trosper.

RESCUERS FAIL

The car in which the victims were riding was driven by Noah F. Trosper, of Detroit, husband of the woman killed and father of the three dead children. He was the son of the man killed.

Trosper's machine collided with that driven by Herman Scott, 22, of Coldwater, Mich., on State road 27. It burst into flames immediately.

Scott crawled from his machine in time to extricate Trosper from his burning car, but the other members of the party were trapped.

FOUR MEN KILLED

WASHBURN, N. D., July 1.—(AP.)—An automobile crashed through a guard rail on an overhead crossing near here yesterday, falling 35 feet and killing four men. A fifth man in the car was injured.

Witnesses said the car appeared out of control as it approached the crossing. The dead are Oscar Bolme, 35, Adrian, S. D.; Louis Olson, 35, Parkston, N. D.; Frank Greenstein, 30, and John Thomiller, 45, both of Jamestown, N. D. E. Edhard, driver, was hurt.

'LATIN CANAL' SANDINO'S IDEA

VERA CRUIZ, V. C., July 1.—(AP.)—Augustino Sandino, former insurgent Nicaraguan leader, revealed here today that last March he had sent letters to Argentina and other Spanish American states suggesting an international conference to discuss the question of a Nicaraguan canal.

It was his idea the canal should be built, but that Latin-American nations, exclusive of the United States, should do the building.

He said he never received any answers.

MEXICO CITY, July 1.—(AP.)—Dr. Pedro Zepeda, representative in Mexico or Augustino Sandino, one-time Nicaraguan insurgent leader, telephoned today from Vera Cruz that his chief would leave that city by airplane today for Merida, Yucatan, where he will reside.

Beautify Scene Of Indian Siege

NEW PHILADELPHIA, July 1.—An appropriation of $2,000 will be available July 15, State Finance Director Harry D. Silver announced, for beautifying the 20 acres of Fort Lawrence, south of Bolivar, where 150 Colonials under Col. John Gibson withstood a siege by Indians from January until August, 1779.

Passing motorists extricated the victims brought them to a hospital here, suffering from severe bruises and possible internal injuries.

Broken Power Line Electrocutes Boys

WILKES-BARRE, Pa., July 1. (AP.) — Stumbling into a broken high tension electric wire that had fallen on a mountain path, Edwa. Dencowski, 14, and Joseph Seliask, 14, both of Miners Mills, a suburb, were electrocuted. The tragedy occurred in a thickly wooded section of the Wilkes-Barre mountain. It was evident from their position that Bencowski had run into the broken wire first and that Celiaski had perished in an attempt to pull him to safety.

N. YORK PROBES POWER MERGER

By RAYMOND I. BORST.
International News Service.

ALBANY, July 1.—Legal machinery in the attorney general's office was thrown into gear today to investigate the $500,000,000 merger of up-state power corporations as ordered by Gov. Roosevelt.

Attorney General Hamilton Ward requested Assistant Attorney General Albert J. Danaher, who has charge of water power litigation in the state's law department, to immediately open the inquiry.

Ward is expected to return to the capital from his home at Buffalo within a few days to take personal charge of the investigation.

Gov. Roosevelt has directed the attorney general to submit a preliminary report within two weeks.

In ordering the attorney general to make the investigation Gov. Roosevelt said it was possible the merger was a monopoly in violation of the state's general business and stock corporation law.

Suspect in Bank Holdup Surrenders

HAGERSTOWN, Md., July 1.—(AP.)—Fred A. Stouffer, 19, sought since Thursday by police in connection with the robbery of a branch of the Hagerstown Bank and Trust Company, surrendered to officials after a conference with his attorney.

Stouffer and Paul R. Hesson, 22, had been the objects of police search forn early a week, after they had uncovered circumstances which seemingly linked them with the robbery of the bank of $860 last Wednesday. Hesson still is at large.

PLAN PACIFIC AIRSHIP LINE

SAN FRANCISCO, July 1.—(AP.)—The Examiner today said negotiations were in progress between the Dollar Steamship Company and the Goodyear-Zeppelin Company for the inauguration of a trans-Pacific dirigible service.

Stanley Dollar, vice president of the steamship company, was quoted as having said he had held several conferences with Goodyear officials and that while no agreement was reached, negotiations were continuing.

Dollar said if the plans materialized the first service probably would be between San Francisco and Hawaii, and, if successful, other lines connecting with the Asiatic mainland would be established. Passengers, mail and light freight would be carried.

Stephen C. Foster's Sister-in-Law Dies

Mrs. Rebecca Snowden Foster, sister-in-law of the late Stephen G. Foster, Pittsburgh's most famous song composer, and widow of Morrison Foster, is dead at her home in Detroit, Mich. Mrs. Foster was born in Pittsburgh in 1847, the daughter of the late Francis and Elizabeth Snowden and granddaughter of the late Judge M. Snowden, of Pittsburgh. She spent the greater portion of her life in Pittsburgh and was long a member of the Calvary Protestant Episcopal Church, where she was baptized. Funeral services will be held Wednesday at 2 p. m. from Sampson's funeral home.

Aged Father Pleads 'Unwritten Law'

SEYMOUR, Conn., July 1.—(INS.)—The "unwritten law" will be the plea today to save an aged father from hanging. He shot and killed a man whom he accused of betraying his daughter. A poison pen note which named his victim inflamed his mind to the deed. He walked into the Ansonia police headquarters and told police he was Joseph Battaglia, 54, and muttered, in broken English, that he had just killed Salvatore Cisco, 40, who lived next door to him here.

Rochester Man Ends Life With Pistol

ROCHESTER, Pa., July 1.—Harry Compton, 34, fired a bullet through his brain last night at his home, police reported. He died a half an hour later in Rochester Hospital. He was a brother of Patrolman Robert Compton, of the Rochester police department, and Georgie Compton, boxer. His parents left Sunday morning to visit relatives in Kentucky.

Dope Suspect Twice Attempts Suicide

Paul Rager, 40, of Allenport, Pa., arrested on the North Side as a drug addict, tried to end his life twice in a Central Police Station cell, police testified at his hearing today. First he used his belt, then a handkerchief and both times was stopped by attendants, according to Inspector James N. Hoey. Rager was held for court.

Washington Motor Club Will Picnic

WASHINGTON, Pa., July 1.—Directors of the Washington County Motor Club have selected July 24 as the date of the annual outing at Mapleview. Guy Woodward, of this city, is chairman of the general committee, with W. D. Phillips and E. H. Fulton assisting. The club has a membership of 2,000.

Discover Husband, Father, Dead Along Road

POTTSVILLE, Pa., July 1.—(AP.)—Mrs. William F. Achey, 78, and her daughter, Mrs. Jacob Huffman, both of Bowmans, left their motor car last night to seek the cause of a traffic jam. Both fainted when they found their husband and father, William F. Achey, 75, had been killed by a hit and run motorist a few minutes before.

Achey, employed as watchman at the Mahanoy City colliery of the Philadelphia and Reading Coal and Iron Company, was returning home from work when he was killed.

Girl Dies After Shooting Herself

EAST LIVERPOOL, O., July 1.—(AP.)—Miss Erma Gefeller, 22, died here from what police said was a self-inflicted bullet wound in the head. She was said to have been despondent over ill health.

URGES CHURCH PROSECUTION

WASHINGTON, July 1.—(AP.)—Prosecution of the Methodist Board of Temperance, prohibition and public morals for alleged violation of the corrupt practices act is demanded by Representative Tinkham (Rep.), of Massachusetts, in a letter to Attorney General Mitchell.

Tinkham declared in his letter that the board had violated the act by failing to make a report of its expenditures in the 1928 presidential campaign to the clerk of the House of Representatives.

Ice Foils Attempt At Altitude Mark

ALBANY, N. Y., July 1.—(AP.)—Lieut. F. O. Dice, United States Army flier, failed in an attempt to establish a new altitude record for light aircraft. At 12,000 feet he was forced down by ice forming on his plane. Dice will try again today.

Wine Flow at Dry Foe Meet Held Bad Example

COPENHAGEN, July 1.—(AP.)—The anti-prohibitionist congress closed yesterday with a banquet at which six brands of champagne were served on an otherwise ample wine list.

The banquet created an unfavorable impression in Danish public opinion. One prominent writer declared:

"Too large a percentage of these anti-prohibitionists are made up from the ranks of those making and selling spirits, and I am afraid they are no good as propagandists to the noble cause of moderation. Such blatantly vulgar display of wine and spirits at this banquet brings grist to the mill of those advocating quack methods of prohibition."

While the anti-prohibition congress was in session, Danish prohibitionists held a little congress in Copenhagen to celebrate the fiftieth anniversary of their movement.

BLAST WRECKS RUM CHASER

WINDSOR, Ont., July 1.—(AP.)—An explosion sank the Guy Ghost, a United States customs patrol boat, in the Detroit River opposite the Sandwich shore line. The crew of the boat was rescued by other patrol craft.

The Guy Ghost, the fastest cruiser in the customs fleet in this area, had developed engine trouble and was towed out into the river for a test trip in an effort to determine the cause of the trouble. On the return journey there was an explosion and the boat burst into flames.

Man Gets 300 Days For Making Beer

YREKA, Cal., July 1.—(AP.)—Brewing beer at home brought I. L. Hill, of Tennant, a justice court sentence of 300 days in the county jail, although no charge of selling the beverage was made.

BRITISH TO QUIT RHINE SOON

LONDON, July 1.—(AP.)—The Daily Mail this morning said the British army of occupation in the Rhineland may evacuate the Rhine territory immediately. Orders of a character likely to bring this about were sent to the Rhine army headquarters at Wiesbaden during the week-end.

The Daily Mail added that if the British army did not immediately evacuate the Rhineland it would at least be withdrawn en bloc instead of by detachments as had been expected.

ROOSEVELT EIGHT SETS NEW WORLD'S NON-STOP RECORD

MARMON-BUILT STRAIGHT-8 BREAKS ALL RECORDS FOR CONTINUOUS OPERATION OF ENGINE AND CAR

Sets New All-Time, Non-Stop Engine and Non-Stop Car Marks—Full A. A. A. Supervision—Run Made Over Rough Brick Track of Indianapolis Speedway—Gas, Oil and Water Taken On the Fly.

[BULLETIN]

INDIANAPOLIS MOTOR SPEEDWAY, June 30.—A small cyclone which took the roof off of a grandstand concluded the Roosevelt nonstop endurance run at 7:15 tonight after this car had set a new world record of more than 18 days, nine hours without stopping engine or car. Driver not injured.

A Roosevelt straight-eight stock car has shattered all existing records for non-stop engine and car operation. The best previous non-stop car record was 162 hours. The best previous record for sustained operation was made in the air—the airplane Fort Worth having been aloft 172 hours, 32 minutes, 1 second. Running continuously since 10 a. m. June 12, the record-breaking Roosevelt, as this was written, had more than doubled that mark.

Stock Car, Fully Equipped

This is not a roadster, or a special car stripped down especially for this run, but a full-size standard sedan, absolutely stock in every mechanical detail, plus maximum equipment—shock absorbers, bumpers front and rear, trunk rack, two extra wire wheels, tires, tubes and covers—completely ready for the road, just as it would be driven by an owner in daily use.

The rules of the contest board of the American Automobile Association are that the car must be continuously on the move under its own power. The killing of the motor would disqualify it. The failure of a valve spring, a gasoline line, the vacuum tank, a connection in the electrical system—any of these or hundreds of other things might bring the run to an end. Yet this Roosevelt Eight has kept on and on.

No road conditions could possibly compare with the constant beating and vibration of the two and one-half miles of 18-year-old bricks which make up the Speedway. Through day and night, rain and blistering sun, it has gone on, the engine never permitted to rest, the tires never allowed to cool.

Not a Second's Rest

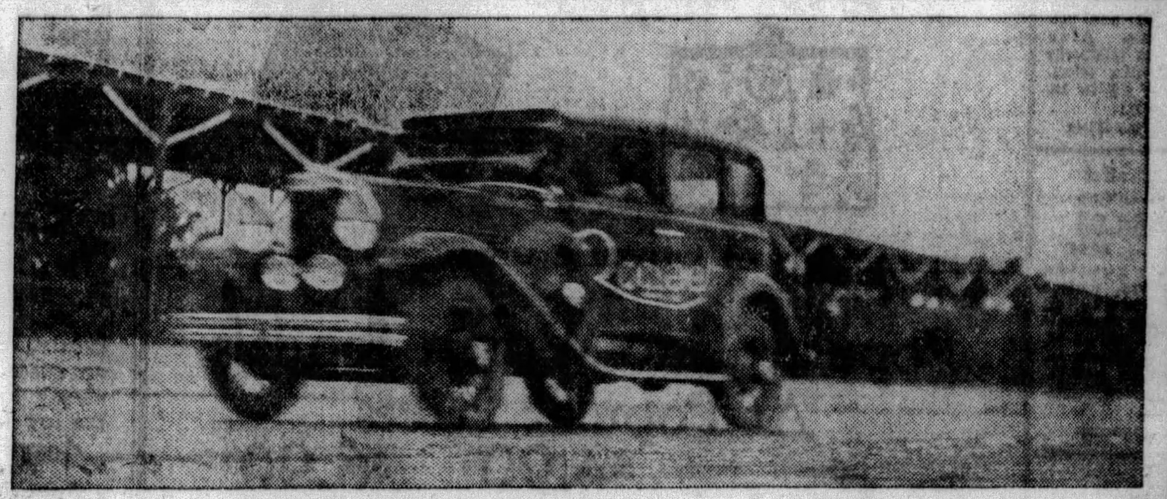
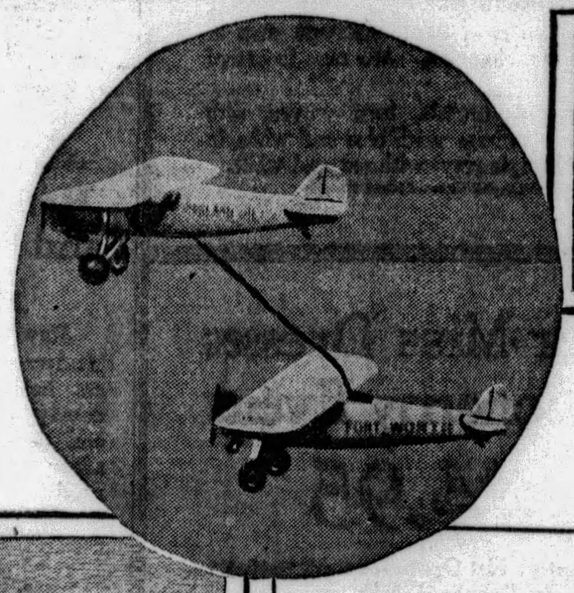
Just think of an automobile going from New York to Los Angeles, immediately turning around and coming back to New York; then after arriving in New York immediately going to Miami; from Miami to Detroit; then from Detroit to Dallas, and doing all this without the motor once being shut off or the wheels stopped rolling. That, in equivalent distance, is what the Roosevelt has done—never stopping, rarely slackening its speed, then only to take gas, water, oil, food and fresh drivers, on the run, still sliding along just as smoothly, just as easily, as it did the first day of the run.

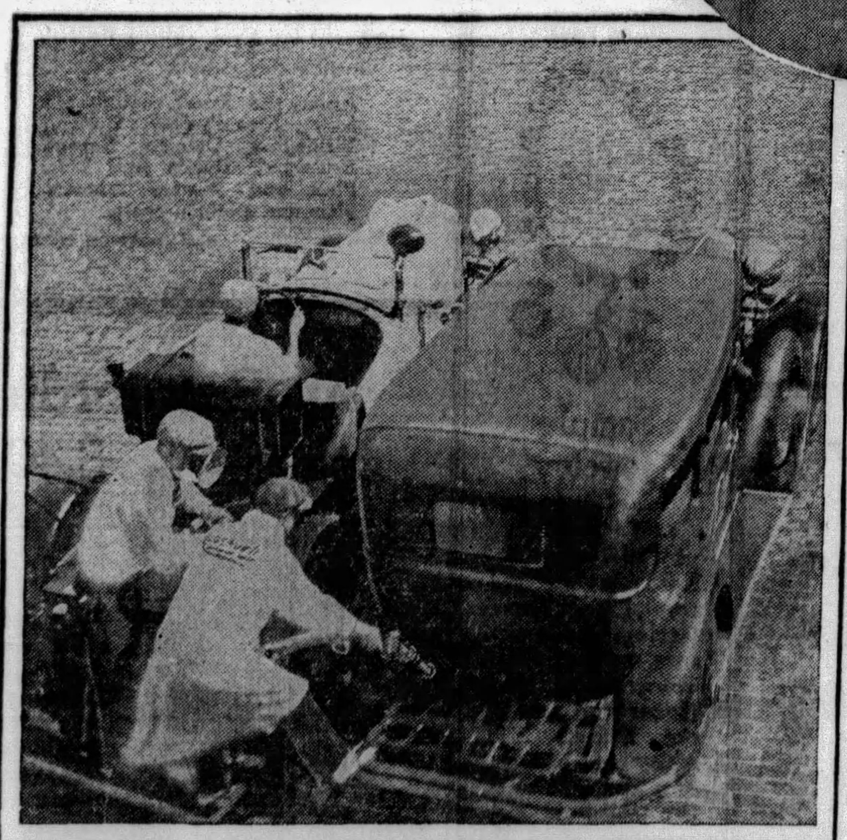
RUNS MORE THAN FOUR HUNDRED FORTY-ONE HOURS WITHOUT SINGLE STOP



ROOSEVELT EIGHT IN THE STRETCH ON INDIANAPOLIS SPEEDWAY—After smashing all existing records for continuous operation, the Roosevelt kept right on going.



WHILE THE A.A.A. OFFICIALS AND TIMERS LOOK ON—Members of this board selected the car at random from the final assembly line, checked every detail, and have been on duty both day and night, checking all operations. Record is subject to official A.A.A. and A.I.A.C.R. confirmation after completion of run.



A COMPARISON OF RE-FUELING IN THE AIR AND ON THE GROUND. Above—Companion plane feeding gasoline to the Fort Worth. Below—"Mother" car feeding gasoline to the Roosevelt on the run under supervision of A.A.A. officials. This is a delicate operation, either aloft or on the ground. The slightest deviation of either control stick or steering wheel means a pile-up.

SILENT FILMS BEING RE-MADE INTO DIALOGUE PLAYS AT VARIOUS STUDIOS

By DOROTHY HERZOG.

(Copyright, 1929, By Premier Syndicate.)

HOLLYWOOD, July 1.

GENE TOWNE, W. K. Sine-Penner, opines that a darn good theme song for a gambling flick would be: "I'm Always Shufflin' Along." Okeh, deal 'em out, Gene!!!

Many of the excellent plays once camera-ed into celluloid are going to be re-made via the talky route. Buster Keaton, for instance, is getset to star the production wheels for "The New Henrietta." He starred in this yarn several years ago, only then it was called "The Sap." Recollect?

John Gilbert.

And then there's Fox. That kumpny plans to reel "Cameo Kirby" into an outloud. Jack Gilbert starred in this once upon a time. As a talky it is bound to have a bit of song and much of music. Hence, Norma Terris and J. Harold Murray will head the cast, direction Raoul Walsh. Um, Broadway legit divorcees. So go the talkies, digging gold from the archives of the be-craped silent drammer.

Marion Davies Finishes Talkie

Marion Davies completes work in her initial talky, "Mariana," direction Bob Leonard. Bob almost missed megaphoning the last shots of Marion's flick. Um, he drank too much ice water and the temperature on the set being nobody's business Bob keeled right over. He was rushed to the hospital and given pronto treatment. As for Marion, she has been having a little fun of her own by going to the dentist nearly every afternoon. She survives the deadly bz-z-z of that arch grinder with cheery good nature. Lawd, Marion, how do you do it? Incidentally, that little gal received a tack of congratulatory wires on her whoopee singing-dancing number in "The Hollywood Revue." No, none arrived collect!!!

Marion Davies.

Ingram Hankers For Hollywood

SCREENALITIES: Whispers from abroad indicate REX INGRAM, formerly an ace U. S. A. director, has a hankering to return to this country. Rex is in Paris now with his wife, ALICE TERRY. 'Tis just possible some company may lure him across 3,000 miles of Atlantic and ditto of rail to a local lot and grief and fun. . . MR. and MRS. CAMPBELL GULLEN, W. K. English stars, entertaining a small gathering of friends on the veranda of their home. Said home overlooks the glittering lights of Hollywood and Los Angeles. . . MRS. BASIL RATHBUN plots against any chance of getting sunburnt. She has a reddish hair which dislikes a complexion burn and Mrs. Rathbun agrees with it. . . WILLIAM BOYD, of Broadway, is rehearsing HELEN MENKEN, ANDERSON LAWLER et al in "The Top of the Hill." This is a new play by Charles Kenyon—Jane Winton's husband. . . BLANCHE SWEET is yet another to open in a new play next week. Blanche is happy as a kid getting back into histrionic harness again. . . And that's all.

Sings Best When Sitting On Top Of Piano

Helen Morgan was called upon to learn a song in 15 minutes for her role in "Applause," talking picture now in production at a Long Island studio. After 10 minutes of futile effort standing beside J. Gorney, the composer, who was playing his tune, "What Wouldn't I Do for That Man," Miss Morgan called for a stool. When the property man brought it she used it for a step and sat on top of the piano.

"Now play it," she said. In five minutes she had mastered the song and was able to sing it without piano accompaniment.

"All my life I have been singing my songs while sitting on top of a piano," Miss Morgan explained, "and I can sing a song better when I am in my accustomed spot."

In "Show Boat" Miss Morgan sang "My Bill" while perched upon piano and in her night club work she always sat on a piano while singing.

MARTINS FERRY BLOCK BURNS

MARTINS FERRY, O., July 1.—(AP.)—Twenty persons were injured, eight so seriously they were taken to hospitals, when fire did $350,000 damage to the plant of the Scott Lumber Company and nearby homes and private garages last evening.

Twelve homes, eight garages and the lumber yard were destroyed and 10 houses partially destroyed, the fire wiping out practically an entire city block.

Ralph Kuckuck, 24, a member of the Martins Ferry fire department, and Paul White, of Colerain, a volunteer firefighter, were the most seriously hurt. Kuckuck suffered fractures of both legs and White a crushed shoulder. The others in the hospital were firemen and volunteers who were burned and bruised.

The fire was believed to have started in a paint warehouse of the lumber concern, which is a large firm with headquarters and supply yards here and maintaining branches in a number of Eastern Ohio towns.

Firemen from Wheeling, W. Va., and Bellaire, Bridgeport, Yorkville and Tiltonsville, in Ohio, came to aid the local department.

The fire started at 6:30 o'clock and burned for several hours before it was brought under control.

W. W. Scott, president of the lumber company, said the damage incurred by his firm would total $200,000, covered by insurance. Harry Coleman, chief of the Martins Ferry fire department, placed the loss to the residences and garages at $150,000.

22 Guests Taken Ill From Wedding Cake

CHICAGO, July 1. — (AP.) — Twenty-two guests at the wedding Saturday of Louis Assaro, 22, and Mrs. Edith Comrata today were suffering from food poisoning. The wedding cake was held responsible. The 22 became ill shortly after the wedding supper. Six physicians were called, and the sufferers were placed in makeshift beds throughout the house.

Police said liquor was served at the wedding feast, but they eliminated it as a cause of poisoning when they learned that several children, who did not partake of it, were among those ill.

Missing Airplane Safe in Honduras

TAMPA, Fla., July 1.—(AP.)—A cablegram received here today says the Southern Star, which had been reported missing, landed at Tela, Honduras, at 1:15 o'clock yesterday. Capt. John K. Montgomery, flight commander, planned to take off for Panama this morning, the message said. No other details were given.

This Playing Dead No Cinch, Says Mr. Sellon

Playing dead is one of the most exacting tasks that can be assigned to an actor, believes Charles Sellon, veteran thespian of stage and screen, who is called upon to perform this feat in the course of "Big News," a dialogue feature in which he fills an important role.

"One little movement of a taut muscle could so easily ruin the entire scene," explains Sellon. "The flicker of an eyelash caught by the camera would spoil the illusion of the story. The nervous strain of trying to remain absolutely rigid is very trying. After a scene of this kind I feel as tired as though I had done a hard day's work."

Sellon plays dead in "Big News," as the result of a murder about which much of the mystery, suspense and thrilling action of "Big News" revolves. Caught in its whirl are Robert Armstrong, who plays the leading role; Carol Lombard, in the featured feminine characterization; Sam Hardy, Warner Richmond, Tom Kennedy, Cupid Ainsworth, Herbert Clark, Wade Boteler, Louis Payne and other well-known players.

'Mrs. Wiggs' Bill For Week in Pitt

Tonight, in the Pitt, "Mrs. Wiggs of the Cabbage Patch" will be presented on the stage for the first time in many years in Pittsburgh, being the vehicle for the week for the George Sharp Players. Following the Saturday matinee there will be a party for kiddies on the stage, with refreshments and greetings of the players.

The attraction in the Pitt next week will be "Dancing Mothers," a modern comedy drama.

The Penalty of It

THE Dolores Farris listed as the "heart" of the murdered Frank Marlow was favored by several New York newspapermen who had a way with their dramatic editors. The Farris photos appeared frequently in the drama departments, as a result, and the lass who had a man who had "influence" on Park Row was being made famous.

In the last few days, however, the same photos have been frontpaged in connection with her sweetheart's "ride" and Miss Farris' career is jeopardized. Others similarly situated have had to assume another name and start all over again to win prestige and distinction, for even illicit Broadway is the first to sneer and finger-point at its daughters in distress.

Oop!

And the Girl in the Office Next Door says of Police Commissioner Whalen: "He hates publicity like Polly hates crackers!"

A Form of Criticism

JOE FRISCO, the headliner, and one of the columnists haven't talked for a year, after a quarrel. One night they were at different, but nearby, tables in a Broadway beanery, and a mutual friend tried to reconcile them. The newspaperman spurned the proposal. "You're silly," said the affable arbiter, "Frisco might give you some good gags for your column."

"If I thought," snapped the Park Rowgue, "that he had a good gag left in him I'd have made up with him long ago."

Add Similes

Abe Martin's: "He's the kind of a guy who would go on stage if a magician asked him to!"

The COLONIAL TELLER

VENEZUELA MAN SELECTS BANK IN PITTSBURGH

Takes Almost Three Months for Money To Arrive.

An American oil man, working in the petroleum fields near Maracaiba in Venezuela, opened a Savings Account by mail in The Colonial Trust Company in Pittsburgh, although he had never been in Pittsburgh, had never seen The Colonial and did not know any of the officers or employes of the institution.

In the letter to The Colonial he said he had selected it on the recommendation of a friend who had been a Pittsburgher. The first deposit and all subsequent deposits have been sent by the oil man in English drafts and it takes just a day or two short of three months for the money to reach here.

The account was started in 1925 and is now a sizeable one. No official of the bank had seen the distant depositor until almost three years after the account had been opened, when he stopped in Pittsburgh on his way from Venezuela on a visit to his home in Arizona. In a conversation with R. D. Wetherell, manager of The Colonial's Savings Department, he said that it is only when a person gets far from home that he realizes the importance of a safe, secure place for surplus funds.

THE PURPOSE OF THIS PAGE

Next to the Church, a modern trust company comes probably closer than any other human institution to the daily life of the people of its community.

Men and companies tell it their plans for business. People in grief or in trouble come to it for advice or help. It is a business partner for a man in his life; it is often the protector and counsellor of his family after his death. It touches a thousand businesses; it has its finger upon the financial and business pulse of the community.

The daily happenings in such an institution as this must surely be "news" to the public. Believing that they are, we are presenting some interesting facts about banking in a series of pages like this.

SAVE $7 A WEEK AND GET $1,500

Takes Only Four Years To Make Small Deposit Reach That Sum.

Many depositors at The Colonial make regular weekly deposits of a specified sum. If you pick out an amount which you can save each week without sacrifice and then make a practice of saving it, no matter what happens, you have the greatest chance of reaching your objective.

If you will deposit $7 a week, it will amount to $1,578.27 in four years. Of that sum, $122.27 will be the interest The Colonial has added to your account.

TRUST COMPANY WINS PROPERTY FOR CHILDREN

Discovers Injustice In Transfer and Recovers Real Estate.

SHOWS GUARDIAN VALUE

This is a true story. It is taken from experiences of John W. Chalfant, Vice President in Charge of Trusts at The Colonial Trust Company. The names are concealed, for obvious reasons, but the incident is actual fact. It is an example of the kind of watchful, painstaking service the Trust Department gives to its clients.

The Colonial Trust Company was appointed guardian ad litem for two children who were parties to a law suit. Strictly speaking, the duty of the guardian ad litem was to see that the children's interest in that particular lawsuit was protected. But, out of a desire to render every possible service to its clients, The Colonial inquired very fully into the circumstances in which the children found themselves.

Nets Children Large Sum.

The father had left property for the two children in trust, with their mother as Trustee. This property had been encumbered with first and second mortgages, and the holder of the second mortgage had taken advantage of a default in interest and had foreclosed. In its inquiry into this matter, The Colonial discovered that the holder of the second mortgage had not done all that the law required of him, and that he had bought in the property for much less than it was worth.

The thing was done and the matter was closed, but it was an obvious injustice to the children. The law is kind to children, provided alway that some watchful friend is at ha to claim the law's privileges t them. One of the Trust Officers The Colonial laid the rights of th children before the court, as an independent proceeding, quite aside from the lawsuit in which The Colonial was already acting as guardian of the children's interests. The Colonial attacked the transfer of title to the mortgagee. It obtained a judgment which restored to the children an interest in the property. It effected a favorable sale of that interest at a price which netted the children thirty-eight times the cost of the proceedings, and it invested the proceeds in a way which brought a valuable addition to the children's income.

Children Need Guardians.

To do all this, The Colonial had to be appointed general guardian of the children. Thus the emergency brought attention to a matter which had been neglected.....for no child with property should lack the care of a prudent, capable, experienced guardian. Property will not manage itself; ceaseless vigilance is required to protect it.

The guardian who deals with cold figures in systematic routine may do well; but it is the guardian who looks behind these figures into the real welfare of its ward who does best of all.

Tells Many Ways in Which Bank Can Help Man Who Is Starting Own Business

BANK BECOMES PARTNER

Can Put In Touch With Many Helpful Men.

A man about to go into business for himself is forced to make some of the most important decisions of his life. He will be able to make them more intelligently and with greater safety if he admits his banker into his confidence at a time like this, declared A. D. Robb, vice president of the Colonial Trust Company.

A banker can tell a man what the business outlook is in the field he is planning to enter. He can tell him whether too many enterprises of a similar nature have already been started. He can tell him what degree of competition he is apt to encounter.

He can tell him what amount of working capital will be required by that type of business. He can tell him whether the new business should be handled as a partnership or as a corporation, and, if the latter, what kind of charter of incorporation he should obtain.

His banker can tell a man also how much credit the bank can extend him for his business.

A banker can often put his customer in touch with valuable sources of supply for materials, or point out to him prospective sources of sales. A bank like The Colonial Trust Company, through its customers, has an intimate contact with hundreds of different businesses, and may often be able to introduce a man new in business to many of its customers who may be of great help to him.

"Do not be afraid to talk these things over with your banker," said Mr. Robb. "When you go into business, your bank really becomes your business partner. Use it in all the ways you would use a partner."

354 Children Under Care Of Trust Company

The Colonial Trust Company of this city is acting as guardian for 354 children.

Both parents of a number of these children are dead, and the trust company acts for them in all the capacities of a parent . . . buying their clothes, having their teeth fixed, selecting their schools, placing them in the proper employment when they reach an age when they should work, and obtaining the proper homes for them.

In one recent instance, an officer in the Trust Department at The Colonial even had to pass upon the plans one of these small charges was making for a model airplane to enter in a prize contest.

WOMEN MAKE BEST SAVERS

Steadier, More Consistent and Less Inclined to Withdraw.

Experienced officials of savings banks declare that the proper way to save money is by moderate, continuous deposits, week in and week out or month in and month out. And they say that women seem best able to save money in that way.

Many men are prone, they say, to start out to save so much that it becomes burdensome to them and they gradually drop it. But women will very frequently start out to save a small amount every so often and keep it up for years.

There are many instances on the books at The Colonial Trust Company where deposits which started out as low as $2 have mounted to many thousands of dollars.

This Machine Counted and Sorted 90,000 Coins in Four Hours

During a recent large tag-day, the machine counted the almost 90,000 nickels, dimes, quarters and half dollars, sorted them by denominations and had them ready for immediate deposit. It used to be necessary to count coins by hand. Hand counting the great quantity of small coins from a tag-day would sometimes occupy a dozen bank employes during all their spare time in the bank for as much as a month.

Time to Think of Securities After 6 Months' Wages Saved

Bankers Say Savings Account Is Emergency Fund and Needs Enough to Meet the Most Serious Common Emergencies.

How much should a man want to have in his savings account before he begins to think about investing some of his surplus earnings in bonds, etc?

The best way to answer that is to ask "Why do people save money?" People save money largely to provide for emergencies. The two principal "emergencies" are ill health or financial dependence in old age. Financial dependence in age can be prevented as well with funds invested in securities as with savings accounts . . . . , but the other and the most common emergency, ill health can usually be met only with money in a savings account.

It is the place where you can get money in a hurry. It is a fund which is always at par . . . . . you can always get out of it exactly as much as you put into it, plus compound interest. You never have to sacrifice anything to get it. You can draw just as much of it as you need, and not have to take all of it out, as you might, for instance, with money in a bond. In other words, it is the part of your surplus which should be considered your emergency reserve.

Therefore it should have in it as much as a common emergency might require. It is not uncommon for a person to be ill several months. Neither is it uncommon for a person who has been ill to be sent away for a long rest. The ideal savings account ought to be able to carry its possessor over the most serious of these situations.

The goal everyone should set for themselves is to accumulate in a savings account an amount equal to six months' salary. After that has been accomplished it is time to think of other forms of investment.

Survey Made for State Ticker System

NEW CASTLE, Pa., July 1.—A preliminary survey of the facilities of the New Castle police station for handling the ticker service authorized by the Legislature for linking up police departments in all parts of the state with the state police headquarters at Wyoming, Pa., has been made by S. able to hear him up in the balcony.

"I read an article by a professor who wrote that now with the girls having boyish bobs and smoking cigarets you can hardly tell the gals from the fellers. I have solved the problem, however. Tell them a shady story, and if you get a slap in the face you know it's a boy. Yours till Coolidge make a talkin picture playing chess."

Let Us O'Neill and Pray

It is Eugene O'Neill's cruel comment of a certain New York critic "who is so conceited he thinks the Book of Genesis is his autobiography."

By Way of Report

A DRAMATIC critic, in case you didn't know, cannot counsel readers to refrain from seeing a show. It appears that a reviewer is secure in his right to say that a play is a bad play, that he did not enjoy it and that in his opinion others will find it a bore. But he must not make a direct or implied statement that people should not attend the performance, for he might be held on an attempt to injure the business or property of the sponsor, who therefore has a cause for action.

The legal point seems to be the ticklish one; that the producer in sending tickets to a critic invites his opinion and surrenders whatever rights he holds against the adverse opinion of the reviewer. However, in the case of Soandso vs. Who Cares? it was held that the "defendant exceeded his rights in advising the public not to attend the plaintiff's play, exhibition, theatrical presentation, drama or entertainment given for an admission price and with the expectation of profit."

Diplomacy

A soft answer turneth away wrath, as the wise crack goes, and the other day that proverb was exemplified in a Park Row newspaper office. An actress known for spotless reputation on and off the stage was the victim of a columnist, who didn't mention her name, but you would never have known that he meant her unless you read it.

She went right to the editor about it. "I should like to teach him a lesson and sue him!" she almost wept.

"Madam," tactfully replied the editor, "don't waste your valuable time. You cannot sue a man for having bad taste."

How to Be a Bore

ASK actors to play at benefits for you . . . If you want to be popular with the dramatic editor ask him for passes to a Saturday performance, which is the one day of the week most shows expect to break even on. . . . At opening nights applaud the most obscure players, this makes a hit with the critics who are very gullible and believe it to be a genuine reception. . . . When in a cabaret and you're intoxicated, annoy the other fellow's girl, the hospitals aren't crowded enough. . . . And, if you're a producer, and a critic roasts your show, be sure and complain to the managing editor, who will spank the reviewer's wrists until they bruise.

Add Swell Cracks

Observed under the glass top of a Broadway merchant's desk: Many a nobody who isn't known by anybody, becomes a somebody and is known by everybody and everybody tells him they knew him when he was nobody and they knew he would be somebody some day.

PATRICIA PITT'S SOCIETY COMMENT

Debutantes' Roster Grows

IF you don't object to my using a bridge term, this season's list of debutantes seems to have both length and strength, doesn't it? Certainly it is already longer than it has been for a number of years, and I have been more than a little interested to note how many important names are on the roster. Apparently most of our F. F. P.'s have daughters just arrived at the debutante age.

One of the very latest additions to the list of buds is the name of Katherine Harkness Edwards. Katherine, you know, is a daughter of Dr. and Mrs. Ogden M. Edwards, Jr., of Fifth avenue, and since our "little season" is over, it is quite safe to say that she will make her bow next winter. I will have to tell you the definite date of the coming-out party later, though, since Dr. and Mrs. Edwards haven't made it known.

I CAN, though, tell you about the debut of another daughter of a prominent Pittsburgh family. Virginia Frew Wright's name was announced long ago as a debutante of next winter, and now I hear that her father and mother, the Thruston Wrights, of Shady avenue, will present her on Thanksgiving eve, Wednesday, November 27. The debut will be made at a dinner dance in the Pittsburgh Golf Club.

Later that same evening, you may remember my telling you, Mr. and Mrs. James D. Rhodes, of Sewickley, are going to give a ball in the Pittsburgh Club for their debutante daughter, Melus.

GETTING away from the topic of debutantes for a moment, did you know that the Frederick B. Hufnagels, of Sewickley, are going to give a dance tonight in the Allegheny Country Club? They are entertaining in honor of their daughter, Ceora, and their son, Frederick B. Hufnagel, Jr., and the guest list will include members of the young school group.

AMONG those who are leaving this week for their summer homes are the Donald Thompsons, of Sewickley, and their sons, Donald Thompson, Jr., and LeRoy Thompson. They left yesterday by motor for their summer place on Medomak Bay, Me., and have with them Priscilla Pemberton, daughter of the Clifford Pembertons, of Philadelphia, and William Boyd, Jr.

Mr. and Mrs. Pemberton and Priscilla were guests of the Thompsons last week, and several parties were given for the young visitor.

MR. AND MRS. THOMAS TURNBULL, Jr., of Western avenue, North Side, are at their summer home in Virginia, too, and they have as their guest Mrs. A. Lochner de Villiers, of Constantia, South Africa, Mrs. Turnbull's sister. The Turnbulls and Mrs. De Villiers are going up to the Adirondacks for this month, and will return to Virginia to spend the the remainder of summer.

[illegible] Mrs. De Villiers spent some time here in Pittsburgh, you [illegible] staying at the Schenley. I understand that Mr. De Villiers has gone West with a party of friends while his wife is visiting the Turnbulls.

MR. AND MRS. A. N. BATTERSHELL, of Minnesota, announce the marriage of their daughter, Miss Mary Ellen Battershell, and W. Kennedy Fleming, of this city, which was solemnized Saturday in Trinity Lutheran Church, North Side. The ceremony was performed by the pastor, the Rev. Dr. Alonzo J. Turkle.

MR. AND MRS. ALEXANDER DEVITT, of Harry street, announce the marriage of their daughter, Miss Anna L. Devitt, and J. Lester Cutler, of Sheraden, which was solemnized Saturday afternoon at 4:30 o'clock in the Devitt home by the Rev. W. E. Boetticher, pastor of the Friendship Park Methodist Episcopal Church.

ANNOUNCEMENT has been made of the marriage of Miss Clara Summers Moist, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Jerome C. Moist, of Charleston, W. Va., and Elmer Everett Selby, of Wilkinsburg, son of Mr. and Mrs. James H. Selby, of Claysville, which was solemnized June 25 in the bride's home by the Rev. Dr. Wilbur V. Malalieu. A reception followed the ceremony and later Mr. and Mrs. Selby left for a southern trip. Upon their return they will live in Wilkinsburg.

MRS. JAMES COONEY, of Idlewild street, entertained at bridge Saturday night in honor of her niece, Miss Eunice Kingan, of the East End, who has been awarded the Henry C. Frick scholarship to Columbia University, and leaves soon for New York. Sharing honors was another niece, Miss Marie Cooney, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Cooney, of Idlewild street, and during the evening her engagement to Francis Wymand, of Homewood, was announced. An early fall wedding is planned.

ANNOUNCEMENT has been made of the marriage of Miss Mayola Belle Topper, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Jeremiah A. Topper, of Hazelwood, and George A. Clauss, son of Mr. and Mrs. George W. Clauss, of Blandburg, which was solemnized June 14 in the Penn Lincoln Hotel by the Rev. Robert L. Smith. Miss Adaline Topper was her sister's maid of honor and John L. Allen, of Swissvale, was best man. The ushers included Robert L. Topper, Alexander C. Muir and William C. Shaffer. Mr. and Mrs. Clauss will be at home in Center street, Wilkinsburg, after an eastern trip.

THE marriage of Miss Rose Elizabeth Roessler, of Carnegie, and H. Wesley Garwood was solemnized Friday at noon in the home of Mr. and Mrs. Harry W. Garwood in Mueller avenue, Crafton Heights, by the Rev. L. O. Burry, of Carnegie. The bride wore blue crepe de chine with a corsage of white roses. Mr. and Mrs. Garwood are traveling in the East.

MRS. GEORGE R. HEMPHILL, of Beaver Falls, entertained at bridge Saturday afternoon to announce the engagement of Miss Mary Hemphill to Dr. B. M. Moats, of Beaver Falls; and the engagement of Miss Dorothy S. Hemphill, to Robert C. Baker, of Beaver Falls and Rogers, O. The weddings will take place in the late summer.

* * *

MR. AND MRS. CHERUS L. ULLERY, of Wilkinsburg, announce the marriage of their daughter, Miss Frances Louise Ullery, and J. W. C. Remaley, son of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Remaley, of Carnegie place, which was solemnized Saturday morning at 10 o'clock in Calvary Lutheran Church, Wilkinsburg.

* * *

MRS. M. J. LYMAN, of Center avenue, Emsworth, entertained at bridge Friday afternoon in her home. There were 20 guests.

Pioneer Daughters Meet in Old Church

OLD BEULAH CHURCH, the mother church of Calvinism in this part of the country, made an exceptionally interesting and appropriate background for the outing of Keystone Chapter, Daughters of the American Pioneers, on Saturday afternoon and evening. A business meeting was held and then, before their picnic supper, the members and their families wandered through the old buildings and over the grounds and cemetery, enjoying the scenic and historical interests there. The church, which is on the William Penn highway, three miles from Wilkinsburg, was organized in 1784, and the present building was erected with his own hands in 1837 by William McCrea, great-grandfather of Mrs. Robert M. Ewing, a member of the chapter. Preaching began as early at 1780, services being held in the few log houses scattered over the district, which was known as Bullock Pens, from the fact that cattle were penned there for use of the army at Fort Pitt. Worshippers came from what are now Homestead, Sharpsburg, Turtle Creek and Squirrel Hill, riding horses or mules. The first church was built in the shape of a cross of square logs. In it were two or three seats with high backs and in these the wealthy were permitted to sit.

No way of heating the building was provided and the congregation sat through the long services wrapped in buckskins. Among the famous pioneer families who worshipped there were the Milligans, Flemmings, Shaws, Grahams, Chalfants, McCreas, Duffs and Taylors, many of whose descendants still live in Pittsburgh or Wilkinsburg. The original pewter communion mug is now in the Historical Society Building where is also one of the little metal checks that were used to identify the communicants, a survival from the days of persecution in Scotland, when members of rival denominations were wont to break in as spies.

Of especial interest is the old graveyard where are some peculiar epitaphs and where lie 13 Revolutionary soldiers, one of whom is John Hughey, grandfather of the late Mrs. B. F. Jones. From Beulah Church sprang Mt. Hebron Church, the First Presbyterian Church, of Wilkinsburg, East Liberty Presbyterian Church and many others.

THE year's programs have been made out by the Beechview Women's Civic Club, which will begin its season with a get-together meeting in September. Experiences of the summer will be related at this opening session and plans will be announced by each committee. Dr. Luba Robin Goldsmith's talk on "The Different Stages of Life" will feature the October meeting, and the November program will be given by the Western Pennsylvania Association for the Blind. The Bell Telephone Company will have the December meeting, the Christmas party for children set for the nineteenth, being a second event of that month. The Philadelphia Company will give the January program, and the Canadian Pacific Railroad that for February. In March the program hour will be taken by the music and literary sections of the club and in April by children from the Beechwood School. This will be an open meeting to which the entire community will be invited. Business will occupy the attention of the members in May when new officers will be installed and the annual luncheon on May 24 will round out the season.

Sousa Ends Radio Series In Program Tonight

By DARRELL V. MARTIN, Sun-Telegraph Radio Editor

TOTTERING with age, but still the greatest band leader the world has known, John Philip Sousa, as he waves the baton over his charges in the NBC studio tonight at 9:30 o'clock in the last of a series of concerts for the General Motors Family Party, will tell listeners how he has been converted to radio, not only as an artist, but as a listener as well. WCAE listeners will hear what the maestro thinks about radio.

Competing for attention at the same hour will be the U. S. Navy band over WJAS and the Real Folks discussing "Vacation Plans" from KDKA.

Dance music extraordinary will be provided for half an hour by WJAS at 7:30 o'clock. Vincent Lopez and his orchestra will play.

"Rose Marie," "Battle Hymn of the Republic" and "My Buddy" will be sung by Franklyn Baur and Vaughn de Leath on the Firestone Period, WCAE at 8.

"In the Gloaming" is a tenor solo on the Gypsy program, WCAE at 8:30, while Henry Burbig, comedian, will burlesque the fairy tale, "The Old Lady That Lived in a Shoe," WJAS.

"Song of the Flame" will be played by the Black Flag Orchestra in the first of a new series of programs from WJAS at 10 p. m.

Sad to relate but the NBC production of "H. M. S. Pinafore" at 11 o'clock will not be taken by any Pittsburgh station. If you like operettas you may get this Gilbert and Sullivan hit over WEAF, WGY or WSAI.

Raid Night Club
The story concerns a young girl who takes a position as governess in a rich family and, unknown to them, adds to her earnings by dancing in a night club. The son of the house is in love with her and she returns his love although he is somewhat mystified at her nightly disappearances.

The mother, who is constantly campaigning against vice, is instrumental in causing the night club to be raided, and the climax comes when the raid takes place and the three main characters find themselves in all sorts of complications.

A night club orchestra and entertainers of all sorts will contribute to the broadcast.

GERMAN DEFIES ROYALISTS

FRANKFORT-ON-MAIN, Germany, July 1.—(AP.)—Prussian Minister of the Interior Grzesinski launched defiance at the propagandists for a dictatorship in Germany before a monster meeting of Republican organizations.

He declared the Republican form of government which once had seemed threatened, was firmly rooted in the hearts of the German people, who had learned the value of political rights and freedom.

"The Weimar constitution is no longer a mere scrap of paper, but charter with principles with which millions of citizens are imbued. They will not allow this constitution to be tampered with," he said.

Two County Parks To Celebrate 4th

Patriotic band concerts at 7 o'clock will be part of the holiday programs planned for the North and South Parks on Thursday. The Fourth of July heavens will be filled with more than 15 huge set pieces and many sky pieces of fireworks in programs being staged at both parks.

The Sun-Telegraph Fifteen Cent Pattern

SERVICEABLE GARMENT FOR LADIES AND MISSES.

Printed cotton is very popular for this model. It is also suitable for gingham, tub silk, pongee and crepe. In dimity or zephyr it is dainty and cool looking. The fronts have soft fullness below the shoulder extensions of the wrist length sleeve which is made in wrist length and finished with a band cuff. A notched collar outlines the neck edge. Serviceable pockets and plait fullness at the center back are other features of this style. The sleeve may be finished in short length as pictured in the small view.

The pattern for this design is cut in four sizes for misses: 14, 16, 18 and 20 years, and for ladies, 36, 38, 40, 42, 44 and 46 inches bust measure. To make the smock for a 38-inch size will require 3¾ yards of 39-inch material. To face collar and cuffs with contrasting material will require ¾ yards 32 inches wide and cut crosswise. The width at the lower edge with plait fullness extended is two yards.

COUPON.

This pattern will be sent on receipt of 15 cents (silver or 2c and 1c stamps). Make number, name, address, etc., plain. Send to Pattern Department, The Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph, Pittsburgh, Pa.

BANKER FEARED KIDNAPED

EAST ORANGE, N. J., July 1.—(INS.)—Believed to be victim of a daring kidnaping gang, Willard H. Elliott, vice president of the Hobart Trust Company of Passaic, was still missing today.

Elliott left his home here for his office Wednesday morning. He has not been seen or heard from since.

Officials of the Hobart bank announced late Friday that Elliott had resigned. His disappearance was not reported to the police until Saturday, his wife explaining that Frank Campbell, an official of the Hobart bank, had advised her against reporting it earlier because it might hurt the bank.

The bank issued a statement immediately after the disappearance was reported declaring Elliott's accounts were in perfect condition.

The state banking examiners, in the regular course of their duties, examined the bank's accounts Wednesday, the day Elliott disappeared, and pronounced them in perfect condition.

So far as can be learned, Elliott had not told his wife or any of his friends that he had resigned or was about to resign.

Possibility Elliott may have been kidnaped by liquor racketeers is under consideration, it was learned today.

Confluence Worker's Head Crushed, Dies

CONNELLSVILLE, Pa., July 1.—Paul R. Hunter, 23, of Confluence, was killed while loading logs on a train of the Boswell Lumber Company Saturday when his head was crushed between the log loader and the end of a log on another car as the train buckled. His father, A. H. Hunter, sustained serious injuries Wednesday when he fell from the roof of a building.

Nancy Plans Mountain Trip With Rich Relatives To Meet Roger

WHAT HAS GONE BEFORE

Nancy Hollenbeck, young, vibrant and beautiful, reluctantly drops her latest beau, Mat Tully, when her mother warns her against marrying a poor man "as she did." At the rich Craigs' house party, Nancy receives the attentions of Jack Beamer, handsome sportsman unhappily married. Nancy and Louise, her sister, are called home. Their rich Aunt Ellie has arrived. She promises the girls a trip to Yosemite. Nancy hears from Jack Beamer. She pictures herself as the second Mrs. Beamer. Arriving at Yosemite, Nancy finds it dull until a handsome man enters the door. Next day Nancy "meets" him. He is Roger Decatur, a ranger.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY.

CHAPTER IX.

"HE'S a ranger. His name is Decatur, Roger Decatur," Louise explained patiently.

"Decatur? Did you say Decatur? That's all I can make out of it." Aunt Ellie, after five courses and two desserts, was befuddled with food. She spoke very loudly, and one or two bealted diners turned and smiled.

"Shh!" Lou begged, piloting her through the little tables of the dining room, back to the more comfortable chair in the lobby. "Shh! They'll hear!" For Nancy and her ranger were walking out just ahead.

"If it's his name," Aunt Ellie said severely, "he shouldn't be ashamed to hear it spoken. I don't know what Kitty would say about this taking up with strange men—"

"He isn't a strange man, auntie. Nancy met him this afternoon. It's quite all right. Mamma wouldn't mind. She'd be glad Nancy was going to have a good time."

A piercing stare. "Oh, if you would also like to leave me to have a good time—"

"Oh, no, Aunt Ellie. Of course not!"

Aunt Ellie, her suspicions aroused, wasn't easy to placate. It was a real rescue when some new arrivals, surrounded with bellhops and luggage, came blinking into the light from the darkness outside and fell upon her with little cries and gasps of delight:

"Papa, it's Mrs. Watson! How do you do!"

"Well, Mrs. Watson, this is a surprise. A pleasure, indeed."

"How do you do, Mrs. Watson!"

"How do you do. Isn't it beautiful tonight? We had the grandest trip in — we made it in six hours!"

The Porters, mamma, papa and daughters, Gladys and Essie, were distant connections of Uncle Joseph's. Simple, good-natured folk, who toadied to dear Mrs. Watson, and were overcome at the thought of actually meeting her nieces, the Hollenbeck girls who were "in society."

Aunt Ellie presented Louise.

"And to think we never met you before," Mrs. Porter cried, scarlet with pleasure, flower trimmed toque over one ear. "Oh, won't it be nice for Essie and Gladys that you are here!"

Essie and Gladys, stocky, earnest young women with flat heels and mannish sailor hats, giggled appreciatively.

"And where is Miss—Miss Nancy?"

"Out with a beau," said Aunt Ellie, dourly.

The flat-heeled sisters tittered sympathetically.

"Girls will be girls," observed Mr. Porter playfully, and pinched plump Essie's ear. As yet his girls, 20 and 22, respectively, had not been troubled with beaux, but he expected it to start in any time.

"We're traveling in the big car. The big car!" Mrs. Porter hurried in breathlessly. "There's room for seven. Seven, comfortable. Isn't that fine, papa, us four, and you three! Room for all. We can go all over the valley and see the sights. Bridal Veil Falls and all!"

"That'll be nice," Aunt Ellie said, and smiled. Riding in the Porters' car, burning the Porters' gas, would certainly be cheaper than paying to ride in a sight-seeing bus. Visioning inexpensive pleasures to come, she chattered good-naturedly with Lou after the others, bag and baggage, had gone to their rooms. Everything's working out fine!" she said, and when she finally went yawning to bed she didn't say a word about Nancy—still out with the ranger.

The Porters, one and all, were charmed with the prettiest Hollenbeck girl. "Not a bit stuck up!" they decided.

She had exclaimed over Mrs. Porter's old-fashioned diamond rings, set high up on little prongs, from her short, reddish hands. And shook her head sympathetically while Mr. Porter told about the brewery business he used to have, and how wines and liquors undermined the morale of a nation, but beer! Beer was good for the stomach! And borrowed Essie's cucumber cream, and gave Gladys some of her pink nail powder. It was so easy for Nancy to be nice to everyone, when she was happy.

She was happy now. Gay, and lovely and beloved. In her singing heart there was room for even the dull, plodding Porters.

Jack Beamer sent six new novels and an immense tin box of special chocolates. He sent a letter, too. A fat, rambling letter that began, "My precious little girl," and ended "With a thousand kisses from your lover, Jack."

The letter scared her a little, but it thrilled her, too. It made the quick color mount to her soft, apricot-tinted cheek and pleasant little tingles chase each other up and down her spine. There wasn't a doubt about it. Jack Beamer was in love. Terribly in love. He had broached the subject of divorce to his wife and she had agreed that it was inevitable. "I shall probably have her talked into going up to Reno by September," he wrote. "Then three months, and you'll be my Christmas present to myself!"

Married to Jack Beamer before the new year . . . thinking of that . . . building on that kept her from caring too much while Lou fussed over a letter from mamma, complaining that papa wasn't very well, and that unless Aunt Ellie loaned them some money the electric refrigerator would have to go back, that was all there was to it, and they weren't to order anything from La Ville de Paris without consulting papa first, because there had been a very ugly letter about the credit . . .

Lying in bed beside Lou in the darkness, with the cool, sweet mountain air caressing her cheek, she thought about it with mounting excitement. Mrs. Jack Beamer! No more reading menus backwards then, no more dyeing and ripping and making over. No more choosing of things that would be good style next year, and wear well!

Pictures of Jack . . . Jack taking a blue ribbon in the horse show, leading a spirited high-stepping mare into the ring . . . Jack jumping out of an expensive foreign-looking car . . . Jack in evening togs, making head waiters scamper . . . Nancy's heart skipped a beat in the dark.

Yes, absence makes hearts grow fonder. Nancy had almost forgotten the feel of his too eager mouth on hers. The way his hot, heavy hands blundered over her shrinking shoulders on the night he told her he couldn't get along without her.

She was happy, remembering the things she wanted to remember, shutting the things she was afraid to remember stubbornly out of her mind.

"Happy?" Aunt Ellie asked next morning at the breakfast table, wanting to be thanked again for all she was doing for her nieces.

"Oh, wildly happy!" Nancy cried, drowning out Lou's tepid rejoinder, "Aunt Ellie Watson, you're the dearest, darlingest aunt in the world!"

"Lord, I hope cantaloupe and herring don't give her indigestion," she giggled to Lou a few minutes later when Aunt Ellie lumbered ahead with the Porters. "I've just naturally got to catch her in a sweet humor. I—I'm going on a trip with my ranger."

With the ranger! Nancy Hollenbeck, are you crazy?"

Nancy laughed out loud. "Of course not. I was never saner in my life. The Porters are going to chaperon the party, but they don't know it yet. Lou, darling, it's such a crime to stick around the hotel with that rocking chair hound and all the great, wonderful country going to waste. Roger — yep, he's Roger now—is going up in the high meadows and I'm going with the Porters. I've got them half sold to the idea already, but they don't know what it's all about. I hate to leave you poked here with Aunt Ellie, but something tells me this is my last fling—my last little flare of independence before I settle down . . . it's just a harmless little flirtation. I'm going to marry Jack Beamer before another summer rolls around . . . oh, Lou—please! Don't you see what it means to me?"

"No, I don't," Lou said, bitterly. "I don't understand you at all, Nancy. You—you frighten me!"

But when the delicate oval of her little sister's face lengthened, and her bright eyes dimmed, she gave in. After all, why should they both sit and rock with Aunt Ellie? Bad enough for one to be miserable. And with the respectable Porters, surely it would be all right.

One Kiss By H. LOUIS RAYBOLD Daily Short Story

DERRY Carruthers, of the New York firm of Carruthers & Son, exporters, sat on the small of his back on the rear seat of his friend Jim's seven-passenger touring car and viewed the desert landscape of New Mexico without joy and without enthusiasm.

He was waiting while Jim, who had been picked up by a friendly passing flivver, had gone on 40 or 50 miles or so to get a fresh supply of water, for their radiator suddenly sprung a leak in a land where water was the hardest thing in the world to secure.

And while he waited and thought unprintable things about the blazing sun, which penetrated — and was probably blistering — the top of the automobile, he reflected idly on the Gilbert and Sullivan line, "Things are seldom what they seem."

Nothing as yet turned out in regard to this transcontinental journey as prophesied by the eager optimistic Jim when urging Derry to accompany him.

"We'll take Dad's old car and we'll sure have one vacation to remember. We'll stop in and say 'Howdy' to the Grand Canyon and peek into the Indian Pueblos. We'll see the real desert, those vast stretches of sand, sand, nothing but sand."

The Grand Canyon was still many miles away but even the desert hadn't been what Derry expected. When you finally got to it after being ferried across bayous and hauled out of ditches and detoured through gumbo, the desert wasn't sand, sand, nothing but sand, after all. It had color and life and vegetation. Prickly pear that was beautiful in blossom. Wierd, grotesquely-limbed cacti that towered above you.

Jim had said you wouldn't feel the heat of the desert because of the aridity of the atmosphere. Here again he was mistaken. You did feel it. Weren't Derry's lips at that very moment cracked and parched and his cheeks tanned to the consistency of leather?

It began to seem hours since Jim had departed and Derry, who had elected to stay with the car out of sheer laziness, climbed down restlessly and sauntered slowly across the white road.

Some distance away was a slight rise and Derry went over to it. From its summit he gazed on what seemed to be an endless expanse of country. Suddenly, his eyes caught something far away that seemed to glisten. It looked exactly like a miniature lake fringed with young cotton-woods and leading to it, evidently from a section of road beyond where he and Jim had stopped, was a very perceptible trail.

Derry grinned. He wasn't going to be fooled as it was plain many others had been. Here was the sort of trick this country played on the thirsty traveller. A mirage.

But the very thought of a cool lake made Derry think of his canteen and he went back to the car.

Suddenly, as he was in the act of lifting it to his lips, he remembered that he had drained it into the radiator planning to depend on Jim's supply and now Jim had gone off taking his canteen with him. Derry was without a drop of water. At the realization, he immediately became thirstier than ever.

It was yet early in the day and many hours of heat stretched before him unless Jim was very lucky in getting a lift back. This particular road was a branch of the main highway and travel on it was light. Not a car had gone by in either direction since the one which had carried off Jim. It was many miles either back or ahead to human habitation.

For the second time in his carefree young life, Derry was smitten with a desperate desire he saw no way to satisfy.

This very trip had been taken to help Derry forget his first experience in wanting something and not getting it. He wanted to marry Patricia Belmont.

With the sole intention of asking Pat to marry him, he had gone down to the Finderley's summer home, only to come upon Patricia under the rose arbor in Bob Fairchild's arms. At the sight, he had turned on his heel and had not seen her since.

Now, waiting for Jim and consumed each moment with an ever increasing thirst that was fast becoming as much physical as mental, Derry tortured himself thinking of things as they might have been. He and Pat swimming sociably out to the float through the blue waters of the sound; Pat and he in the old Bearcat, doing a speedy 45 down the upper reaches of Lake George; Pat and he—but what was the use?

He dreaded collecting the mail that would be waiting for him at Santa Fe. Someone would be sure to write of Pat's engagement. There might even be an invitation to the wedding.

The sun rose higher and higher in the cloudless sky. Small shining lizards slithered across the dust of the road. Derry, growing drowsy, fell asleep but woke almost immediately and found himself trying to moisten his lips with his tongue.

He slept again and roused to the crunch of wheels beside him.

Jim was back, brought along by a dried up little old fellow who looked part Hopi Indian, part Mexican, and was probably both.

"Gosh!" cried Derry. "Give us a drink!" and gulped furiously for a moment from Jim's canteen.

Jim's escort stood up in his seat and waved a lean brown hand toward the spot where Derry had seen what looked like a lake. "Plenty water!" he said.

"Sure!" agreed Jim. "He says if we'd kept on we would have seen a sign that said 'Good Water.' He's native and knows what he's talking about.

Late that night Derry and Jim made Santa Fe and the following morning Derry got his mail. Opening a familiar blue envelope addressed in Patricia's careless scrawl, he braced himself for a shock. Then he drew a deep breath.

"Dear Derry," wrote Patricia,

"Things aren't always what they seem. Bob asked me to marry him and when I refused he kissed me that once in spite of myself. Before I could explain, you had gone.

"Yours hopefully,

Pat."

Northern Lights

THE Northern Lights are not a reflection, but a discharge of electricity in a rarified atmosphere at a very high altitude. The causes are not yet satisfactorily explained.

How to Keep Well

By Royal S. Copeland, M. D.

Blue Monday.

"BLUE MONDAY" is famous for its depressing effects. A few people appear to have the blues on Monday and every other day of the week. They are constantly in the dumps.

To them life seems not worth while. Everything and everybody seems to be working against you. An early death or an asylum of some sort is thought to be the only thing left. Life is a failure!

DR. COPELAND

If you ever had the blues you know the symptoms. The funniest joke will not bring a smile—on the contrary it seems stupid to you. You do not enjoy contact with family or friends. All you ask is to be let alone, to die as soon as possible.

Isn't this a dreadful picture? Yet how many times you have gone through just such an experience.

When the cause of these spells commonly called the "blues," is established they will not seem so serious. Nine times out of 10 an upset digestive system is the root of the evil.

Indigestion, constipation and the resulting clogging of the system, are the real reasons for your knowing you are going to die. The intestinal fermentation produces gases and toxins which poison the system.

We must not expect to disregard the laws of nature and still enjoy good health. You cannot have an unclean intestinal tract and perfect functioning of mind and body. They simply do not mix.

Overeating—eating too much of certain foods such as pies, pastries, rich gravies or meats, a combination of rich foods, will upset the digestive system. You cannot eat three regular meals each day and then eat between meals and before going to bed, without paying the penalty.

A headache, perhaps nausea, the blues and many other symptoms will surely follow such abuse of the body organs. The machinery of digestion and elimination can break down just as machines of wood and metal will rebel if overworked.

Waste no time in correcting the trouble. Take a cathartic like castor oil, follow this with citrate of magnesia or milk of magnesia. Then reduce your diet to simple liquid or soft food for 24 hours.

You will be surprised how soon all your troubles will disappear. The blues will fade away and everything will be rosy.

With this warning from Nature, correct your habits. Eat less often and with more judgment. Take a short brisk walk each day. Exercise your muscles. Occupy your mind with pleasant thoughts—seek pleasant companions and read good books. You will be surprised how such a manner of living will affect your disposition as well as your health.

Answers to Health Queries

H. G. Q.—How can I reduce? Are reducing tablets or preparations harmful in any way?

A.—If you restrict your diet with regard to sweets and starches and take some regular exercise daily you should lose weight and benefit generally. I am not familiar with such preparations, therefore cannot advise you about them.

The Slipper Mystery -:- By Truda Dahl

"NOW what in the world can this thing be? I'm quite sure I've never seen anything like it in all my life!" And the poor little mermaid looks so bewildered and perplexed over her find. And no wonder, for where in the world in her palace of coral and shells would there be any need for the dainty little slipper that has floated away down through the green depths of the waters?

To her it's just another of those mysterious things that she finds occasionally on her journeys through the depths of the ocean. 'Way down there on the bed of the sea she finds all sorts of queer things which her earth sisters have dropped overboard and she wonders and ponders over them! And she never dreams of the heartaches that some of these lost things cause. A slipper lost is a tragedy to the earth girl, but only a mystery to the mermaid.

Lillian Suddenly Realizes That Marion No Longer Can Be Kept in Cotton Wool.

I WAS glad that other mothers and daughters were waiting for a word with the head mistress of the Whitney School, so that there was no opportunity for Lillian to answer Mrs. Barnes' pertinent query concerning Ronald Brixton. I guessed that the simple question had upset my friend and was glad to find a deserted corner in a room near enough the hall to see the Brixton's when Marion should bring them back with her, and yet removed from the observation of the women and girls surrounding the head mistress.

"Did you hear what she said, Madge?" Lillian murmured when we were safely out of earshot.

"I heard her ask, 'Why should you?' when you said you could not forbid Ronald's attentions to Marion," I replied nonchalantly. "Is that what you mean?"

"You know it," she replied resentfully. "'It wasn't what she said'—you know the rest of the quotation. I don't mean I'm sore. I'm just wondering. Does she think——?"

She stopped and looked at me appealingly. I seized my fast-slipping courage, held it fast and answered her.

"She thinks, as I do, that you have kept Marion too much in cotton wool. Instead of half apologizing for permitting Ronald to come to see her, you ought to take it as a matter of course. If you don't want Marion to magnify the idea you mustn't take it so seriously."

She looked at me steadily for an instant, then slapped me on the shoulder.

"I won't bite you, honest!" she said, with a touch of her old impish humor in her eyes. "And I'm much obliged to you and Mrs. Barnes. Come back into the hall again. I see Marion coming up the steps with the whole Brixton family in tow. I must do the honors for Helena, of course."

She was her poised, sensible self again, at least for the present, and her manner toward Ronald was the perfection of graciousness, not only when introducing him to Mrs. Barnes, but through the long afternoon, when, after Marion and Carolyn had established their belongings in their room, we all drove through the hills surrounding Sackettsville, finishing with a chicken and waffle dinner at a mountain cottage which Marion had told us was the ideal dining place for every Whitney girl.

She was even complacent, outwardly at least, when upon our returning the girls to the school, Ronald so absorbed Marion's attention that one of the teachers in the doorway reminded her and Carolyn that it was almost lock-up time. Marion only had time to give her mother a hasty kiss and a promise to see her in the morning before our drive back. Then the doors of the school closed upon her and Carolyn, and I, sensing the loneliness of the two mothers, made a gallant effort to keep them talking about everything and nothing until bedtime.

We had time only for a glimpse of the girls the next morning. They were extremely busy, prettily officious and important, as were all the seniors, in welcoming the other pupils back to school. And when we had said farewell to Helena Brixton and her son, Lillian and I started upon our return journey with a queer feeling that we had left some part of us behind.

Household Hints

Fuller's earth should be used instead of soap for cleaning paint that is very dirty.

A little water at the bottom of a pan when roasting a tough chicken will help make it tender.

If after serving a hot joint of boiled beef you put it back into the water in which it was boiled it will be much more tender when served cold than if put into the larder dry.

Baking-tins that have become blackened from long use in the oven should be boiled for a couple of hours in strong soda water. It will then be easy to scrape away the discoloration with soap and silver sand.

Milk kept in a large shallow basin will remain sweet longer than if kept in a deep jar.

Grease can be removed from the hair by washing it in warm water to which a teaspoonful of borax has been added.

If your fingers are fruit-stained, soap your hands thoroughly before you let any water touch them. If you wet them first, you will find it difficult to get them clean.

Cream of tartar will clean white kid gloves that are only slightly soiled. When really dirty, rub them with a piece of flannel dipped in benzine and finish off with breadcrumbs.

Tomorrow's Horoscope

Tuesday, July 2

THE auguries drawn from this day's astral mutations must be read as fairly benefic. While there may be some slight delays or obstructions, the general tone is propitious, with promise of favors or preferment in employment, good financial prospects and some sudden change or journey which will spell progress. The personal contacts may be pleasant and of great advantage.

Those whose birthday it is may anticipate a successful and prosperous year, with some honor or benefits in employment, and with profitable and pleasant personal relations. There is likely to be an unforseen change or journey.

A child born on this day may be capable and clever, and should reach a fortunate position and one of esteem in life through its own popularity and merit.

Attempt the end and never stand to doubt: nothing's so hard but search will find it out.—Herrick.

Correct Manners

By MRS. CORNELIUS BEECKMAN

The Wedding Invitation

DEAR MRS. BEECKMAN:

1. Should a wedding invitation be answered? If so, what words should be used?

2. What words of congratulations should be written on the card that is enclosed with the wedding present? Mrs. S.

IF the invitation is to the church ceremony only, it is not necessary that we answer it. But if the invitation is also to the reception, it should be answered.

This is the form, if you are accepting for the reception:

Mr. and Mrs. Samuel Mallory Bald accept with pleasure
Mr. and Mrs. Anthony Willard's kind invitation for Tuesday, the thirtieth of June at five o'clock

Write the acceptance on the first page of double-sheeted letter paper, and space as I have indicated.

2. It is not necessary for you to write anything on the card if you enclose your visiting card, since a present arriving at this time carries its own message. However, if you wish, you may write (and it is perfectly correct, of course), "Best wishes and love to you both," or "Best wishes for your happiness always."

The Perfect Hostess

DEAR MRS. BEECKMAN:

Is it proper for the hostess when entertaining at a luncheon, evening or dinner, to sit at the table with her guests and take a hand in bridge, or should the hostess stay out of the game and wait on her guests when serving? S. H.

IT is better form for the hostess to have everything so carefully and completely planned that she may play cards with her guests. It makes guests feel awkward and embarrassed not to have the hostess join in the game.

Long or Short Sleeves

DEAR MRS. BEECKMAN:

Please tell me which is correct—long sleeves or no sleeves for the bridesmaids at an afternoon wedding. The bride's dress has long sleeves and I should think, therefore, that the bridesmaids' dresses should have long sleeves also. However, there seems to be some controversy among the bridesmaids.

THE bridesmaids may wear either dresses with long sleeves or dresses with short sleeves. Sleeveless dresses are not very effective for bridesmaids, I think. Long collars that form sleeves are effective too. The fact that the bride wears a long-sleeved dress (and I am delighted that she is planning to do this, for bridal dresses with long sleeves are extremely fashionable this year) does not make any difference. The mode of the dress makes the difference.

Meditations of a Wife

By HELEN ROWLAND

Seasonable Tips

AMERICA is going High-Hat. It is no longer swank to be a radical, nor smart to be a Bohemian, and no amount of money "talks" quite so loud as a London manner and a Park avenue accent.

The way to a man's heart is not through his stomach, but through his vanity; and the only diet any woman can feed him that will hold him to her for life is a steady diet of applesauce.

HELEN ROWLAND

Somewhere in the pigeon-hole at the back of every successful business woman's mind is the secretly cherished dream that she will some day meet the Ideal Man, who will "take her out of it all."

* * *

The ideal summer guest is that Christian soul who never asks for anything that isn't on your diet list, never criticizes your servants, never fails to flatter your cook and would as soon think of stealing the spoons as of touching the guest towels.

* * *

A girl used to insist on finding out all about a man's moral character and his business prospects before she married him; now, all she wants to know is the make of his car and how many installments he has paid on it.

A woman may forgive a man for growling at her or even for swearing at her—but, never for yawning at her.

* * *

The difference between being in love and being married is merely the difference between playing with an electric grill and struggling with a gas range.

Some women don't think a shoe is a "good fit" unless it makes them a little uncomfortable; and most men don't think a woman could make them happy unless she knows how to make them a little miserable.

* * *

He who hesitates may be lost; but he who doesn't will be married—before he knows it.

PARLIAMENT TO OPEN TUESDAY

LONDON, July 1.—(AP.)—The new British parliament, with a plurality of labor members, will open formally at noon tomorrow with reading of the speech from the throne.

The speech will be the first ever framed by a labor government.

Although King George will be in London his ill health will preclude his attendance, so there will be no state ceremony. The speech of the monarch, which of course is written by his ministry, headed by premier Ramsay MacDonald, will be read at a combined session in the House of Lords by the new Lord Chancellor, Lordy John Sankey.

It was believed today the foremost place in the speech would be given the question of peace and disarmament, with particular reference to the recent conference of Ambassador Dawes and the premier.

The speech probably will lay out a program of work for a period of about 13 months, with unemployment, reorganization of the mining industry, investigation of the coton and steel industries, housing and possible electoral reform among the other items which probably will be covered.

Date of MacDonald U. S. Trip Uncertain

LONDON, July 1.—(AP.)—Premier Ramsay MacDonald's trip to Washington for a conference with President Hoover still is uncertain as to date, it was authoritatively announced last night. The announcement was made in reply to reports, notably in the Sunday Express, that the Labor Prime Minister would depart in August. Other rumors had declared the trip would be postponed until early next year.

Officers Elected By Scout Leaders

The Guyasuta Scout Leaders Association, of the Aspinwall district, has elected these officers: President, Edward F. Boles; vice president, Fred Henck; secretary-treasurer, Harry Hollis.

Ferry in Detroit Lost by Deficit

DETROIT, July 1.—Declaring that service during the past four years had resulted in an annual deficit, the Detroit and Windsor Ferry Company has announced that it will discontinue ferry service to Belle Island.

INSURANCE CASE SCHOOL VICTORY

PHILADELPHIA, July 1.—(AP.)—The Pennsylvania Supreme Court today refused a reargument in the Erie school district case, thereby deciding that school districts and other municipalities in the state may take out fire insurance in mutual companies.

The school district of Erie intended to take out such insurance, but on a taxpayer's suit, the Erie County Common Pleas Court entered a decree enjoining the school district from so doing. This was done on the ground that the constitution of Pennsylvania forbids loans of credit by a school district to any corporation, and that insurance with a mutual company amounted to a loan of credit by the school district to that company.

Uniontown Has Catfish Mess After Flood

UNIONTOWN, July 1.—Scores of families in the West End enjoyed a big feast of catfish without cost. High water forced thousands of the fish out of a large reservoir at Continental No. 2 and into Coal Lick Run, a stream which runs through that section of the city. The fish measured from six to 10 inches. One woman caught more than 50, while a youth nabbed 100.

Sieves, colanders, plasterer's screens, buckets and pans were used. Many were able to catch dozens of fish with their bare hands.

"SIDEWALKS" GOES AWAY

HAVEY BOYLE LEAVING HIS FAMILY

"The Sidewalks of Pittsburgh" taking leave of his family at the B. and O. Station as he left with a party of Pittsburghers to sail from New York for a tour of France—particularly Paris! His column will continue daily in the Sun-Telegraph on this page.

SIDEWALKS OF PITTSBURGH

by HAVEY J. BOYLE

IN a letter, a correspondent wishes to say a few words for Waynesburg College, in an adjacent county. He writes, after having attended commencement exercises there:

"The late W. J. Bryan deplored the fact that many young people went from homes in which they had been given religious instruction to colleges from which they returned communists and atheists. No such danger in this small, but well-conducted college."

And if I'm permitted to guess, there isn't so much danger in many of the schools. The few students I have observed are more interested in getting a good job after graduation; in selecting the right girl, and in being very regular in every respect, than in probing and examining either religious dogma or political doctrines.

In fact, it is an old complaint of the wing called liberal that the students decline to get much worked up about the various ills that annoy the liberals.

The truth is that for 100 conservatives there is one liberal student and the very fact that he is unusual gives him a color that gets him into the newspapers once in a while.

That arch-communist, Trotzky, or is he a communist?—it's hard to keep track of the names, for he started out as a Social-Democrat, was reported trying to come back to this country. There long has been a Pittsburgh myth that Trotzky once worked here. Diligent search through the records fails to reveal any Pittsburgh connection. The story I heard was that he lived for a time on the North Side. His history, however, shows that he lived only in New York while in this country, and then for but a brief period. This myth goes along with the one that the late Valentino was a bus boy and that Santa Claus has a long beard.

A RECENT reference to radio announcers brings a complaint from a correspondent, who charges that radio stations announce programs in the newspapers and then don't stick to their stories. Many a time, writes the complainant, he has dialed in on what should have been "The Blue Danube" to hear "Hot Nose Pete" on a saxophone. This, of course, he does not blame on the radio announcers, although he warns that much of the switching off of dials is caused by chagrin over changes in the programs.

Speaking of radio, one Pittsburgh feature—a period of hymns—is supplied by an anonymous benefactor to the invisible audience, whose only stipulation is that her name be kept secret. If ever anyone announces her name as the sponsor for the hymn-period she will immediately withdraw her money from the enterprise.

ONE station, featuring religious songs, and offering to sing request numbers, got a request for a number: "Will There Be Any Stars in My Crown?" requested by a husband to be dedicated to his dear wife, who, at the moment the announcer gave her name and her alleged preference, was complaining about the uselessness of husbands and the general futilities of this mundane sphere. When the voice announced her name and preference she immediately changed the dial, knowing her husband was adding fuel to a well-going blaze.

To get away from the serious and to move to a lighter subject, the word is out among the racket intelligentsia that a certain citizen, now enjoying fine health, is scheduled for a ride in the near future. This was confided in all seriousness by a man in a good position to know and he told it with an air: "Looks like rain, doesn't it?"

BRANDON, HOEY IN BATTLE AT HEARING

Clash Over Record of Officer Accused of Attack by Couple; Decision Reserved

The casual remark of Police Inspector James N. Hoey that a question asked by Magistrate A. D. Brandon in Morals Court was "immaterial," tied up the wheels of justice yesterday while the magistrate informed the inspector who was "boss" in his court. The question remained unanswered.

It was during a hearing of Motorcycle Patrolman Herman J. Stubenrauch, charged by Roland H. Nixon, of 200 Cutler street, with beating him in front of his store Thursday night. Widely divergent stories by the policeman and his alleged victim presented such a complication of facts that the magistrate reserved his decision pending action by the police trial board.

Nixon and his wife charged Stubenrauch with attacking the husband and threatening his wife, while the latter said Nixon became disorderly when he bumped into his automobile while chasing another automobile which he believed was stolen. He said Nixon called him a "yellow dog" fired from the prohibition squad, and dishonorably discharged from the United States Army." Mrs. Nixon, he said, scratched him.

Asked by the magistrate if it were true he was discharged from the prohibition squad he paused, and Police Inspector James N. Hoey then remarked that he believed that fact was immaterial. Brandon demanded of Hoey who was running Morals Court, and who was properly entitled to ask questions of prisoners. But the question as to Stubenrauch's prohibition career remained unanswered.

BIBLE SCHOOL IS SUCCESS

A daily vacation Bible school conducted this year by the Union Centenary Methodist Episcopal church, Sharpsburg, was so successful that it will be continued next summer on a larger scale, the Rev. J. K. Pollock, pastor, announced. Closing exercises in the church were attended by 53 pupils, their parents and friends. Recitations, songs and Bible verses by the children composed the program. The school was directed by Miss Iva Tibbets, church deaconess, Mrs. J. C. Fix, Mrs. J. W. Thomas, Mrs. Wayne B. Smith, Mrs. H. A. Bragg, Miss Ruth Moersch and Miss Beatrice Schuster.

Irwin Avenue Girl Swallows Poison

Laura Mealey, 21, of 1905 Irwin avenue, was in Allegheny General Hospital today as a result, police said, of swallowing poison in her home last night following a quarrel with her sister. Woods Run police, who went to her home, placed a charge of disorderly conduct against her, after which she was sent to the hospital for observation. She was to be given a hearing in Morals Court when her condition permitted.

Special Services End Bible School

Special services in the Emmanuel Lutheran church, Etna, the Rev. W. B. Claney, pastor, tomorrow night will mark the close of the Community Vacation Bible School. There will be a program of pantomimes, dramatization of Bible stories and memory work. Several churches of the community joined in the school, which has an enrollment of 120. The school picnic will be held Wednesday.

Tour Improves Pastor's Health

The Rev. Martin Leiseder, pastor of the First Congregational church, Etna, touring Europe for his health, has written to his congregation from Plymouth, England, that his health is much improved. The letter was read at church services.

N. Kensington Boys Rescue Young Diver

Four New Kensington boys yesterday rescued Clarence Forneth, 14, of Cleveland, from the Allegheny River after he had dived against a rock in the river. At the Citizens General Hospital 14 stitches were taken in a wound in his head.

Fare Bites Cabby In Dispute Over Directionss

Becoming involved in an argument with Phillip Levy, a cab driver, 27, of 1807 Cliff street, about going the wrong direction, Harry Miles, 23, a Negro, of Broad street, bit the driver on the left shoulder as the cab rolled along Bigelow boulevard near Herron avenue last night, police reported.

Miles boarded the cab in the downtown section and asked to be driven to his home. On the boulevard a quarrel arose and ended when Miles sank his teeth into Levy's shoulder. He was arrested.

Gun Discharged Accidentally Wounds Two

Two men were injured by the accidental discharge of a revolver in a West Elizabeth garage Sunday night, according to police reports.

Raymond Spencer, 25, Water street, West Elizabeth, garage mechanic, was examining the revolver when it was fired. The bullet struck Ralph Rothey, proprietor of the garage, in the hand, was deflected, lodging in Spencer's abdomen. Spencer was taken to the McKeesport Hospital where it was said his condition is critical.

5 NEW HOMES IN EMSWORTH

A. R. Robinson, building inspector of Emsworth, reports issuing these permits for new construction: To John W. Kelly, for a six-room brick veneer dwelling at 205 Hazelwood avenue, estimated to cost $6,000; George Randolph, six-room frame dwelling, Orchard avenue, $5,500; H. K. Dodge, six-room brick and tile dwelling, North and Lincoln avenues, $8,400; George H. Anderson, six-room brick and tile dwelling, 169 Lincoln avenue, $14,500; Matilda B. Kohler, six-room dwelling, 188 Orchard avenue, $5,400. Vacant property is in good demand, according to realty men and increased building is anticipated with the construction of the Ohio River boulevard, which ends in Emsworth.

BOARD NAMED FOR ZONING

The connection with Brentwood's new zoning ordinance, recently adopted by the borough council, a board of adjustment was appointed. They are Harry Biehman, Albert Lesker and R. B. Deconders. Edward Eiba was appointed building inspector in with the zoning ordinance.

Capt. P. C. Elsey, connected with the new Pittsburgh Steamboat Company, and a resident of the borough, was elected councilman to fill the vacancy made by August Colteryahn, who recently resigned to become superintendent of the borough's park.

Members Celebrate Church Reopening

Next Sunday the Ross Avenue Methodist Episcopal Church will hold appropriate services to celebrate the reopening of the church auditorium. The church building was moved and remodeled last year and the work of redecorating and carpeting will be completed early this week. The program will include prominent speakers well known to the congregation and a special musical program.

Civil Service Test For Postmaster

The United States Civil Service Commission has announced that examinations will be held before July 25 for postmasterships in Dresher and Harmarville. The Dresher post carries a salary of $1,200 annually, and that of Harmrville, $1,100.

Dog, 17, Deports Self as Pup, Missing

"Noodles," little white woolly dog that looks like a pup despite his 17 years, an age in a dog's life corresponding to 80 for a man, evaded the watchful eye of his owner, Mrs. W. J. Lewis, 436 Parker drive, Mt. Lebanon, for the third time in his life and is among the missing. Wide search by Mt. Lebanon police and others has failed to locate him.

Although "Noodles" is hard of hearing, with vision impaired, and is all but toothless, he is lively of action, and Mrs. Lewis thinks somebody has picked him up under the mistaken idea that he is a young dog. If that is the case she hopes whoever did so will be kind to him.

PARK CONCERTS OPEN SUNDAY

The thirteenth season of free municipal band concerts in Pittsburgh will be inaugurated in Schenley Park next Sunday night. Other Schenley concerts will be given August 11, 18 and 25.

The municipal band has been divided into Units A and B, Unit A presenting concerts during the season at Schenley, Westinghouse, Riverview, McKinley, Highland and West parks.

Unit B will play in Knoxville, Carrick, Bloomfield, Ormsby, Magee, Olympia, Troy, Westwood, Hill, Kosciuszko, West Penn, Leslie, Brookline, Wabash, Woods Run, Mission, Lincoln, Armstrong and other community centers.

Charles Passetti will direct Unit A and Frank Panella Unit B.

School Grounds Are Open to Children

Millvale school yards will be thrown open as summer playgrounds for children of the borough, the school board and council have decided. Grounds of the First, Second and Third wards will be opened tomorrow. Members of council have installed two sprinklers in each schoolyard, and will provide swings, slides, sand boxes and other devices. Janitors will supervise the vacation play.

Catholic Daughters Will Hold Picnic

Court Coraopolis 965, C. D. of A., has arranged for its fourth annual picnic which this year will be held at Dravo Park, Wednesday. The features of the day will be swimming, dancing and cards.

27th Ward Women To Meet Tonight

The Women's Community Association of the Twenty-seventh Ward meets tonight in the Reformed Church of the Ascension, Termon avenue, for its monthly business session.

HALL WORRIES OVERBROOK

Borough officials are much concerned over the fate of the new municipal building erected there and dedicated with considerable pomp recently. Following the special election at which the citizens voted to join the city of Pittsburgh, it is now considered there will be little use for the municipal building. A movement is under way, it is said, to transfer the police headquarters in Carrick, located in the old municipal building in that borough, to Overbrook. It is held that there is not sufficient room in the Carrick Building to house both the fire department and the police. By moving the latter to Overbrook it is claimed the fire company in Carrick could add another truck to its equipment. Better jail facilities also would be provided should the change become effective.

Morningside Plans Highland Park Picnic

The annual picnic of the Morningside community will be held at Highland Park, Wednesday, July 17. In order to obtain funds for the annual treat for the children a festival will be held this week on the Antietam extension grounds. The association also plans to have a fireworks display on the night of July 4.

QUITS SEPT. 1 ON COURT'S ORDER

Wilson, Found Guilty in Plot To Extort Money, Says He Will Run for Office Again

Alderman George S. Wilson, of the Eighth Ward, convicted in the county graft probe, tendered his resignation to court today, effective September 1, thereby evading a four months' jail sentence.

Wilson announced he would be a candidate for the same office at the September primaries.

Judge J. Frank Graff, of Armstrong county, on June 14, ordered Wilson to quit his office by July 1 or go to jail. A modification of the sentence was received at the court house today, however, permitting an extension to September 1, when the resignation becomes effective.

Wilson, accompanied by his counsel, Attorney Gilbert H. Zehner, paid a fine of $1 and costs of prosecution, at the sheriff's office.

Wilson was convicted February 13, along with Charles W. Collins, investigator for the Children's Service Bureau, and George P. Andrews, private detective, in an alleged conspiracy to extort money from slot machine owners by prosecution. He was found guilty of extortion, conspiracy and malfeasance in office. Sentence of Collins and Andrews was suspended on condition that the latter resign.

EAST LIBERTY PLANS PICNIC

Thirtieth Ward to Get Two Concerts

Announcement has been made by Mrs. R. B. Gardner, chairman of the citizens committee of the Thirtieth Ward, that two band concerts will be held in that district instead of one, as in previous seasons. The concert will be held under the auspices of the City of Pittsburgh with a well-known band furnishing the music. The first will be staged on July 8 from the veranda of the Knoxville Y. M. C. A. and the second will be held at the same place on July 23.

Outing Arranged by Lodge Degree Team

The Abbie G. Noble degree team, Woodmen Circle, McKees Rocks, will hold its annual outing at Dravo Park Friday. Swimming for old and young and other amusements have been arranged. A dance will be held in the evening.

Will Rogers says

HOLLYWOOD, Cal., July 1.

President Hoover is about finished appointing the committee that is to bring milk and honey to the famished agrarian. It looks like an awfully simple problem they have to solve. All they have to do is to get the farmer more money for his wheat, corn, and cotton, without raising the price to the man that buys it.

The committee will meet, and then appoint sub committees, and the sub committee will appoint an investigating committee, and just before the next presidential election the investigation committee will turn in a report, "After due examination we find the farmer really in need of succor, and we advise making one out of him at the coming election."

Yours, WILL.

CORNERSTONE PLACED FOR MESS HALL

Parents Are Guests of Troops at Ceremonies; J. R. Mellon Makes Talk

NEW FLORENCE, July 1.—Between 200 and 300 Boy Scouts, members of troops in the East Boroughs Council, Allegheny County, began arriving here today for the summer encampment at Twin-Echo, a 65-acre tract adjoining the James R. Mellon estate near here.

The camp was dedicated and the corner stone laid at the new $15,000 mess hall headquarters yesterday, between 50 and 100 grownups taking part. James R. Mellon made the principal address.

The camp, consisting of 10 permanent cabins, a concrete swimming pool, a large mess hall under construction and an immense mountain woodland, was made possible by prominent business men of the East boroughs. John F. Miller, the principal donor, is honorary life president of the executive board.

John Danton, scout executive and camp director, entertained a large group of grown-up friends of the scouts at the camp over the week-end, about 20 boys acting as hosts to their elders. A night in the open with camp fire councils, treks through the woods and other things common to the scouts were enjoyed by the men.

Mr. Mellon joined the Allegheny County visitors shortly after breakfast and spoke encouragingly of the Scout movement at the dedication services. He announced that the boys have full permission to roam his place at will.

Mr. Mellon owns several thousand acres of timbered lands adjoining the scout reservation and it is rumored that fruit trees are in abundance.

The Scouts arriving today will remain at the camp for periods ranging from two weeks to two months, many of the boys planning to camp out all summer.

FIREMEN ASKED TO DEDICATION

The Brentwood Community Association is proceeding with plans for the dedication of its new park set for August 3. All committees are working in unison to make the event a success. Invitations have been mailed to 76 neighboring fire companies to join in the parade and celebration and the Marine Band has been selected to lead the cavalcade. The school board, Boy Scouts, Civic Club, Parents'-Teachers' Association, Girls' Auxiliary to the Civic Club, Volunteer Firemen, Brentwood Presbyterian, Zion Lutheran and S Sylvester's Roman Catholic churches have pledged their co-operation.

Outing Arranged by Lodge Degree Team

The Abbie G. Noble degree team, Woodmen Circle, McKees Rocks, will hold its annual outing at Dravo Park Friday. Swimming for old and young and other amusements have been arranged. A dance will be held in the evening.

SCOOTER DEBUT STIRS TOWN

Have you your Whoopee scooter yet?

If you haven't, you're falling far behind many of your playmates.

All over Pittsburgh, the debut of the "Whoopee" scooter has been enthusiastically received.

Ever since the Sun-Telegraph offered this miniature speedster to any boy or girl who obtains one 26-week subscription to the Sun-Telegraph, there has been enthusiastic response from Pittsburgh's younger generation.

It seems as if every boy and girl in all Pittsburgh wants to be able to go to the store more quickly, to get to the baseball grounds, to ride and race and coast on these Whoopee scooters. The ease with which these sturdy little vehicles may be obtained is a pleasant surprise to many.

If you haven't your 'Whoopee' scooter now, send to the Sun-Telegraph for it immediately—before this great offer expires. One 26-week subscription to the Sun-Telegraph is all that is necessary.

Boy Runs in Path of Auto; Bruised

Running across the street from a playground to his home, Rudolph Valentine, 6, of Forrest avenue, West Homestead, was struck by an automobile driven, police said, by W. Burt Troy, 218 Cedarhurst avenue, Pittsburgh, yesterday. After receiving treatment by Dr. W. A. Langham, West street, for bruises on the head and body, the boy was taken home by the driver. Troy was not arrested, as the accident was unavoidable, according to the police.

North Side Youth Firecracker Victim

Nicholas Miheilc, 15, of 1272 Spring Garden avenue, North Side, was burned last night when a firecracker tossed into his yard by a boy passing in the street exploded in his face.

MINISTERS RAP NEWSPAPERS ON DRY LAW

Dr. Duncan and Dr. Galbreath Criticize Cartoons and Articles on Rum Violence

Criticism of the public press for "failing to back President Hoover" in his campaign for greater respect for the laws was voiced by two ministers of the Pittsburgh district yesterday.

The Rev. Dr. W. W. T. Duncan, at the morning service in Emory Methodist Episcopal Church, North Highland avenue and Rippey street, decried "distortion of President Hoover's sound Americanism." At the community services held on the lawn of the North Boroughs Y. M. C. A., the Rev. Dr. R. F. Galbreath, pastor of the Bellevue Presbyterian Church, assailed local newspapers for editorial expressions and cartoons directed against prohibition enforcement.

CALLED AMAZING

"It is amazing," declared Dr. Duncan, "the extent to which the reading public is met with either distortion or disdain of President Hoover's sound Americanism. The New York Outlook, the Literary Digest, Liberty, the Forum, all contain leading articles in virtual condemnation of the President's call.

"Practically all of the metropolitan newspapers either flatly antagonize the President, or by distorting the news about enforcement of customs or liquor laws, make him look either ridiculous or inhumane. The Sun-Telegraph's cartoon 'Out, Out Damned Spot' is applicable to this spot of antagonism to the government which blots so much of our publicity. Paul Block's quoted cry, 'For God's Sake Help Us,' is the cry which decent and patriotic citizenship will soon have to raise against the public print which gives no aid to loyal people who insist that stable government shall not perish from the earth."

EDITORIAL ATTACKED

Dr. Galbreath decried the "flouting of the law which comes to us in the newspapers morning and evening," attacked the Paul Block "God Help Us" editorial and the attitude of the Sun-Telegraph on prohibition.

"Block laments the border warfare," said the speaker. "That isn't warfare. There is a nobility about war and the causes for which men struggle. This bootleg sniping can't be dignified by the name of war. It is rebellion and rebellion of the most dastardly kind.

"I have with me three newspaper clippings which reveal the efforts of our press to show contempt for our laws, of our nation. Perhaps the time will come when our nation will say to our public press: 'You are not permitted thus to disparage the laws under which we live.' "

Duquesne Resumes Its Summer School

The eighth annual summer session of the college of arts and letters of Duquesne University opened today. Additional courses are being offered in library administration, economics, sociology, science, education and speech. Classes will be held six days each week for five weeks, closing with graduation exercises August 3.

Parochial Schools Picnic at Kennywood

Four Polish parochial schools and churches were to picnic today at Kennywood Park. They were St. Adalbert's, St. Josaphat's, St. Hyacinth's and St. Anthony's churches and schools. Tomorrow the Help of Christians Parochial School and St. Peter's Italian Parochial School are to picnic at the park.

PASTOR MARKS 25TH YEAR IN MT. LEBANON

Growth of U. P. Congregation Under Dr. McCown Reviewed at Anniversary

The twenty-fifth anniversary of his pastorate at the Mt. Lebanon United Presbyterian Church was celebrated yesterday by the Rev. Dr. E. C. McCown, who used as the subject for his morning sermon, "God's Leadership."

In reviewing the progress of the congregation since he became pastor, Dr. McCown announced that the membership of the church now is more than 2,000.

During the period he has baptised 165 adults and 518 children, performed 188 marriages and conducted between 750 and 800 funerals. New members by profession numbered 1,165 and by letter 1,573. The Sunday school has a membership of 2,103.

The call issued to Dr. McCown 25 years ago was on display. On another board in alphabetical order were the communion cards signed at the first communion he conducted.

CHURCH HOLDS BIRTHDAY

The one hundredth anniversary of St. John's United Lutheran Church of Highland Station, McCandless Township, was celebrated yesterday. The Rev. Dr. Ellis B. Burgess, president of the Pittsburgh Synod, presided at the morning service. At a community service in the afternoon the Rev. Walter L. Winner, pastor of the Memorial Lutheran Church of Pittsburgh, was the speaker. At this service the congregation presented John Winner, of Perrysville, father of the Rev. Mr. Winner, a Bible. The Rev. Peter Hiffer, of New Castle, delivered the address at the evening service.

WOMAN ACCUSED IN KILLING

Mrs. Lee Thomas, 28, a Negro, of 98½ Forty-fifth street, was to be turned over to the coroner today in connection with the fatal stabbing early yesterday of Herbert Joyner, 34, a Negro, of 4915 Plum way. Joyner was said to have been visiting at the Thomas home when he became involved in an argument with the woman.

Mrs. Thomas, according to police, drew a knife in a fight which followed and stabbed Joyner in the neck and back, which caused his death several hours later in St. Margaret's Hospital.

Boy Finds Pistol, Shoots Himself

William Murdock, 8, of 524 Fifth avenue, Homestead, is in the Homestead Hospital suffering injuries to the left leg, received when a bullet was accidentally discharged from a pistol he had found yesterday. The boy told police that he thought the gun was empty.

FROLIC NEARS, TICKETS FREE

Day after tomorrow is the big day for Pittsburgh children!

At 10:30 o'clock Wednesday morning hundreds of boys and girls will be ready to start the wonderful rides that the Sun-Telegraph is offering free to the boys and girls of this city.

By early afternoon, thousands of these visitors will be reveling in the midst of the greatest picnic of the year.

The only cost to these guests of the Sun-Telegraph will be the carfare to the park. What could be nicer than bringing your lunch from home and eating in Kennywood's fine picnic grove?

There are a few tickets for this great picnic left at the Sun-Telegraph. Send a stamped, self-addressed envelope to the Sun-Telegraph, with a note asking for tickets and stating that you are under 16.

It has been necessary to restrict the number of these strips to 8,000, so that some of the last requests received will have to be refused. Get your request to the Sun-Telegraph Kennywood Park Picnic Editor early, to be sure of receiving your passes to the park.

Name Commissioner In Stowe Township

Alexander Saunders has been appointed a commissioner of Stowe Township. The appointment fills the vacancy occasioned by the resignation of J. Bernard Duerr, who severed his connection with the board on June 17 while paving bids in connection with the improvement program were being considered.

Bellevue Council Will Open Bids

Bids for street and sewer work and for installation of traffic signals will be opened at the monthly session of Bellevue Council tomorrow night.

NEWSIES TO SEE 'DUMMY'

The great news has broken!

Sun-Telegraph newsboys the city over are to be given the opportunity of seeing "The Dummy," a great juvenile show, at Loew's Aldine this week.

On Monday, Tuesday, Friday and Saturday mornings, at 10 o'clock, contingents of the 5,000 newsboys who have been invited to this great show will begin to vicariously experience the thrills coming to an amateur detective who uncovers a big kidnaping plot and successfully brings about the reuniting of a troubled family group.

Every Sun-Telegraph newsboy is invited to these great performances. They will obtain their tickets from their news dealers and must be at the Aldine Theater at 9:45 on the morning their division of the city newsies sees the show.

A great feature, a comedy which New York City kept over billed time, juvenile screen vaudeville acts—all these will be seen by happy thousands of Sun-Telegraph newsboys this week.

Turnkey Saves Man In Suicide Effort

Turnkey William Flaccus frustrated an attempt of Paul Rager, 36, of Allenport, Pa., to hang himself in a cell in the Central Police Station yesterday, police said. Rager, according to police, was arrested by city detectives on a narcotic charge and will be arraigned this morning.

Lindbergh Tries Glider While 10,000 Watch

ST. LOUIS, Mo., July 1.—(AP.)—Col. Charles A. Lindbergh had his first flight in a glider here yesterday when he soared in one at Lambert-St. Louis Field with more than 10,000 persons as spectators.

Lindbergh spent most of Sunday at the airport and when offered the opportunity by Harry Kuchins, owner of the glider, readily accepted. He said he was well pleased with the glider flight.

SOUTH HILLS READY FOR FOURTH

Elaborate Programs for Celebration Arranged by Groups; Plan Fireworks

The Hill Top and South Hills districts have arranged for an elaborate celebration of the Fourth of July to be held next Thursday.

Dormont Day will be observed at that borough in an elaborate manner, special features having been arranged for the day and evening. Fireworks will be the attraction at night, while the dedication of the new bathhouse at the Dormont pool will feature the day's celebration.

At Brookline an all day celebration has been planned by the Board of Trade with an outdoor film show in the evening at the Woodbourne avenue school house.

The Eighteenth Ward celebration will be held at McKinley Park and similar events will be held at Knoxville and Carrick. A number of private organizations also are planning affairs for their groups during the day.

In the Thirtieth Ward two band concerts have been arranged to be held on the Knoxville Junior High School grounds. The One Hundred and Seventh Field Artillery Band will furnish both concerts under the auspices of the City of Pittsburgh.

Special golf matches will mark the day at South Hills Country Club. A dinner party will be held in the evening while the members' wives will hold a bridge party in the afternoon.

Travels Over City, Pass Award Helps

Mrs. Francis Jordan, 44 Soho street, has occasion to travel around Pittsburgh a great deal. In doing this, she uses a street car pass.

As soon as her housework is finished in the morning, Mrs. Jordan sallies forth on a visit to friends, to downtown stores, to sight-seeing spots in Pittsburgh.

She has been rewarded for her possession of Pass No. 75,216 and says she will do a great deal of traveling this week, by virtue of this reward.

Francis P. Walsh, who has been awarded $5, is a bellman at the William Penn Hotel. Pass No. 84,763 brought him his award, after a wait of five weeks, during which time he once held pass No. 84,767 when an award was made to pass No. 84,768!

THOUSANDS INSPECT SUN-TELEGRAPH MODEL HOME

VIRGINIA MANOR HOUSE DRAWS THRONGS

Dwelling and Furnishings In Colonial Style Please; Will Be Open Five Weeks

More than 3,000 persons yesterday visited the Virginia Manor model home at Midway road and Parker drive, Mt Lebanon. The house is the third home sponsored by the Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph to demonstrate better grades of materials and workmanship.

Cars were parked for two blocks at the model home and three officers from the Mt. Lebanon Township force were on duty to control traffic. Guests showed a keen interest in the big stone house. The Colonial architecture, furnishings and appointments blended to give the quaint appearance of the homes built in the early days of American history.

Special features in the model home attractive to guests include the cozy fireplaces with carved mantels, the built-in kitchen units, the large refrigerator, incinerator, radio outlets and electric outlets.

Furniture with comfort as the keynote but retaining the suggestion of the Colonial home is used throughout the house. Bathrooms are done in tile in rich tapestry effect.

Modern construction is illustrated in the system of steel floor beams. A tile imitating the moss-covered shingles on an old homestead is used on the roof. The stone walls are backed by cinder concrete building units.

The heating plant of the home is a gas-fired boiler controlled by a heat regulator. A two-car garage attached to the home is equipped with overhead doors.

The house will be open for five weeks of demonstration. It is reached by way of West Liberty avenue, Bower Hill road and Cochran road or by way of the West End, Banksville road and Parker drive. Both these routes have been marked with red arrows.

2 MEN SLASHED IN HOLDUP ON 'HILL'

Taken to Hospital After Resisting Attack by Footpads; Condition Serious

Linton Glover, 38, of 1151 Liberty avenue, and Phil Hennessy, 45, of Labor Temple, Webster avenue, Negroes, were in a serious condition today in the Passavant Hospital from cuts suffered when they resisted four Negro footpads at Logan street and Bedford avenue last night.

Glover, according to Center avenue police, was changing a $10 bill for Hennessy, when the robbers attacked them with a knife.

Police arrested Ed Keefer, 28, Negro, of 1310 Bedford avenue, and Robert Moore, 33, of 1312 Bedford avenue, in connection with the attack.

Thirty-five stitches were required to close a gash in Hennessy's throat and 12 in Glover's face.

AUTO CRASHES INTO STORE WINDOW

Parked in Fourth Avenue, It Gets Away; Man Helping To Clear Wreckage Cut

Several pedestrians narrowly escaped injury when an automobile crashed into a large plate glass window of a United Cigar store at 401 Smithfield street, after the brakes of the machine, which was parked in Fourth avenue, became released, last night.

The car, police said, was parked in Fourth avenue, above Smithfield street, and ran about 100 feet into the store window.

William C. Lee, 41, of 398 Simms street, suffered a cut on his hand when a piece of glass struck him while he was helping police clear up the debris. No estimate of the damage could be learned by police.

GENERAL W. W. ATTERBURY,
President of the Pennsylvania Railroad

THE Pennsylvania Railroad has proceeded with characteristic attention to the safety and comfort of the traveling public in its participation in the first 48 hour Coast to Coast Rail-Air Service—effective July 7th from New York—July 8th from Port Columbus and Los Angeles, daily thereafter.

The Transcontinental Air Transport, Inc.—with which the Pennsylvania Railroad and the Santa Fe Railway have associated themselves in this new project—has engaged in the most searching investigation and preparation.

Under the supervision of a staff of experts—headed by Colonel Charles A. Lindbergh—air routes have been selected, mapped, tested by flights. Millions of dollars have been spent in the building of extensive airports. Airplanes have been most rigorously tested.

A private meteorological system has been developed ... also an elaborate system of communications—making it possible for planes in flight to receive weather reports compiled from observations at 82 different points ...

In short, everything possible has been done to ensure in this new enterprise the highest standards of speed, security, comfort—such as mark the daily operations of "the largest fleet of trains in America."

'Jones' Record Margin. Gallery and Espinosa, Long-Distance Throws.

Reds Not Easy Picking. Cards Going Poorly. Grimes Again on Top.

BUCS STILL LEAD LEAGUE IN WINS

EVEN those loyal followers of Bobby Jones who had confidently expected that he would win the United States Open championship in yesterday's play-off of the tie with Al Espinosa, despite the Atlantan's record of having won but one out of three play-off title matches, were surprised at the ridiculous ease with which Jones conquered the Chicago professional of Spanish ancestry.

Al Espinosa

The chances had appeared to indicate a victory for Bobby, his slump of Saturday notwithstanding, and in spite of the fact that the Georgia marvel was defeated in similar Open play-offs by Willie Macfarlane in 1925 and by Johnny Farrell last year. He beat Cruickshank in 1923. But no one had looked for such a walk-away as is seen in Jones' winning margin of 23 strokes. It is doubtful if any other play-off in major golf history was so one-sided.

It is a bad year for Spaniards, anyhow (ask Paulino), but at that just what caused Espinosa to show so poorly yesterday after his great work on Thursday, Friday and Saturday is a question.

ONE possibility is that the great size of the gallery may have had considerable to do with it. Such conditions mean nothing to Jones. He is accustomed to being followed and watched by thousands, even in his practice rounds. He is able to dismiss the small army of onlookers from his mind and concentrate on his game. But Espinosa's case is different. He never before played before such a huge gallery, and the consciousness that so many were watching him, with the consequent strain on his nerves, may have caused him to lose his poise and therefore affected his play.

There are ball players and athletes in other lines who are like that. George Boehler, former Pirate pitcher, was one. Before a minor league crowd he was a wonder, but in a packed major league park he simply couldn't do his act. But all that should take no credit away from Jones. He looks more than ever like the greatest golfer in the world by reason of his victory of yesterday and the fact that only one man ever won the U. S. Open more than three times. Willie Anderson won it on four occasions.

ROY JOHNSON, Detroit's Cherokee Indian outfielder, in addition to the ability he has shown in other departments, is also being discussed around the American League circuit as one of the greatest long-distance throwers to come up in years. One of his most impressive demonstrations in that line was given during the Tigers' last visit to the Yankee Stadium in New York.

Roy Johnson

Somebody had remarked that it was impossible to throw a ball from the Yankee dugout on the left side of the field into the right-field bleachers, but after Gehrig, Koenig, Lazzeri and Durocher had tried their arms and fallen short of the screen, Johnson stepped up, and, without even taking a warm-up throw, heaved the ball over the screen and into the bleachers, a distance of more than 350 feet.

"AND Mervyn Shea, our catcher, can throw it farther than that," said Johnson. "Shea can throw a ball farther than anyone in baseball." But Shea refused to give an exhibition of his throwing power, and many baseball men will commend his judgment. The wisdom of putting a severe strain on a throwing arm in trying for distance in mere exhibitions has always been open to question among the veterans. Some older players cautioned Chick Hafey, of the Cards, one day last year when he was attempting to throw a ball from the plate at Forbes Field into one of the openings near the top of the scoreboard.

WAY BACK in 1895, when Jimmy Ryan, the famous old outfielder, was playing his final season with the Chicago Nationals, a young Pittsburgh player with an iron arm was "showing off" by making long throws before a game at Exposition Park. "Save those throws, young fellow," warned Ryan, "you'll need them some day. A player has got only a certain number of throws in his arm and when the last one's gone he's gone, too."

Some of the modern players, Hazen Cuyler, for instance, take the opposite view. They see a benefit, rather than a danger, in occasionally letting their arms out. When Cuyler was asked one day if he had not run an unnecessary risk in making an unusually long throw to the plate during a game on a play in which he had no chance to catch the runner, he replied: "I don't think so. What's the use of having an arm if you don't exercise it? Every part of a man's playing machinery needs exercise." The record for a long-distance throw with a baseball, by the way, is 426 feet, 9½ inches, made by Sheldon Lejeune during a field day in Cincinnati, on October 12, 1910.

OUTFIELDER MELVIN INGRAM, who is with the Pirates for a looking-over, is not the only former college football star in Donie Bush's outfit. Ingram won 14 letters in baseball, football, basketball and track at Gonzaga University in Spokane, Wash.

Melvin Ingram

Catcher Claude Linton also made a name for himself in college football as well as in baseball before coming to the Bucs. He was a star tackle at the University of Arkansas, and played so brilliantly one season that he was chosen as one of the all-Southern players at his position. Dick Barteil is another who shone in football, but his gridiron activities were confined to high school competition. He was rated one of the best on the coast.

YESTERDAY'S victory in Cincinnati gave the Pirates an even break in the six-game series with the Reds. Ordinarily there would be nothing in such a showing against a tailender to boast about, but in this instance it must be borne in mind that the Cincinnati club, though in last place, is not playing last-place ball right now by any means, and at its present gait is not going to stay in the cellar for any great length of time. They played good ball and got good pitching in their five games here with the Bucs last week, and the outcome of the engagement is by no means discreditable to the Bushmen. The Pirates have shown that they still are fighting, and they would be in first place again today but for the continued poor resistance offered by the Cardinals against the Cubs. Pittsburgh still holds the distinction of having won more games up to today than any other club in the National League.

BING MILLER'S long batting streak was broken on Saturday, when George Pipgras, of the Yankees, held him hitless after the Mackian outfielder had connected safely in 28 successive games. Miller did not approach the best all-time marks in the majors, but he hung up a new one for the present season before he was stopped.

Speaking of the A's, the dollar comes first in the eyes, seemingly, as well as in the eyes of some other clubs. Baseball logic suggested a double-header with the Yanks on Saturday after Friday's postponement, as the A's had defeated their rivals in four of their preceding

German Influence Returns to Prominence in World of Sport

HONUS WAGNER

Wagner, now a successful business man in Pittsburgh, was one of the first German stars to scintillate as an athlete. John McGraw, manager of the New York Giants, rates him the greatest player of all time, and many of the oldtime fans concur in this estimate.

MAX SCHMELING

Now it is Max Schmeling, the "Black Uhlan," otherwise the "German Dempsey," who is a sensational figure in the sporting world as a result of his recent victory over Paulino Uzcudun in their elimination battle in New York. He will meet Jack Sharkey in New York in September in a match which may decide the successor to Gene Tunney as heavyweight champion.

DR. PELTZER

Dr. Otto Peltzer flashed to the fore a few years ago as a world-famous distance runner, and made a triumphant tour of the United States. If the German influence in sports continues, how about a gridiron clash soon between old Heidelberg and that dear Hah-vahd?

JACK TO SHOW NEW DEFENSE AT BOWL

By HARRY KECK,
Sports Editor

Local boxing fans will find a new-style Jack Zivic in the ring against Sergt. Sammy Baker, of New York, in the 10-round main bout in the Meyers Bowl, North Braddock, tonight. It will be Zivic's first appearance hereabouts in more than a year and will mark the beginning of what he and his friends hope will be a successful return to the wars.

Instead of the stalking, wide-open, slugging left-hooker they have come to know, the fans will see Jack move in toward his opponent fully protected from potshots on the whiskers and holding his fire until he gets to close quarters. In short, his style will be not unlike that of Paulino Uzcudun against Max Schmeling in New York a few nights ago, when the Basque protected his head and jaw behind his barricaded arms until he was safely past the German's cocked right and free to concentrate his punching to the body.

SECOND MEETING

Zivic has fought Baker before, some four years ago, in New York, when he was adjudged the loser on a foul in the fifth round, and he believes he knows the way to battle the former soldier to the best advantage. Baker is a killing puncher with his right hand, and Zivic will take no unnecessary chances against this weapon. He has been perfecting his shellike defense at a distance during all of his preparation for this event.

Luke Carney and Zivic's long-time friend, Doc Scott, of West Virginia, will be in his corner. Both have acted as his seconds in numerous battles in the past. Carney had charge of Jack's trip to California a year ago, during which he fought Young Corbett and Jackie Fields.

Young Nanci, of Swissvale, and Johnny Haggerty, of Lawrenceville, who have fought two other good battles in the Meyers Bowl ring recently, the second of which had a sensational climax in which both just escaped a knockout in the last round, are rematched for the eight-round semi-final tonight. Mickey Solmen, of New Castle, and Chuck Zelnack, of Glassport, are in the second number, and Howard Williams, of Swissvale, and Joey Feld-

Buc Secretary's Mother Dead In Home

Message of sympathy today were tendered Samuel E. Watters, capable and conscientious secretary of the Pittsburgh Baseball Club, owing to the death yesterday of his mother, Mrs. Anna Marie Watters, of 15 Buffalo street, Oakland.

The mother of the Pirate official had been in ill heath for a long time and her death had been expected daily during the past two weeks.

Sam Watters, as he is known by countless friends, made his home with his mother and his own family. While the Pirates were in Cincinnati two weeks ago, the son received an urgent message and he left the club immediately to return to his mother's bedside. Two other children also were, home for the sad event.

Mrs. Watters was the widow of William Watters, who passed away several years ago. She was born in Dover, O., 66 years ago. She is survived by one son, Samuel; two daughters, Miss Hazel Watters, at home, and Mrs. Charles Alsmauer, of Farrell, Pa.; two sisters and one brother of Dover, O., and four grandchildren.

The funeral services will be held at the home tomorrow evening at 8 o'clock, daylight saving time.

JONES IS OPEN CHAMP AGAIN

MAMARONECK, New York, July 1.—(AP.)—Bobby Jones, once again the most relentless golfing machine the game has ever known, ground out his third open championship of the United States yesterday with Al Eshinosa as his victim in the most lop-sided title playoff of all time.

The Atlanta amateur marvel crushed the veteran Chicago professional by the record-smashing margin of 23 strokes, in the 36-hole playoff of the tie resulting from their twin scores of 294 Saturday at the end of the regulation 72 holes.

ESPINOSA CRACKS

It started out like a battle as Espinosa, taking advantage of Jones' shaky getway, jumped into a lead of two strokes on the first hole and again on the third. But Bobby did not take long to settle down to the main business at hand. He drew level at the sixth, went into the lead on the seventh and never was in danger of losing the lead after that.

At the first turn, Jones was two strokes in front and he boosted this to a 12-stroke margin at the end of the first 18 holes as Espinosa cracked wide open. Al, as courageous as they come but badly off his game, tried desperately to stem the overwhelming tide without avail. If Espinosa made a great shot, as he often did, Jones made a greater one and so, through the remaining 18 holes, Jones nearly doubled his margin of victory, with a round that duplicated the best he has ever

BENNY VALGAR WINS

BOLOGNA, Italy, July 1.—(AP.)—Benny Valgar, New York lightweight, stopped the Italian, Nando Simionato, in the tenth and final round of their bout here last night. Pifano Islas, Argentine Negro heavyweight, knocked out Karl Krempp, of Germany in the first few seconds of fighting in the first round.

Bass Season Opens Today in W. Va.

CHARLESTON, W. Va., July 1.—(AP.)—Bass, big and little, must beware tempting tidbits in West Virginia streams beginning today.

The tidbits will be those tossed into the waters by hundreds of anglers, who the Game, Fish and Forestry Commission estimates, will take advantage of the first day of the bass season to visit the streams.

BUCCOS WIN CLOSE FRAY FROM REDS

By CHARLES J. DOYLE.

Back in town this morning after their profitable one-day jaunt to Cincinnati, the Pirates left later in the day for Charlerol, where they will clash today with the Charlerol Mid-Atlantic League club in an exhibition game.

For a while last night it seemed as if the 7 to 6 victory of the Pirates over the Reds would lift them into first place, but the Cubs, after trailing the Cardinals by a flock of runs, threw their vaunted attack at the Redbird pitchers with winning effect, their triumph enabling them to stay on top.

Strenuous times appear to be in the offing for the Buccos during the Glorious Fourth period. The Bushwhackers are scheduled to play four games with the Cardinals, the series to open tomorrow, which

JULY 4 RACES PROMISE ACTION

With the addition of two more entries at Bridgeville and three at Washington, where both Negro and white drivers will compete over the Fair Ground oval, the entry lists for the two major automobile races scheduled for July 4 neared the point of saturation.

Wilbur Shaw, Indianapolis, and Shorty Cantlon, Detroit, entered the lists at Bridgeville and will pilot cars in the 100-mile grind at the Speedway on Thursday. The entry list for the board track feature now totals 15.

At Washington, with Jack Johnson, former heavyweight champion of the world, who is to referee the race and pace the racers for one lap, due to arrive sometime today, some 18 drivers are expected to face the starter's gun.

STARS VIE IN A. A. U. MEET THIS WEEK

VIC AND PETE LOCAL HOPES AT DENVER

By JESS CARVER

Among the events swept into a heap for the enjoyment of the sport loving percentage of the population during the week now with us is the annual A. A. U. track and field championship meet, which has been shoved off on Denver, where there isn't supposed to be a cough in a trainload — outbound.

Vic Pickard

Pittsburgh will be represented by a doughty pair from the local university, viz. Pete Bowen, sprinter, and Vic Pickard, pole vaulter. As neither has ever won a national A. A. U. title before, they will both be competing in the junior class. It's doughnuts to rubles that neither will make the senior classification by winning this year. Bowen appears to have run too much already this summer and Pickard seems to find a big meet too much of a mental handicap. He always places high, but seldom wins.

INTEREST IN CENTURY

Chief interest in this meet will center about the century dash, as Simpson, Bracey, Tolan, Wildermuth and the remainder of the act attempt to cut further slices off the present record — whatever it is. Bowen will not run in the hundred, but will concentrate on the 440. It is too bad that Harry Schnellbach isn't making the trip. Henry is a better runner than most people think he is, better than he'll probably ever get credit for unless he is afforded an opportunity to win one of the big races.

KNOTHOLE GLIMPSES

Chipper Charlie Hyatt, who is fairly well known as a basketball player, is life-guarding his way through the summer at Ormsby Pool, on the South Side. "Charleh" always did believe in "clean" sport.

Battling Bill Cooper, the demon Ambridge bridge duellist, barged in t'other evening for a session with the pasteboards.

"What," quoth Brother Cooper, "is good for the liver? Mine's aching."

And before she could be stopped, the wife cracked, "Onions!"

Chuck Burr, a recent W. and J. graduate, dropped in Saturday en route to New York, where he has taken a position with the Bell Telephone Company. The wrong number market is in for a decided slump.

Luke (Himself) Carney and Jackie Zivic have buried the hatchet, according to Lukie. Jim Miller, mayor of the South Side, wants to know, "Who in?"

THE LUCAS JINX

The Pirates would have won that second game at Forbes Field Saturday if Red Lucas hadn't walked across the diamond between innings. They thought he was going to pitch.

Packy McFarland, H. L. Mencken's chief adviser, suggeests the use of stars instead of dashes between items in this column. The matter will be taken up at the next round table meeting of the A. A. of A. S. W.

By the way, the report that Roy Regals, California football player, is running a merry-go-round this summer is erroneous.

GOLF AS CHAMPIONS PLAY IT

Is there a tendency on the part of beginners to use the irons too much a mi iron, for instance, when the shot really calls for a brassie?

Answered by

JOHNNY FARRELL

Winner of Eastern, Metropolitan Wheeling, Massachusetts, Philadelphia, Chicago and Pennsylvania Open Championships, 1927; La-Gorce Open, 1928; Tied for Bahamas Open, 1928; National Open, 1928.

Lack of confidence in wooden clubs on the fairway encourages beginners to use irons at the wrong time. Where distance is needed, it is the brassie that will get it.

For the beginner who must overcome this fault, I would advise the spoon rather than the brassie. Get one with plenty of loft and you will find a lot of pleasure in using it. There will be no need to work so hard to get distance as with an iron.

It is almost impossible to use the irons entirely through the fairway. Master the spoon; then learn to use the brassie.

HELEN WILLS AND TILDEN VICTORS

WIMBLEDON, Eng., July 1.—(AP.)—Miss Helen Wills reached the semi-final round in defense of her British tennis championship in women's singles today, defeating Miss Bobby Heine, of South Africa, 6-2, 6-4, in the quarter-finals.

The Wills-Heine match provided one of the best women's battles of the tournament. The South African girl fought gamely through long rallies and used all the strokes of the game against the champion.

Miss Heine led in the second set at 3-2 to the delight of the crowd, but Miss Wills' reserve skill enabled her to run out the set before it could be carried to deuce. The point scores:

First set —
Miss Wills.... 4 2 6 4 4 4 5 4—3 3—6
Miss Heine.... 1 4 4 6 1 2 3 2—2 3—2

Second set —
Miss Wills.. 1 4 4 2 2 5 4 1 4—3 1—6
Miss Heine 4 1 1 4 4 3 2 4 2 1—2 6—4

TILDEN BEATS LANDRY

Bill Tilden followed Miss Wills to victory, entering the semi-finals in men's finals, by winning from Pierre Landry, of France, by scores of 6-4, 2-6, 6-3, 7-5.

Tilden gave a great exhibition of fighting spirit when in the last set Landry held a 5-4 and 40-love lead. By a series of superb winning shots the American won the game, took the next mainly by rushes to the net and went on to carry the set.

George Lott, a third American singles hope, was eliminated in straight sets, however, at the hands of Jean Borotra, the bounding Basque of France, by scores of 6-3, 6-3, 6-4.

Miss Helen Jacobs, second only to Miss Wills in the American women's ranking, overwhelmed Mrs. C. C. McIlquham, 6-1, 6-0, in another quarter-final match.

Mrs. McIlquham, sprang a great upset last week by defeating Senorita Ella de Alvarez, of Spain.

Mrs. May Sutton Bundy, Santa Monica, Cal., and Miss Marjorie Morrill, Dedham, Mass., were eliminated in the women's doubles by Mrs. Randolph Lycett and Miss Joan Ridley, an English pair. The scores were 6-3, 6-2.

Bunny Austin, the sole English survivor in the men's singles, came through with a victory in the quarter-finals by defeating Baron Von Kehrling, of Austria, 6-2, 8-6, 6-3. The Austrian staged a rally in the second set and ran off a lead of five to one, but Austin steadied and won seven of the next eight games for the set.

Henri Cochet, the highly-favored French star, also advanced to the semi-finals by vanquishing Hans Timmer, Dutch ace, 6-4, 7-5, 6-2.

HELEN WINS AGAIN

Shortly after her singles victory, Miss Wills scored again in mixed doubles, Queen Helen and her partner, Frank Hunter, defeated Mrs. John Hill and G. P. Hughes, an English team, 6-3, 6-2.

In one of the quarter-final singles matches, Miss E. A. Goldsack, of England, beat Miss Ruth Tapscott, South Africa.

John Hennessey, Indianapolis, and Miss Marjorie Morrill, Dedham, Mass., were eliminated in the mixed doubles by an English pair, Malcolm and Miss D. Cole, by scores of 6-0, 5-7, 6-1.

Long's Sport Comment

six meetings and appeared to have an edge, particularly in the pitching department. But the box office had reported a sell-out for Saturday for a single game, so the postponed number was saved for a later date and another big crowd. It is true that the rules are supposed to prohibit double-headers when open dates are available, but that regulation often is ignored when a bargain bill will help the exchequer.

IT IS SUCCESS, rather than failure, that leads to the dropping of Cardinal managers, judging from the fate of Rogers Hornsby and Bill McKechnie, but at that it is general opinion that Billy Southworth's head will be in danger if the Redbirds do not take an immediate brace.

The showing of the Missourians continues to be a sorry one. Of their last eight games with the Cubs they have won only one, sinking deeper daily into fourth place. Yesterday they had a seemingly safe lead, but couldn't hold it. Perhaps they'll take a big brace when they come here tomorrow and play like champions in the four games with the Pirates. That's the way things have broken for the Bucs this year in their meetings with the Robins and Phillies.

Billy Southworth

BURLEIGH GRIMES became the leading pitcher of the major leagues again Saturday, when he returned to duty after an off spell due to an injury and started what local fans hope will be another long winning streak by blanking the Reds for his third shutout of the season. The Pirate ace had been trailing Bob Grove, of the Athletics, with 11 games won and one lost, against Grove's record of 12 wins and one reverse, but Mack's star left-hander fell before the Yanks on Saturday and Grimes is now out in front with 12 victories and one defeat against Grove's mark of 12 won and two lost. Sammy Gray, of the Browns, has won 11 and lost two; Rube Walberg, of the A's, has won 11 and lost three, and George Uhle, of the Tigers, has won 10 and lost four. The leading winning streaks at present are credited to Vic Sorell, of the Tigers, who has won seven in a row, though he had to be lifted yesterday, and to Eddie Rummel, of the Athletics, who has won six without being defeated this year. Remy Kremer, of the Pirates, though he failed to go the distance last Wednesday and yesterday, is credited with seven wins in his last nine contests.

Hotweed, Favorite Wins Grand Prix

PARIS, July 1.—(AP.)—Joy unconfined ruled in the Bois de Boulogne last night as half a million Parisians and tourists returned to the city cheering Hotweed for winning the blue ribbon Grand Prix at Longchamp two weeks after capturing the French Derby.

The victory wrote history on the slippery turf of the Longchamp race track and marked the horse as one of the greatest thoroughbreds in Twentieth century racing on the continent.

The victor was an overwhelming popular choice.

LEGION GOLFERS HOLD TOURNEY TODAY

Only one tournament of consequence is on the golf calendar for today, and it is being held at the Wildwood Country Club. The Pittsburgh City Post of the American Legion is staging its first event of several carded for this season, and is being staged under the direction of Maj. Moore.

Tomorrow the Pennsylvania state open championship begins at the Whitemarsh Valley Country Club, near Philadelphia, with a number of local entries in the competition.

The Women's Golf Association of Western Pennsylvania will stage another big one-day tournament at the Stanton Heights Golf Club tomorrow. It is anticipated the field will be larger and stronger than many of the previous weekly affairs held this season, due to the inclement weather that greeted the players at Allegheny this week.

On Wednesday, Johnny Capebianco, caddie-master at the Edgewood Country Club, will be wed to Miss Mary Smitherman, in Washington, D. C. He will play in the State open at Whitemarsh prior to going to the Capital City. Paul Erath, assistant pro at Edgewood, will be Johnny's best man.

Yank Women Lose In Wimbledon Play

WIMBLEDON, England, July 1.—(INS.)—Mrs. May Sutton Bundy and Miss Majorie Morrill, a highly favored American combination in the women's doubles of the Wombledon championships, were eliminated today in a third-round match with the English combination, Miss Lycett and Miss Joan Ridley.

The score was 6-3, 6-2, with the English women holding the ascendancy throughout the match. Mrs. Bundy, whose play last week was the sensation of the tournament, appeared to be off form today.

Ready for Bell

SERGT. SAMMY BAKER

Mitchel Field (L. I.) ring star, who meets Jack Zivic in the 10-round main bout in the Meyers Bowl, North Braddock, tonight.

Kaplan Calls Off Bout With Vincentini

MERIDEN, Conn., July 1.—(AP.)—Refusing to accept a two-minute substitute or a two weeks' postponement, Louis (Kid) Kaplan, retired featherweight champion of the world, announced last night that he had canceled his 10-round bout with Luis Vincentini, Chilean lightweight, scheduled for the Mills Stadium in Chicago on July 4.

MAJOR LEAGUE GAMES FAIL TO DRAW

The depressing effect on baseball attendances continues in certain cities, while others reap a financial harvest. The Cubs of the National League and the Athletics of the American are big money-getters, with the Yanks always sure of heavy profits as long as The Bambino does his stuff at the plate.

The 18,000 crowd at the Saturday doubleheader in the Oakland Orchard was a disappointment, although the weather was a bit cool preceding the contest. If the fans had known what the afternoon was to bring the patronage probably would have been greater.

ST. LOUIS DRAWING POORLY

Neither club in St. Louis is making any satisfactory profits, and the attendance in Cincinnati since the Reds landed at the bottom has been very bad. Daily attendances at Forbes Field appear to be holding well, the outlook being good for a better season than last year when the local owners are reported to have lost money.

Over a stretch of seven or eight years after the war the sport enjoyed unmatched prosperity. In the past few seasons there has been a downward tendency in interest. There may be a dozen answers to the "What's the Matter with Baseball?" question, but the magnates do not need to leave their own circle to get at some of the facts, it would seem.

NEW HEADS WEAK

When fellows like Clarke, Wagner, Bresnahan, Herzog and others with big baseball names step aside for Baker, Breadon, McQuaid, Fuchs and more who did little or nothing for the game, it is not surprising to see many fans showing less than passive interest.

It's Clare Hotchkiss, the robust baritone, who writes: "Of course, a quartet does have to be careful in its appearance to become a big number on any radio program or benefit show . . . and we, I'm speaking for all the boys, have found that Plus-Six suits help us topple them from their seats. We use Plus-Six tuxedos exclusively and it's a rare sight to see us stride out from the wings harmonizing on something like "The Wedding Bells Are Breaking Up That Old Gang of Mine" in our own entertaining way. # BAUR AND McCASKEY WIN DOUBLES CROWN

WEST PA. PAIR TAKE MIXED TITLE

By PAUL G. SULLIVAN.

Byron Baur, pride of Erie, yesterday added the Western Pennsylvania men's doubles crown to the singles bauble already in his possession. His partner in the deal—and a mighty fine partner, too—was Stan McCaskey, of Bucknell and Edgewood, and his opponents in the final were the brilliant and cagy Carnegie Tech duo, Art Glaser and B. P. Hoover, who likewise copped runner-up laurels in 1928 when Drs. Billy McElroy and John O'Loughlin annexed the title. The tussle went off in straight sets with a 6-3, 6-1, 6-4 verdict.

Then, just to prevent all honors save women's singles from going upstate to the lake port, Helen Carson, slim southpaw of Greensburg, and "Tack" Hammer, perennial Westmoreland County champion, battled gallantly to the top of the mixed doubles event wherein they grazed out the slenderest of decisions over Baur and his home-town partner, Mrs. Winifred Eschner, 5-7, 6-3, 7-5.

McCASKEY STARS

Hoover and Glaser elected to pound McCaskey in the dual titular affair. That should have been good tactics, since Baur is singles champion. But Stan refused to accept the role of under dog and despite an ailing ankle flashed splendid tennis. His driving returns of service were consistent and effective and his net play, both volleys and smashes, were well timed and exceedingly crisp.

The losers were handicapped by the fact that Hoover failed to take a service game in the first two sets. This was not entirely the fault of the dashing Easterner, though various double faults contributed to the disheartening result.

The rst two games of the joust went against the services of Hoover and McCaskey respectively. Glaser sustained delivery to slip his outfit a 2-1 lead, but Baur knotted the count, Hoover dropped again, and thereafter the victors were never headed.

Hoover steadied on service in the third set, but then it was Glaser's turn to blow. Baur lost his game, the second of the bracket, but as Glaser had already been turned back in the first, honors were even and thereafter games followed service—with the exception of a costly break at the expense of Glaser in the fifth—until Baur ran out set and match at 40-30 in number 10.

WIN SEMI-FINAL TILT

Hoover and Glaser bagged a warm semi-final tilt from the Yale-Princeton combine of McCook Reed and Paul Hicks, 9-7, 5-7, 6-0, 6-2. After scintillant barrier exchanges in the initial brace of sets, Reed and Hicks went completely native as the milling wore on and slapped the spheres wildly into the net and out on all occasions.

Miss Carson, the best feminine racquet prospect seen here in several seasons, was the heroine of the mixed doubles soiree. She drove deadily, served almost without fault, and angled off a host of decidedly vital shots at the net in the ultimate set. Hammer also performed to advantage. His volleys had angle and pace and he put away overheads out of number on the short hs of Mrs. Eschner.

Three deuces were ripped through efore Mrs. Eschner dropped service the eleventh game, whereupon iss Carson went two deuces ere aur outed for game, set and match.

Sarazen, Partner Top Farrell, Mate

NEW YORK, July 1.—(INS.)—Gene Sarazen is happy today even though he failed to win the national open last week.

For Gene and his partner Bill Cox, defeated Johnny Farrell and Hugh Clancy, in an 18-hole best ball exhibition match at the Antlers Golf and Country Club yesterday.

Farrell, who lost his national title at Winged Foot last week, was in great form, getting a 33 on the last nine to come home with a total of 2.

CADDIES MEET JUNIOR GOLF EVENT TEST

By VERN SWARTSFAGER.

Caddies at the Pittsburgh Field Club and the Fox Chapel and Highland Country Clubs today held their qualifying tests for the second annual West Penn junior golf tournament for the William Randolph Hearst trophy, to be conducted by the Sun-Telegraph at the Schenley Park municipal links on Thursday, July 11.

The tests were conducted by Harry Kelly, Bert Robertson and Butch Kaiser, caddiemasters at the Field Club, Fox Chapel and Highland, respectively.

LIST CLOSES FRIDAY

The tournament entry list is to be closed on Friday of this week. Four hundred and sixty entries already are in and at least 100 more are expected.

A big part of the tourney field will be made up of junior golfers who are not caddies, for only caddies are required to qualify.

Caddies who qualified today, their ages and their scores follow:

Pittsburgh Field Club—Anthony Moddoffari, aged 15, 38; Joseph Urso, aged 12, 46; Anthony Libbon, aged 13, 46; Andrew Gasper, aged 15, 50; John Fitzpatrick, aged 15, 52; James Veltri, aged 15, 54; Thomas Deluka, aged 14, 58; Carl Gaspar, aged 13, 58.

ARLINGTON PARK OPENS

CHICAGO, July 1.—(AP.)—Offering a $75,000 stake as its first feature attraction, Arlington Park today was to usher in a new era in Chicago racing history, in its 29-day meeting. The gigantic plant, improved in every way, and operated by the American National Jockey Club, was to make Chicago's debut in non-commercialized racing. The group which owns the park plans to use any profits realized for the purpose of making further improvement and enriching stakes.

Rabbit Mixes Comedy With Baseball

NEW YORK, July 1.—(INS.)—Baseball fans who attended the game between the Robins and Braves yesterday are expecting to read any moment today that Rabbit Maranville has been signed by some musical comedy producer.

For the Rabbit staged a one-man circus for the cash customers yesterday. He walked tight rope on the base line, mimicked the umpires, impersonated an angel when he escaped being hit by a wild pitch, acted like a drunkard and even went so far as to give his impression of a Cossack dancer.

Maranville's capers had the crowd roaring, and even the umpires were seen to grin.

NET TOURNEY POSTPONED

INDIANAPOLIS, July 1.—(AP.)—Rain today caused a postponement until tomorrow of the opening matches of the national clay court tennis championship tournament here. As a result of the delay, it was decided that early round matches would be two out of three sets, instead of three out of five.

ZIVIC BATTLES BAKER IN BOWL TONIGHT

man, of Cleveland, in the opener, which is scheduled for 8:45.

DEMARCO MEETS FRISCO

Cuddy DeMarco, of Charleroi, returns to action in his home town tonight, when he meets Eddie Frisco, of New York, in the 10-round main bout at the baseball park in a show being staged for the benefit of the Charleroi club of the Mid-Atlantic League. Battling Gizzy, of Donora, and Frankie Buff, of New Kensington, are in the eight-round semi-final. Ray Newton, of Mansfield, O., boxes Al Gordon, of Philadelphia, and Tiger Joe Randall, of Elizabeth, meets Young Rudy, of Charleroi, in the two 10-round bouts featuring a show at the Ebensburg Fair. Dan Billick, local featherweight, was to box Heine Hart in an eight-rounder at Allentown, Pa., but this show has been called off.

The illness of Buck McTiernan, Swissvale welterweight, who is confined to bed in his home by throat trouble, which will necessitate the removal of his tonsils later in the week, knocks in the head plans to stage a return bout between Buck and Andy DiVodi along with a rematch of Phil Goldstein and Tony Herrera as a double windup at the Meyers Bowl next Monday night. McTiernan probably will not be ready to box again for a month or six weeks, according to Dr. H. C. Carlson, the Pitt basketball coach, who is his physician. Dick Ramies meets Rudy Ceder and Mike Payan opposes California Joe Gans in the feature bouts of a special July Fourth show in the bowl next Thursday night.

BUNTAG SUSPENDED

Because of the blowup of the McTiernan-DiVodi return bout, Bunny Buntag, manager of McTiernan, has been suspended by Commissioner Havey J. Boyle, for alleged "lack of faith" in going through with the arrangements, and the suspension of McTiernan, for 30 days for fouling DiVodi, has been extended indefinitely, or until his physical condition again is found to be satisfactory. Boyle issued the following statement covering the matter:

"After prolonged negotiations with the promoters and managers, the plans were set on last Thursday. Then a hitch developed.

"Buntag, a recent addition to the managerial ranks here, after first assuring me he would go through, refused to sign unless McTiernan, his boxer, would get $1,000, instead of approximately $770, which he got for one round and part of another after he fouled DiVodi.

"After hearing from the commission as to obligations owed to the fans, Buntag signed for the original terms.

"All difficulties seemed then to have been overcome until last Saturday, when Buntag called and reported that McTiernan could not go through on account of illness.

"That was the first intimation that McTiernan was ill, because earlier in the week, when July 15 was mentioned as the date for the show, Buntag was so anxious for the doubleheader windup that he asked to have the date moved up a week to July 8.

DOUBLE WINDUP OFF

"McTiernan's personal physician said he was too sick to train, and the commission's doctor reported on Saturday that McTiernan had a bad pulse and a temperature.

"The result is that the double windup planned to give the fans a run for their money is out.

"I think the fans are entitled to the facts in the case.

"With the exception of Buntag, the attitude of the promoters and the other managers showed they would try to co-operate.

"The commission is not discouraged, but disappointed over the illness of McTiernan, which it learned nothing about during all the negotiations until all our plans were completed.

"I will recommend the suspension of Buntag for his apparent lack of good faith.

"McTiernan, of course, cannot return until a doctor reports his complete recovery."

Moore Sets Record In Eastern Grind

UANSA'S WALLOP HELPS STOWE ROUT JINX

By TOM BIRKS.

The Stowe Civics stopped another jinx yesterday afternoon. Cook, the Book Shoe southpaw, seemed to have the Indian sign on the Rox crowd previous to yesterday's game, but when Toby Uansa hit that first pitch for a home run and the whole side batted around the jinx was removed. Callahan was rushed to the mound, but there was no stopping the Stowe crowd. Stowe won, 9 to 3.

Steve Roscoe was inclined to be wild, but a seven-run lead is a nice advantage for any pitcher. But there is one trait in that Book Shoe nine, it never lets up, and that possibly can be laid to the door of O'Brien, who is the best coach on the local sandlots.

SMILERS MEET ZIVICS

Plenty of interest is following the Pleasant Valley-Stowe Civics game scheduled for West View Park Thursday. Gus Otey will do the twirling for the Stowe entry, and Dunsky expects to send Marty Nary to the mound.

These clubs have been battling hard in the City League, and Dunsky expects to take this game and avenge that first defeat.

One of the greatest sandlot battles of the season was flashed at Harlan field, McKees Rocks, yesterday afternoon when the W. O. W. outfit, Class A champion, was nosed out in 13 innings by the Reliance Life nine, 5 to 4. The game was marked by spectacular plays. With the score 2 to 1 in favor of the Insurance boys, John Cholko stole home and tied up the battle. Ed Miller, who leads the Insurance boys on the field, seemed to expect the play and laid plans to break it up. Sparrow, however, dropped the ball when Kolinsky tried to bunt, and Cholko slid over the plate.

W. O. W. MEETS THOMAS

The J. L. Thomas nine will play at the Bloomfield playgrounds this evening and have the W. O. W. club for opposition. This will be the first visit of Mike Jedinak's nine to Bloomfield since it copped the Greater Pittsburgh championship.

The Reliance Life nine of the City League is looking for a pair of games abroad for the Fourth. George Miller has the club going at a sensational clip. Any manager wishing this attraction should call Atlantic 9626 during the day and ask for Miller.

Big Six Stars Enjoy Heavy Afternoon

Members of the Big Six had a big hitting afternoon yesterday, every member getting at least two safe drives for a total output of 16 hits. Every player gained, save O'Doul, and he lost ground only because he required two games in which to get his quota of two hits. One of Babe Ruth's three drives was his sixteenth homer. Jimmy Foxx got two out of two, running his total hits to 100 and increasing his average five points to .415.

PROBE HUDKINS' VICTORY OVER BELANGER

SAN FRANCISCO, July 1.—(INS.)—A through investigation into reports that the fight between Ace Hudkins of Nebraska and Charley Belanger of Canada here Friday night was "framed" has been begun by State Athletic Commissioner William Hanlon.

Hudkins, a middleweight, took the decision over Belanger, a lightweight, after 10 rounds of what Hanlon described as a "petting party." There was hardly a solid blow struck during the match.

Purses of both fighters were ordered held up pending the outcome of the investigation.

"It was the most terrible exhibition of boxing that I have ever witnessed," said Hanlon.

MONEY BOOST CHECKS EARLY ADVANCES

Bullish Operations Reactionary as Rate Soars; Investment Rails Brisk

NEW YORK, July 1.—(AP.)—Stiffening call money rates checked the resumption of the upward price movement in today's stock market. Bullish operations started off at a brisk pace, with a number of the public utility, electrical equipment and railroad shares pushing into new high ground, but reactionary tendencies developed when call money became scarce and the rate was boosted.

Call money renewed unchanged at 10 per cent and advanced to 12 around mid-day, later moving up to 15 per cent.

LOANS ARE CALLED

Upwards of $60,000,000 in loans were called during the morning. Time money turned easier, some 30-day loans being arranged as low as 7½ per cent. High call money rates are likely to continue the rest of the week, according to bankers, with a possibility that the stringency may carry over into next week.

There was little in today's news to influence the price movement. Greene Cananea Copper ran up more than 6 points on the announcement that Anaconda directors had made an offer of exchange of Anaconda for Greene Cananea and Andes Copper stocks. Anaconda turned heavy after the announcement.

Investment rails were in brisk demand, and held their gains fairly well through the mid-day reaction in the general industrial list. Atchison, St. Louis-San Francisco, Chesapeake and Ohio, Pere Marquette, Chesapeake Corporation, Union Pacific and Norfolk and Western all moved into new high ground, the gains ranging from 1 to 5 points.

G. E. HITS HIGH

General Electric ran up 10 points to a new high at 334¾, but dropped back later to around 327. Air Reduction and Columbian Carbon each were marked up more than 9 points to new high records at 159⅝ and 204¾, respectively.

Westinghouse Electric common and preferred and Allied Chemical also moved into new high ground. United States Steel sold as high as 192¾ and then dropped back below 190, but fresh buying support was supplied and the stock rebounded in the early afternoon.

Engineers Public Service was under pressure for some unexplained reason, and dropped back 6½ points. Other utilities yielded to realizing sales, which may have been influenced by the opening of New York State's investigation into recent power and light mergers.

Another boost in the call money rate to 15 per cent, the highest in weeks, took the edge off the advance in standard railroads which had been carried to new high records. Delaware and Hudson rose 8½ to 207½, with lesser gains registered by Pennsylvania, New York Central, Atlantic Coast Line and Kansas City Southern before they fell back. International Business Machine jumped nearly 14 points to a new high. The market closed firm. Total sales approximated 4,100,000 shares.

Archer, Daniels Net Lower for 9 Months

NEW YORK, July 1.—The company reports net income of $950,382 for the nine months ended June 1, after depreciation and federal taxes, equal, after preferred dividends, to $1.54 a share on 480,852 common shares, against $1,390,528, or $5.45 on 213,712 common shares in the 1928 period.

Warner Follows Jersey's Raise

NEW YORK, July 1.—Warner Quinlan Company has advanced tank car gasoline 1 cent a gallon to 11 cents f.o.b. refinery at Warner, N. J. This follows a similar raise by Standard of New Jersey last week.

Electric Power Output Goes Up

WASHINGTON, July 1.—Total production of electricity in May was 8,093,373,000 kilowatt hours, of which 3,485,021,000 kilowatt hours were produced by water power and 4,608,352,000 by fuels, according to geological survey. This compares with 7,881,620,000 kilowatt hours in April.

COTTON MARKET

NEW YORK, July 1.—(AP.)—The cotton market opened easy today at a decline of 10 to 20 points in response to lower Liverpool cables and favorable weather reports.

Selling became a little more active as prices eased off after the call, with some southern selling of new crop months reported, and prices showed net declines of about 18 to 22 points during the early trading, with October selling off to 18.35. This price seemed to attract a better demand, which was attributed partly to the trade, and the market showed rallies of 4 or 5 points from the lowest by the end of the first half hour.

Private cables reported local, London and continental liquidation in Liverpool on the improved weather in the South, and said that sales of cotton cloths and yarns were below production.

Offerings increased somewhat during the middle of the morning, when sentiment appeared to be influenced by a private crop report placing the increase in acreage at 4.6 per cent, the condition at 71.2 per cent and the indicated crop at from 15,500,000 to 15,750,000 bales.

Prices worked off to about 18.33 for October, with the midday market moderately active at net declines of about 15 to 20 points.

Western Public Service in Demand; Lone Star Gas At New Record Price

Stocks started the week quietly on the Pittsburgh Stock Exchange although the average held well up to the rate of transactions noted at the end of the previous week.

Heaviest trading in the early market today was noted in Western Public Service in the outside list with several hundred shares changing hands at a moderate advance as compared with Saturday's last sale. Lone Star Gas old shares held steady in the official list, but the new stock opened off slightly in the unlisted group. The rights were also off fractionaly on the initial transaction at 6⅝.

Miscellaneous manufacturing issues showed practicaly no change in the early trading. McKinney sold at 11, equivalent to its last previous sale price, and D. L. Clark was handled at 15¾, the price at which it left off at the end of last week. In the investment division Koppers Gas preferred was the only issue appearing in the early dealings, a block of 60 shares changing hands at 100. This was a small fractional gain over the last previous sale, recorded in Saturday's short market. Arkansas Gas continued to range around the trading level at which it has been holding for the past two weeks.

In the afternoon trading Lone Star Gas developed pronounced strength and moved up sharply to new high ground. Other sections of the market continued to display a steady tone.

Copper Buyers Await June Figures

NEW YORK, July 1.—Export demand for copper has improved, but domestic buying continues light. Fabricators, however, are said to be receiving orders from consumers of brass and copper after a period of inactivity, and if the demand from this quarter improves further, producers are expecting a corresponding increase although desire to await the June statistics, it is said, may check purchases until after their publication. Electrolytic remains at 18 cents delivered in the Connecticut Valley, with Customs Smelters supplying the demand. Tin price movements were irregular, a small rally late in the week following a slight setback at the start. Trade was not active.

A fairly good demand prevailed for lead and the market remained firm. London price movements were somewhat irregular. Zinc did not display particular change.

East Bellevue Gets Insurance Rate Cut

That portion of Ross township known as East Bellevue has been granted a reduced fire insurance rate, according to announcement by the Board of Fire Underwriters, of Allegheny County.

Asks Reduction in Iron Pipe Tariff

WASHINGTON, July 1.—A subcommittee of the Senate Finance Committee today took up hearings on the proposed increase in tariff on cast iron pipe. Retention of the 1922 tariff rate of 20 per cent ad valorem on cast iron pipe was asked by Herbert Kennedy, New York importer, whose chief supply is from France. As passed by the House, the bill provides an increase to 30 per cent.

Anaconda Seeks Andes Copper And Greene

NEW YORK, July 1.—(AP.)—Directors of the Anaconda Copper Mining Company today authorized an offer to exchange 1½ shares of Anaconda common stock for each share of Greene Cananea Copper Company, and 45-100 of a share of Anaconda for each share of Andes Copper Mining Company stock. Anaconda already has a substantial interest in both companies.

The offer expires on October 1.

John D. Ryan, chairman of Anaconda, said that operations of the Andes company, whose properties are in Chile, during the first six months of 1929 were at the rate of 200,000,000 pounds annually, and that it was intended to increase the output by 30,000,000 pounds.

Greene Cananea, which, through a subsidiary, controls mines in the State of Sonora, Mexico, produced at the rate of about 75,000,000 pounds earlier in the year, Mr. Ryan asserted, but output was curtailed by the Mexican revolution.

U. S. In Wonderful Shape As New Half Year Opens.

By B. C. FORBES

AMERICA never entered the second half of the year under more satisfactory conditions nor with fairer promise.

AGRICULTURAL prospects have somewhat improved and hopes are entertained that the heavy-weight federal farm board President Hoover is selecting will prove able to effect some tangible improvement in the marketing of farm products.

Our great transportation companies never were in stronger physical or financial shape, nor have they ever before functioned as efficiently as now—even the long-despised Erie is able to resume preferred dividends after a lapse of 22 years.

The nation's public utility corporations, forming what is now perhaps the greatest industry in the land, are, like our railroads, constantly enhancing their efficiency and developing financial strength, thus making their outlook most encouraging.

American industry, as a whole, is producing and selling more than in any previous period of peace. The iron and steel industry, commonly accepted as the most dependable yardstick of general business, is eclipsing all records. The same can be said for the now mightily important motor industry. The many-sided construction industry, although less uniformly active, is still making a remarkable showing.

Retail trade is substantially benefited from the belated arrival of warm weather.

The volume of business passing through the banks of the country is well ahead of last year, itself one satisfactory year.

Commercial failures in the first half of this year show a decrease of fully 5 per cent with a reduction of nearly 6½ per cent in indebtedness, as compared with a year ago.

Our business concerns, taken as a whole, are decidedly better supplied with capital and cash than at any other time in our commercial history. And stocks on hand are light rather than heavy.

While the kaleidoscopic changes in our industrial processes are causing unfortunate unemployment at various centers, the fact is that America's total weekly pay envelope contains more real purchasing power this year than at any other time of peace or war.

DEAR money and feverish speculation, both widely regarded as potential menaces earlier in the year, have subsided sufficiently to modify apprehension.

The brokers' loans have expanded $258,000,000 in the last two weeks, bringing them within $250,000,000 of the peak touched in May, but it is significant that they did not go above 10 per cent, notwithstanding the extremely mid-year settlement requirements. And it is even more significant that time money, as high as 9 to 9½ per cent in May, fell to 7½ to 7¾ per cent as June ended. In line with this rather notable easiness, bankers' acceptances were reduced for all maturities, making the rates 5⅜ to 5½ per cent up to 90 days, and 5⅜ to 5¾ per cent for longer maturities.

Moreover, foreign exchanges all have moved in favor of New York, with the consequence that gold has been flowing in during June at the rate of fully $1,000,000 daily. The weekly statement of the 12 Federal Reserve banks inspired Wall Street hopes that the authorities have ceased, at least for the present, their policy of interference.

The prevalent belief now is that money rates will prize appreciably lower during the balance of the year.

ALL this has not been without influence upon the stock market. The sharp breaks suffered as the result of the reserve board's warnings and the sky-rocketing of rates charged brokers did much to tame reckless speculation. Not a few lost se erely when boomed issues fell anywhere from 25 to 50 per cent or more in price. That arrested 5,000,000 and 6,000,000 share days on the New York Stock Exchange.

Although last week brought distinctly greater activity and spectacular advances in numbers of stocks, especially utilities, and although "average" quotations are again around the best of the year, less alarm is felt over the danger of a stock market collapse disastrous to general business. Except in the utility division, where excitement has been generated by endless colossal mergers, relatively few stocks have soared sensationally.

SENTIMENT in high places has been favorably affected by the remarkable vitality exhibited by industry and trade in the marked change for the better in the money market, by the improved prospects of the railroads because of the O'Fallon decision, by the advent of J. Pierpont Morgan and Company in the utility field on a tremendous scale, by record-breaking dividend increases by the settlement of German reparations, by certain of the proposed tariff changes, by the stability of the general commodity price level and by President Hoover's handling of national and international affairs.

Record Six Months For General Tire

AKRON, July 1.—William O'Neil, president of General Tire and Rubber Company, stated that the company had the largest six months business in its history in the first half of fiscal year ended May 31. Export business during the period increased 46 per cent over the corresponding period of preceding year. Domestic shipments in the same period increased 20 per cent.

NEW YORK CURB MARKET

NEW YORK, July 1.—(AP.)—Further jacking up of the call money rate upset another violent upturn in utility stocks on the Curb Exchange today, precipitating heavy profit taking. Call loans renewed at 10 per cent, but rose to 12 shortly after midday, the highest rate since mid-May, reflecting withdrawals by banks to meet the midyear settlement checks.

Electric Bond and Share and Allied Power and Light rose about 4 or 5 points to new high ground during the early hours of the session, and such issues as Electric Investors, Southeast Power warrants, American Light and Traction and Mid-West Utilities made similar gains.

Most issues sold off a point or more from their best levels by early afternoon, however, and St. Regis Paper turned distinctly weak, suffering a net loss of nearly 4 points. Several of the Morgan-Bonbright stocks eased slightly, Niagara-Hudson, Mohawk and Hudson, Northeastern Power, and Commonwealth and Southern sagging fractionally. The opening of the inquiry at Albany into the Niagara-Hudson combine had a depressing effect upon shares of companies involved.

The industrial issues were highly irregular. Singer Manufacturing dropped 15 points in a small turnover. Bristol Myers, U. S. Finishing and Royal Typewriter made fair gains, the last named reaching new high ground. Radio stocks were firm, including Grigsby Gruno and Hazeltine. Aviation shares were quiet. In the motors, Stutz dropped 2 points. Oils were irregular, Humble making a small gain, while Gulf sagged. Newmont Mining rose more than 3 points then reacted.

Following is the list of transactions on the New York Curb Exchange, giving all stocks and bonds traded (00 omitted in sales column of stock list; 000 omitted in sales column of bond list):

TRADE OUTLOOK SPURS MARKET ENTHUSIASM

Belief Grows That Business Boom Will Run Indefinitely Records Show Activity

By MERRYLE STANLEY RUKEYSER.

NEW YORK, July 1.—The renaissance of speculative enthusiasm is in response to optimistic business forecasts for the second half of the year.

In spite of the continuance of high interest rates, which doubtless will soon be eased by seasonal factors, the bulls take the position that no industrial depression is in the making. The belief is growing that the extraordinary period of post-war business activity on a high plateau will continue indefinitely.

The new reparations agreement, the O'Fallon decision, the partial recovery in grain prices, the continued imports of gold, and the indications that the credit situation has improved have gradually dissipated the doubts which hung over the financial community during the May speculative setback.

INCOME AT NEW PEAKS

Apart from prophecy, the records will show that the six months' period just concluded was an era of unprecedentedly high industrial activity and profits. Income doubtless set new peaks for the railroads, public utilities, steel, chemical, copper and other favored industries.

Speaking for the second half of this year, as well as the first, David Friday, economist and investment trust manager, said:

"The year 1929 should reach a new high water mark in productive activity, and this will mean a new high level of profits and of capital accumulation."

Regardless of whether this forecast will be fulfilled, that point of view represents the key in which current Wall Street sentiment is pitched. Repeatedly whipped temporarily by restrictive Federal reserve policy and adverse technical market factors, the bulls show a feline capacity to come back. Until business prosperity itself is broken, declines in the stock market, no matter how drastic, are unlikely to be more than intermediate movements, such as have become familiar since the March, 1926, break.

Economists estimate that total industrial earnings for the first half of 1929 will be 25 per cent higher than in the corresponding months of 1928, and that the class one railroads will show an increase of $100,000,000 in net incomes.

The arithmetic of the bulls involves not merely capitalizing actual increases in earnings, but also discounting the expectation of a regular progression in earning power of the dominant corporations for the coming years.

SPEED ADVERSE FACTOR

The chief adverse factor on the business horizon is the speed at which industry has been proceeding. Perhaps a seasonal halt during the summer months would have a fundamentally stabilizing effect on longer term prospects.

Rudolph S. Hecht, president of the Hibernia Bank and Trust Company, New Orleans, in a message to this column, says:

"There is no doubt that the trend of business to large corporations is causing the fundamental character of banking to change."

The union of the Wright and Curtiss companies will put the American airplane industry into the control of five main groups. It is misleading to compare these pioneer days of commercial aviation with the early days of the automobile industry. The first auto makers operated in an atmosphere of general public skepticism and actual coolness on the part of bankers. On the other hand, from the outset, the pioneer airplane builders and transportation companies are organizing along modern big business lines, with the sponsorship of the principal bankers of the country.

ON WAVE OF POPULARITY

Moreover, consumers acceptance of the product is being more readily won. The airplane industry is riding in on the waves of popularity established by the automobile companies, which broke new ground. The airplane industry is now in the process of passing from the stage of small independent companies into dominant corporate groups. Before the transition has been completed, weaker companies will have to be weeded out, and the whole industry will doubtless have to face a period of corrective readjustment. Nevertheless, it is already becoming reasonably plain who will be the surviving factors in the new infant industry which is fast becoming of giant proportions.

It has been the billion dollar corporations that have been getting the bulk of the recent prosperity—and also the principal consideration at the stock market. The country is approaching the stage when it will have multi-billion dollar corporations. As a result of the issuance today of $219,000,000 additional 4½ per cent convertible bonds, by the American Telephone and Telegraph Company, the assets of the Bell system now surpass $4,000,000,000.

Granby Increases Reserve $2,367,738

NEW YORK, July 1.—At a special meeting today, Granby Consolidated Mining stockholders voted to increase the reserve fund for depletion and depreciation by the amount of $2,367,738, said sum to be appropriated immediately from excess current assets.

Directors were also authorized to make further proportionate distributions to shareholders as a return of capital from time to time as they see fit from this reserve fund up to the amount just appropriated plus the residue of previous appropriations to this reserve.

Call Money Rate Spurts to 15 Per Cent as Banks Call Funds.

CALL money rushed up to 15 per cent today, surprising the Street and causing considerable unsettlement. Withdrawal by the banks to meet July 1 dividend checks, which will be coming over the counter the next few days, was the prinicpal factor behind the market, but it was also thought some leading institutions were calling in a portion of their outstanding loans for the purpose of cutting down their borrowings at the Federal Reserve, apparently to maintain last week's call rate of 10 per cent, and while they were expected to reduce these borrowings as quickly as possible, it was expected in some quarters that there would be enough slack in the call market to allow such procedure at the beginning of this week. This, evidently, was not the case, but it appeared the banks were withdrawing regardless.

Terms of the exchange offer made by Anaconda Copper to holders of Greene Cananea Copper and Andes Copper, were so closely adjusted to existing market prices, that the news failed to reflect to any great extent in the subsequent action of those shares. Holders of the last mentioned two companies have been offered the right until October 1 to exchange their stocks for Anaconda Copper, on the basis of 1½ shares for each share of Greene Cananea and 45 shares of Anaconda for each 100 shares of Andes. Taking Anaconda at 118, the exchange makes a price of 177 for Greene Cananea an of about 53⅛ for Andes. Both stocks were selling at approximately those levels when the terms of the offer were announced.

ST. LOUIS AND SAN FRANCISCO, more familiarly known in market circles as "Frisco," was a prime favorite among the rails, pushing forward under aggressive buying to new high ground. Looked upon as one of the roads, which by reason of its capital structure, would stand to benefit most from the favorable nature of the O'Fallon decision recently handed down, "Frisco" has been gradually gaining popularity as an investment medium. Paying $8 a share in dividends, and covering such requirements by a substantial margin, the stock at the high levels today was selling to return close to 6.50 per cent. The outlook is for earnings of around $13 a share this year, which would seem to make the $8 rate secure. Under the circumstances the stock was looked upon as selling far behind various other rails.

Filing with the Interstate Commerce Commission of the Wabash plan for a fifth eastern trunk line, did not tend to stimulate any undue interest in the rails. Wall Street sees a long fight ahead before the plan is finally disposed of either favorably or unfavorably by the commission. Yet it was admitted that the set up of the proposed new road gave its sponsors a strong case so far as its competitive qualifications were concerned. All in all the new project was looked upon as likely to be given more consideration than the defunct Loree plan, but in local circles the only conclusion reached was that a stiff fight was in the making.

JULIUS KAYSER directors voted to inaugurate dividends on the new common capitalization of that company at a $4 annual rate today through the declaration of a regular quarterly payment of $1 a share. The new rate is equivalent to an increase of $1 annually over the $5 rate paid on the old stock prior to the declaration of the 50 per cent stock dividend a short while ago.

The stock, however, made little response to the news.

Today marked the expiration date for subscription "rights" for a total of around $275,000,000 in additional stock and bonds. The two most important sets of "rights' running out with the close of business today were those of the American Telephone and Telegraph Company, giving its shareholders the privilege of subscribing for a total of $214,948,000 new convertible debentures, and Chesapeake and Ohio "rights" under which shareholders were privileged to subscribe for a ditional common stock. Shares of both those companies rose sharply during the forenoon today, but eased later on realizing inspired by the stiffening in the call money rate. Shifting of funds in connection with such payments, incidentally, were perhaps something of a factor in the money market.

UNITED GAS CO. EXPANDING

NEW YORK, July 1.—The Dixie Gulf Gas Company, subsidiary of United Gas Company, has installed a gasoline absorption plant at its Waskon compressor station, Northeast Texas, which is yielding an approximate maximum of 50,000 gallons of gasoline a day from 100,000,000 cubic feet of gas.

The United Gas Company has sold on a royalty basis the gasoline content of its natural gas production in Reichland Parish, Northern Louisiana, to Lousiana Gas and Fuel Corporation, a subsidiary of Electric Bond and Share Company.

Louisiana Gas will gather the gas, extract the casinghead gasoline and delivery the dry gas to the St. Louis, Atlanta and Arkansas trunk lines for United Gas Company's account.

Security Values Hold Gain on Offerings

NEW YORK, July 1.—For every $100 of new securities publicly offered in the United States in the past four years, there was a gain of more than $150 in market value of all securities listed on the New York Stock Exchange, according to a statistical survey of financing in recent years, prepared by Stone & Webster and Blodget, Inc.

New public offerings from 1925 through 1928 amounted to $34,826,000,000, the survey shows. In the same period, stocks and bonds listed on the big board gained $54,182,000,000 in total market value, mounting from $60,669,000,000 at the beginning of 1925, to $114,851,000,000 on the first day of 1929.

New offeringse exceeded the gain in value of Stock Exchange securities in only one of the four years, 1926. In the year 1928, the increase in value was nearly three times as large as the volume of new offerings.

SPICER HEAD OPTIMISTIC

NEW YORK, July 1.—C. A. Dana, president of Spicer Manufacturing Corporation, sailing for Europe on S. S. Leviathan, when asked regarding the s ond quarter operations of the company said that while figures are not available as yet, since the period is just closing, indications were that earnings will be as good as in the first quarter when the company enjoyed the best profits in any quarter in its history. Net income of Spicer for the first quarter was $762,558 before federal taxes, equal, after "A" preference dividend, to $1.92 a share on 357,750 common shares outstanding.

Mr. Dana stated he would visit the English plant of his company and would also look over French territory with a view to establishing a plant there to take care of Spicer's French trade. He said during the third quarter many manufacturers of automobiles will bring out new models and this should stimulate demand for the company's products. Spicer's plants are currently operating at capacity, he stated.

CHASE CREATES WORLD BANK

NEW YORK, July 1.—Affiliation of the interests of the Chase National Bank, the Chase Securities Corporation and the American Express Company, creating a worldwide banking organization, becomes formally effective today. With the receipt of $83,875,000 from stockholders in payment for additional shares and the issuance of new stock in exchange for American Express Company shares, the Chase Bank and Chase Securities Corporation together will have approximately $298,000,000 in capital, surplus and profits accounts.

With the Chase-American Express affiliation plan becoming operative, both the Chase National Bank and the Chase Securities Corporation will have outstanding 4,000,000 shares. Giving effect to a five-for-one split-up, the shares of the bank are reduced from $100 to $20 par value, while Chase securities Corporation will have a like number of shares of no-par value. is the climax of the year for the

BRITISH ADOPT INSTALMENTS

CHICAGO, July 1. — Increase in the purchasing power of European countries and their more ready acceptance of American commercial ideas is a striking fact seen by the American business man abroad, according to Leslie C. Harbison, president of Household Finance Corporation, who has just returned from a business trip to England and France. Mr. Harbison went aboard to study financial and commercial business in behalf of his company, the largest small loan corporation in America.

"One of the most striking likenesses to American business seen in England is the rapid growth of the instalment trade. More than 6,000,000 people today are buying merchandise on this monthly payment plan, according to official figures just compiled. This is an increase of more than 1,000,000 contracts, as compared with 1928. It is estimated that in excess of 30,000 traders today are doing business under this plan and that the products of approximately 80 separate manufacturing industries are sold in this way."

Pennsylvania Oil Prices Adjusted

The South Penn Oil Company has adjusted prices on Pennsylvania grade crude oil. Oil run prior to July 1 in New York Transit Company lines is priced at $4 a barrel, a reduction of 10 cents, while oil run July 1, and subsequently, is $4.05, a reduction of 5 cents. Bradford district oil run in National Transit lines prior to July 1, is priced at $4, a reduction of 10 cents, and July 1 and later $4.05, a reduction of 5 cents.

Pennsylvania grade oil run in National Transit Company lines prior to July 1, is priced at $4, unchanged, while oil run July 1 and later is priced at $4.05, an advance of 5 cents.

'Office Boys' Get Service Reward

NEW YORK, July 1.—Three former office boys, whose combined service with the New York Stock Exchange firm of Dominick & Dominick covers a period just four years short of a century, have been rewarded with general partnerships, effective today. William G. Beach, cashier, has been with the firm for 28 years; Edward K. Davis, comptroller, has rounded out 32 years of service while William J. Howard, at present manager of the firm's Cincinnati office, has been with Dominick & Dominick for the past 36 years. All have been made general partners in recognition of meritorious service.

International Shoe Earnings Increase

NEW YORK, July 1.—International Shoe Company, of St. Louis, for six months ended May 31, 1929, reports net income of $6,620,709 after depreciation, federal taxes, etc., equal after dividends of 7 per cent preferred stock to $1.68 a share earned on 3,760,000 no par shares common stock. In the previous year the company reported for five months ended April 30, 1928, and showed net income of $5,820,557, or $1.48 a share on the common.

The company changed to a semi-annual statement for six months ended May 31 instead of five months ended April 30.

British Revenue Deficit Smaller

LONDON, July 1.—British government revenues for first quarter of financial year amounted to £151,357,000 against £145,560,000 in same period of 1928. Expenditures at £225,541,000 were slightly lower than a year ago. Deficit, which is usual in first quarter, was £74,184,000, or about £5,500,000 smaller than a year ago. Amount applied to debt redemption was £10,236,000 against £16,267,000.

Taplin Interests Lose Court Fight

CLEVELAND, July 1.—Taplin interests have definitely lost their fight to prevent use of the Wheeling and Lake Erie station site by Union Terminal interests. The Taplins were granted a temporary injunction in May which restrained use of the Wheeling site. This ruling was later reversed, but the Taplins made a full appeal, which has been denied by A. C. Dennison, presiding judge of Appelate Court at Grand Rapids.

Cantilever Gets Ground Gripper

NEW YORK, July 1.—Purchase by the Ground Gripper Shoe Company of the Cantilever Corporation, making the former one of the largest orthopedic shoe manufacturers and distributors in the world was announced here today. This acquisition follows the consolidation of the Kahler Shoe Company with Ground Gripper Company last October.

Pittsburgh-New York Railroad Asked

By GEORGE H. SNYDER

COMPLETION of the Taplin plan for a new trunk line to the Atlantic Seaboard and also the opening of a new trunk line from Pittsburgh to New York City are asked by the Wabash Railway in its consolidation plan filed with the Interstate Commerce Commission today.

The road has requested that the proposed Taplin trunk line and the new connection to New York be included in the Wabash system. Under the plan the eastern territory would be divided between six major trunk lines.

The petition filed today does not indicate whether the plan has the approval of F. E. Taplin, chairman of the Pittsburgh and West Virginia, but it appears obvious that Mr. Taplin has entered into an alliance with the Wabash and Pennsylvania interests in his fight to keep the Van Sweringen roads and the Baltimore and Ohio from blocking his plan for a new line from Toledo and Cleveland, through Pittsburgh, to Baltimore.

The New System

THE WABASH, with its branches, now connects Des Moines, Omaha, Kansas City and St. Louis with Chicago, Toledo and Buffalo. It also operates a line from Toledo to Frankfort, Mich.

The Wabash wants to extend its system to the Atlantic Coast over two routes to be acquired under the plan. First it has asked for permission to gain control of the Wheeling and Lake Erie, the Pittsburgh and West Virginia and the Western Maryland. These three lines are the ones included in the Taplin plan. The Connellsville extension of the Pittsburgh and West Virginia, now under construction, will make it possible to link these lines together in a single route to Baltimore.

In addition to this, the Wabash wants another line from Buffalo to New York through acquisition of the Lehigh Valley and the Lehigh and New England.

Line to New York

A PHASE of the petition which is of most interest to Pittsburgh is the road's request for permission to build a connection from the Western Maryland to the Lehigh Valley which will open a new trunk line to New York with a competitive rail route to New England.

Pittsburgh is in line for benefits from the plan, both through the opening of new routes to the East and the West. In many respects, the Wabash petition is seeking a further expansion of the proposed Taplin system which has been under wide discussion ever since the possibilities of the Connellsville extension were first made known.

Opposition Expected

IT IS a foregone conclusion that both the Van Sweringens and the Baltimore and Ohio will fight the Wabash plan as they have bitterly opposed the Taplin proposals.

The consolidation petitions of these two interests, which dove-tailed perfectly, had far different ways of disposing of the lines. The Pittsburgh and West Virginia was to be jointly owned by several of the large carriers and the Western Maryland and the Wheeling and Lake Erie were to fit into the respective systems in an entirely different manner.

The five systems which the Wabash suggests, in addition to its own, would be the Pennsylvania, the New York Central, the Baltimore and Ohio, the Lackawana and the Chesapeake and Ohio.

Connecting Lines

THE SIX groups, under the Wabash plan, would jointly control four short connecting lines. Three of these, the Montour, the Monongahela Connecting Railroad and the Union Railroad, are in the Pittsburgh district. The Newburgh and South Shore, a short line in the Cleveland district, would also be held jointly.

The Wabash petition maintains that four systems, as suggested by other carriers for the Eastern territory, could not be formed without merging strictly competitive lines with such disruption of existing traffic channels as would defeat the fundamental safeguards of the Transportation Act.

Acoustic Products

LEADING radio, phonograph and sound picture concerns are understood to be negotiating for the patents of the Acoustic Products Company. The organization recently acquired valuable underlying patents on recording and synchronizing with films.

In some quarters a deal is talked of which may mean the acquisition of the Acoustic Products Company as a whole. As a result of patent and merger possibilities, increased attention has been attracted to the stock, which is now selling around 5 a share compared with a high of 19 early in the year.

General Baking Reports Profit

NEW YORK, July 1.—Net profits of General Baking Company for the first 26 weeks of 1929 are $600,000 ahead of those of same period of 1928, and sales of all products thus far in 1929 are $2,000,000 greater than for same period according to a circular sent to stockholders by F. H. Frazier, chairman.

California Crude Production Rises

LOS ANGELES, July 1.—California daily crude oil production for the week ended June 29 totaled 864,500 barrels, against 842,750 barrels for the previous week, a gain of 21,750 barrels.

Telephone's Second Quarter Profit Up

NEW YORK, July 1.—Second quarter report of American Telegraph and Telephone Company is expected to show earnings of between $3 and $4 a share. In the first quarter the company earned $3 a share on average number of shares outstanding during the period.

For six months ended June 30 earnings will be about $6.50 a share on an increased number of shares.

Fisher's Commodity Index Moves Up

NEW HAVEN, July 1.—Prof. Irving Fisher's index number of commodity prices for the past week was 97.7, against 97.6 the previous week and 95.6 a month ago.

CUBS, YANKEES WIN; A'S LOSE

By HENRY McLEMORE.
International News Service.

NEW YORK, July 1.—(INS.)—Have the Athletics begun their long predicted slump?

That they will fall upon lean days is a generally accepted fact and their losing to the Senators yesterday following a defeat by the Yanks Saturday may be a sign of some sort or the other. But sign or no sign, they dropped another game of their lead over Huggins' hopefuls when Fred Marberry limited them to six hits and two runs while his boy friends pounded Quinn, Yerkes and Rommell for 12 hits and the same number of runs.

While Fred was performing in such satisfactory manner, Messrs. Wells, Heimach and Moore managed to pull the Yankees through to a 6-to-4 win over Boston. That is, they managed, with the aid of Babe Ruth's sixteenth homer of the season and a double and single that he threw in for good measure.

CUBS DOWN CARDS

That the Cubs aren't the shy little fellows of yester-year was ably demonstrated yesterday when they spotted the Cards to a seven-run lead in the first four innings and came back to wallop them, 14 to 8. This gave the Cubs four consecutive wins in the series and eight straight triumphs. Rogers Hornsby, who has declared more than once that he would soon strike his real stride, slammed out four hits in five times at bat, including a triple and double.

The Pirates held their own by a slim 7-and-6 win over the tail-end Reds, despite a two-run rally by the losers in the ninth.

Carl Hubbell, he of no-hit fame, didn't miss that mark but by four in the Giants' first game with the Phils and the Bronx boys romped home to a 14-to-2 decision. But in the second 'twas a different affair. Weeping Claude Willoughby had his curves breaking all over the lot and the best McGraw's athletes could do was collect six hits for two runs. This amount was just three too few as Willoughby's companions garnered four off Larry Benton and Jack Scott.

ROBINS-BRAVES SPLIT

Those Brooklyn Robins, who have put the smile back on Robbie's face here of late, split a double-bill with the Braves, taking the first and dropping the second. Dazzy Vance won the first game despite the fact that he yielded an even dozen hits. Del Bissonette helped him with a home run.

Harry Rice's circus catch in the ninth inning cutting off two runs that would have given Cleveland the lead gave the Tigers a 11-to-10 win, in a wild hitting game. Both outfits smacked for 17 safeties.

St. Louis and Chicago American players enjoyed a few hands of pinochle as rain kept them in the hotel.

BUCS PREPARE FOR CARDS

originally was an open date for the two teams.

TWO GAMES ON FOURTH

A single contest also is on the books for Wednesday with two battles arranged for the holiday. Morning and afternoon contests will mark the occasion here in a baseball way.

Manager Bush allowed all of his first-string pitchers to remain in Pittsburgh today to prepare for the hard struggles that are to follow. In view of the rest it is likely that the Pirate sharpshooters will be fit for the tests. After a contest with the Reds on Saturday the Pirates will head Eastward for their second invasion of the Seaboard.

Remy Kremer was credited with yesterday's victory over the Rhinelanders, but Frenchy was under the showers before the triumph was recorded, he being hammered off the hill in the eighth. Heinie Meine finished for the Buccos, but the new pitcher was in a jam at the close, the enemy scoring twice besides having the tying run at second when the last putout was made.

BUC LEAD FADES

The Pirates gave Kremer a six-run lead which Remy was enjoying as the fourth round began. Senor Luque was the victim of most of the Pittsburgh cannonading, Jake May going to his rescue in the third. Eppa Rixey also had a hand in the Red pitching.

Capt. Traynor and Earl Sheely were the most efficient hitters in the Pittsburgh lineup, the two infielders driving in six runs. In the exciting third round, Sheely nicked Luque for a double that cleared off the packed bases.

Paul Waner and Traynor came out of the fray with three hits each.

Track Stars Enter Highland Park Meet

The entry list closes tonight for the track and field meet and water gala to be held at Highland Park on Thursday as part of the City of Pittsburgh's Independence Day celebration.

A large number of athletes are already in line, and two great meets are assured. Several out of town stars have entered the various events.

Jake Freeman, of Erie, will compete in the 100 and 220-yard dashes. Howard Hughes, of Peabody High School, is entered in the 100, 220, 440 and 880-yard runs. Jesse MacMains, of New Wilmington, will be a Union A. C. representative in the century dash and the furlong.

Bride to Watch Star in Denver

DENVER, July 1.—(INS.)—Kenneth Doherty, national decathlon champion, was in Denver today for two reasons.

He will compete in the National A. A. U. track and field meet at Pioneer Stadium July 3, 4 and 5.

He also is here on his honeymoon. It was learned today that he was married June 22 to Lucile Mason, both graduates of the College of the City of Detroit in the class of 1927.

GRAYS LOSE TWO

BALTIMORE, July 1.—The Homestead Grays meet the Baltimore Black Sox in a double-header here today in which they hope to make up for the two defeats by the Sox in the Negro Professional League yesterday, 3 to 1 and 2 to 1. Britt pitched the first game and Lefty Williams the second for the Grays.

John Dawson Wins In French Amateur

CHANTILLY, France, July 1.—(AP.)—Americans and English will fight out the semi-finals and finals of the French amateur golf championship.

In the quarter-finals this morning, John Dawson, the Chicago player who reached the semi-finals of the British Amateur Tournament, eliminated P. Binne, British resident of Paris, 8 and 6; Michael Scott, Britain, beat the titleholder, T. A. Bourn, of Britain, 4 and 3; R. Fletcher, Britain, put out France's best bet, Andre Gobert, the former French tennis champion, at the twenty-second hole; and a match between two Americans, both members of the Winged Foot Golf Club, Mamaroneck, N. Y., Jack Westland beat John Forsman, 6 and 5.

The two surviving Americans, Dawson and Westland; and the two remaining Britishers, Fletcher and Scott, play the semi-finals in the afternoon.

Schenley Park Meet Officials Chosen

Competent officials have been chosen to handle the track and field meet at Schenley Oval Saturday morning, and the aquatic gala at the park pool in the afternoon, as part of the City of Pittsburgh's Independence Day celebration.

W. S. Haddock, president of the A. M. A., is director of both meets, and will referee. John T. Taylor, secretary of the A. M. A., will be the starter.

The judges at the finish include Councilman Harry A. Little, John Karcis, Tech; E. H. Geasa, Herron Hill High; C. L. Walsh. The timers will be K. E. Davis, P. A. A.; J. R. Taylor, Keystone Club; Burton Doyle, P. J. Corr, George Vallowe, Sr., and J. I. Isherwood.

Mack to Give Max Bishop Long Rest

PHILADELPHIA, July 1.—(INS.)—Max Bishop, second baseman and lead-off player of the Athletics, who has been playing sensational ball throughout the season, is to be given a long rest by Connie Mack.

Max ran afoul of fielding trouble in the Saturday game against the Yankees, when he was charged with three fielding miscues and yesterday at Washington he continued to boot 'em. Before game time in the Capital, Max told Connie that his eyes affected him and that he was having trouble in seeing the ball. After the Sabbath tilt Mack decided to give Max a long rest and also told him to report to the club physician this morning to have his eyes examined.

If there is any indication of sinus trouble Mack wants to have it halted at once. With Bishop on the bench, Jimmy Dykes will be stationed at second and Sammy Hale on third.

registered in American open championship play.

Jones now has won the National championship classic for the third time and, oddly enough, at three-year intervals. Only one man, the late Willie Anderson, has won it oftener. Willie turned in four victories in 1901-3-4-5, but even that achievement is dwarfed by the marvelous record the Georgian now has compiled. Bobby's first victory, in 1923, was gained by beating Bobby Cruickshank in a playoff at Inwood and his second in 1926 without the trouble of any extra competition. This was his fourth play off and the conquest of Espinosa gives him an even break with the professional talent, which stopped Jones in 1925 with Willie MacFarlane and last year with Johnny Farrell.

JONES BEATS PAR

Jones delivered a knockout wallop to par figures as well as to the swarthy Spaniard by shooting successive rounds of 72, even par, and then 69, three under, for a total of 141. Espinosa straggled behind with 84-80—164. The Chicagoan's game blew up on the last nine holes of the morning round with a detonation that stunned a gallery of close to 5,000, and made the final round nothing more than a workout for the South's favorite golfing son. It was all a distinct anti-climax after yesterday's sensational finish.

Espinosa beat himself with one of the weirdest exhibitions in the history of big league golf but it is doubtful whether any player in the world could have matched strokes with the par-cracking, remorseless Georgian. As if to redeem himself in the eyes of the thousands who saw him allow the championship to slip almost from his grasp Saturday with his worst round of the tournament, Bobby, with the exception of only four or five holes, played as close to perfect golf as can be produced.

In Memoriam 1-B

In loving memory of Clara E. Kalberer, One year ago today,
Since our daughter passed away;
Her love still lingers on,
From somewhere in the great beyond;
She left this world of hope and care,
On her dying lips sang, "Sweet Hour of Prayer."
Sadly missed by parents, brother and grandma.

BUGS BAER Says

PLAYING BEAN BAG WITH THE CRYSTAL BALL

OUR special Washington interloper instructs us that President Hoover is looking forward to 1932.

Bugs Baer

When we look that far forward all we see are three income tax returns through one pair of opera glasses.

Which is a sight that would make strong men faint and stronger women reach for their lipsticks.

The Democrats are not looking forward to 1932 or any other future book.

Democracy has reached that stage where, instead of looking forward three years, it wishes it could reach back 17.

Democracy made the world safe and then forgot the combination.

There must be a reason why politicians look so far into the future. By 1932 we should have a diplomat who can prevent Europe from changing the subject.

By that time, if the debentures keep pace with the postponements, a farm will be a dot on the map and a farmer's bank account will be a dot in a book.

By 1932, there will be millions of young people who will be casting their first votes for prosperity, or its alternative, reform.

When a statesman kisses a baby, he does so because he realizes that some day that baby will vote.

So he kisses it before it is old enough to resent it.

The average man, who only goes out for partisan target practice on the first Tuesday after the usual Monday in November, does not realize the intricate windings and twistings of political skiddings and that all power is not registered on meters.

The leaders of the nation must look forward because most of them are scared to look sideways.

Besides, a politician photographs better when he is looking forward.

Ability to read the future is as scarce as the strings on a Chinese fiddle. But all politicians believe in taking a close look at a far date.

Anything can happen in three years and the war maps are all ready for the pins which will be stolen from the other fellows' shirts.

Of course, the Democrats could beat Mr. Hoover's time by looking forward in 1962.

They could then claim your November allegiance by showing their uncanny ability to look forward more than 30 years past the Republicans.

The reason for all this forward squinting toward future elections must be that it is only a short ogle back toward some election promises.

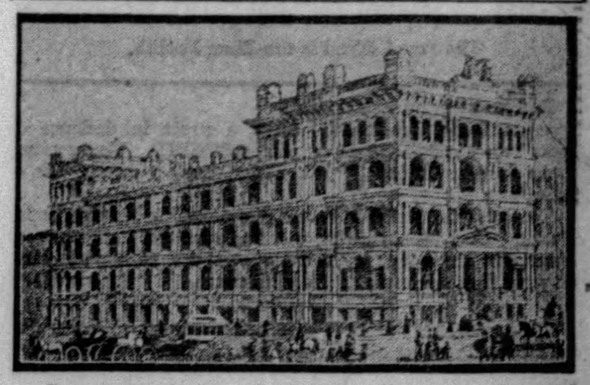
Make This Your Home While Visiting Our City



First picture of our new Embarrassing Moments Building, which will be devoted solely to Embarrassing Moments. When a reader sends in an account of an Embarrassing Moment it is immediately pressed and dry cleaned and then sent to the Embarrassing Moments Editor. All the circumstances are checked by field representatives. If found preposterous, the communication is torn to bits and tossed into especially constructed waste paper baskets, from which the bits are carefully extracted by a secret process. They are then packed together for the files, which make the most excruciating noise (so far as nerves are concerned) that you ever heard in your life.

Two Kinds of Jay-Walkers

The Proud Kind Is the Most Foolish.

Reckless driving is criminal.

Jay-walking, wandering across a street in defiance of "lights" and in defiance of caution is STUPID. You remember the famous saying, "It's worse than a crime, it's a blunder."

The man that walks across a street reading his newspaper or looking over his shoulder, and the man that walks across the street in these days of swift automobiles, without looking both ways, are reckless and invite disaster.

The jay-walker ought to have brains enough to know that the automobile is part of everyday life, no longer a luxury, but an absolute NECESSITY. It is the greatest blessing of our time, and every intelligent human being wishes to encourage its use.

Therefore, DON'T BE A JAY-WALKER.

And especially don't be the kind of jay-walker that is PROUD OF HIMSELF.

The jay-walker that wanders into the street foolishly, sees a car coming, and RUNS, is at least using his intelligence and the legs that Nature gave him for the purpose for which they were intended.

The abomination among jay-walkers is the PROUD jay-walker, who disdains to hurry, knowing that the automobile driver will jam on the brakes to avoid hitting a human being.

THAT kind of a jay-walker stalks proudly in front of a car, owing his life only to quick action on the part of the driver.

Such a jay-walker is a nuisance, and when in his turn he is bumped, as he inevitably will be, everybody will regret it, but not much will be missed.

DON'T be a jay-walker. Don't cross streets recklessly.

But if you must recklessly leave the sidewalk, at least show that you have some brains after you get out into the street, run, if necessary jump, and don't be ashamed to hurry.

Only One Lindbergh

Others Can Only Imitate.

Of Col. Lindbergh, whom the whole nation so earnestly admires, it may safely be said that his name will live as long as the world takes any interest in human courage and skill.

No one but Lindbergh can ever be "The first man to fly alone across the Atlantic Ocean."

In aviation it will be said of him what Thomas Jefferson said of Benjamin Franklin when Jefferson followed Franklin as American Minister to France. The Count de Vergennes said to Jefferson, "So it is you, sir, who replace Dr. Franklin!"

"No, sir," replied Jefferson, "I merely SUCCEED him. No one can REPLACE him."

The question that must interest Lindbergh is this: "What else can I do worth while?"

Happily the question interests, but does not worry him.

French Ideas

A New One and a Good One.

Americans invent, Frenchmen perfect.

The airplane was invented here, perfected in France.

Now that big business has taken hold of airplanes, Mr. Mitchell of the National City Bank, Mr. Sloan of General Motors, and Henry Ford, this country, of course, will dominate—in the air as on the earth.

Still it is left to the French to develop a new flying idea.

Great French passenger liners announce that they will carry airplanes as "baggage." You can cross comfortably in the Paris or Ile de France, take your airplane with you and fly where you choose on the other side.

Also, by the way, and very important, you can take your automobile, big or little, at a very low price on almost ANY big steamship, drive all over Europe, seeing it as you go, bring back the automobile with you, no duty to pay, small freight.

LISTEN, WORLD!

By Elsie Robinson

THEY tried to put through a "eugenics" marriage bill in the California State Senate recently. The measure directed that applicants for marriage licenses should file with the clerk a verified certificate, made under oath, that neither applicant suffers from a certain heinous disease.

The majority of the senators approved and the bill was up to the Governor.

Then up rose Senator Daniel C. Murphy and blocked proceedings with the following protest:

"This," he declared indignantly, "is one more blow at the sacred ideals of marriage. Why shall we keep up this eternal prying into the strictly personal affairs of people? We are being investigated to death. The mass of the people do not need any more investigating." So the possible marriage of the unfit is a "strictly personal affair!" That's interesting news. And it should be glad tidings to long-suffering taxpayers who are at present supporting the jails, county hospitals, insane asylums and homes for the simple-minded, which are at present housing the tragic consequences of such unfit matings.

"Sacred ideals" of marriage? Mebbe! Marriage itself IS sacred—the most sacred institution in human life, but some of our ideals concerning the same certainly need a lot of renovating.

Have you ever gone through a home for the simple minded? Have you ever seen the pitiful drooling, gibbering children that have been brought into the world because the state was too considerate to "investigate" their diseased and imbecile parents?

At present, in most of our states, the simple minded and diseased may wed without question and spread their dreadful contamination through countless generations. Recently in San Francisco a 15-year-old girl, so subnormal that she was practically an idiot, applied for a marriage license. And the outraged authorities had to give it to her because her simple minded mother gave her consent. There are already three generations of idiots—and near idiots—in that family, and yet Senator Murphy contends that it is all "a strictly personal affair."

The marriage of the unfit is NOT a "strictly private affair"—

Not while innocent children must suffer the consequences of such marriages—

Not while you and I must foot the bills!

Bible Passages

Trust in Divine Mercy

(Psalm 52).

WHY boastest thou thyself in mischief, O mighty man? the goodness of God endureth continually.

Thy tongue deviseth mischiefs; like a sharp razor, working deceitfully.

Thou lovest evil more than good; and lying rather than to speak righteousness. Selah.

Thou lovest all devouring words, O thou deceitful tongue.

God shall likewise destroy thee forever, he shall take thee away, and pluck thee out of thy dwelling place, and root thee out of the land of the living. Selah.

The righteous also shall see, and fear, and shall laugh at him:

Lo, this is the man that made not God his strength; but trusted in the abundance of his riches, and strengthened himself in his wickedness.

But I am like a green olive tree in the house of God: I trust in the mercy of God forever and ever.

I will praise thee forever, because thou has done it: and I will wait on thy nome; for it is good before thy saints.

Worst Story I Have Heard Today

By WILL ROGERS

A YOUNG doctor, they say, has got to get himself married, because the customers haven't got much confidence in a young doctor that ain't married. They think he might have his mind on the girls when he ought to be thinking about tuberculosis and hardening of the arteries.

So lots of the young docs start to getting wives when they're internes in the hospitals. There was one young guy that kept pestering a certain nurse to marry him.

"Why," he says, "how do you reckon I can get any business, Louise, if you don't marry me?"

She didn't answer that one, so we have to follow them around a while to get the wise crack.

He kept coming to see her evenings, and she was thinking about a guy back in her home town that was going to have a good practice established in the mending of automobiles about the time she got her training finished.

So one day the young doctor come in to see her, and she was eating apples.

"You're always eating apples," he says. "Ain't you afraid you'll die? What do you eat so many apples for?"

"To keep the doctor away," she says.

'GO WEST, YOUNG MAN!'

By Herbert Kaufman

THE mills of Washington grind slow, but they DO eventually produce grist. The Northern Pacific, which for 50 years considered itself owner of 2,800,000 acres of right-of-way land, now finds that its balance sheet has been counting chickens before they hatched.

Uncle Sam, turned Indian giver, admits he presented this tidy parcel to the N. P., but with a string tied to it, to wit: that the line from Tacoma to the Pacific should be laid by 1879.

The contract wasn't SO fulfilled, consequently the nation asserts right of recovery, and $25,000,000 worth of additional forest reserve joins America's rainy day estate, steadily to increase in value and utility, until your grandchildren will see its natural resources rated at BILLIONS.

Our own and Europe's standing debts might be liquidated with the accruals from Congressional grants to the various transcontinental and West Coast systems, promoted since the Civil War.

But individual states have just as recklessly overpaid for services which their several incomes could not, at the time, afford.

THE Capitol building at Austin was erected by John V. Farwell, Chicago merchant, who received from Texas a 3,000,000-acre slice of the Panhandle in payment. But he DIDN'T follow John Jacob Astor's example and instruct his heirs to SIT TIGHT, so most of the district, where America's bumper wheat crops and deepest oil wells are respectively sprouting and spouting, was long ago cashed in at less than 1 per cent of current market prices.

Small profits and quick sales never left a man POOR, but they OCCASIONALLY bilk him of the chance to match pennies and FORTUNES with Fords and Rockefellers.

THE Klebergs, whose ranches cover more ground than Delaware or Rhode Island, discovered THAT when St. Louis and Brownsville locomotives went chugging across their pastures, the bulk of which were largely picked up on the dime and quarter counter.

A dozen towns already flourish where their longhorns browsed, and the sites of a thousand more are safely tucked in the family pocket.

That's how getting in on the GROUND FLOOR works—provided judgment assists at the job.

Idaho is filled with folk who AREN'T living the life of Croesus only because they DIDN'T think it worth while to homestead a power location and clip coupons unto the nth generation.

THE Interior Department estimates that 4,000,000 odd horse-power lies within her borders, with less than a tenth of it in harness—not to mention a 268,000-acre stretch of phosphate and 80,000 unexploited acres more or less indicative of oil and gas.

There are STILL pots of gold at the end of the rainbow trail, and the biggest of all, under Boulder Dam, ready to transform another sterile chunk of the continent into gardens, orchards and stock farms, comparable to those of the Imperial Valley—once an arid sink and USELESS as the Sahara, until Harriman's vision detected Ophir and Golconda drowsing under the sands, and brought the cup that wakened fertility and prosperity.

Take Horace Greeley's advice and quit rubbing elbows in the crowd. It isn't YET too late to "Go WEST, young man!"

THE LAW OF GRAVITATION

By Archibald Henderson

IF we could all go back to the fundamental laws of mathematics, physics and astronomy and analyze them in much the same way as did Euclid, Galileo, Kepler and Newton, we might grasp them in their ultimate simplicity. "Laws of Nature," so-called, are really the formulation, usually in the guise of mathematical equations, of the uniform operation of natural phenomena. They are often difficult to understand, because the average human intelligence draws back from mathematical equations in which are arrayed a mass of symbols.

It is conceivable that all science might be written without the use of mathematical formulae. In the beginning of algebra, we say: "Let x equal the number of dollars I have to start with," and we then continue to use x, this unknown quantity, until the conclusion is reached and the unknown becomes the known. However, by a gigantic process of round-about explanation we could, of course, say all that the equations say in plain words of unequivocal meaning. But the loss in space is not compensated for by a corresponding gain in clarity. By avoiding symbols, we soon become entangled in a perfect jungle of words. The last stage is worse than the first.

For the time being, let us consider just what is meant, what is implied and what is assumed in the law of gravitation. Thus far, science is baffled in the attempt to explain the law. All science can do is to explain its operation; and to analyze the nature of the factors involved in its formulation. Is the law of gravitation a fact which we can verify, or is it a workable hypothesis which established relations between data of testimony? Dr. Henry Lanz has recently put this matter in a very clear light: According to Newton, two articles attract each other directly as the product of the masses and inversely as the square of the distance apart. Consider now an oval curve, say ellipse, with a point fairly near one end of the long axis, called focus. A line drawn from the focus to the curve is called a radius rector. As the planet revolves in the elliptical orbit around the attracting body at the focus, the radius rector sweeps out a sort of sector or slice of the curve. Now one of the "laws" upon which the law of gravitation depends is the radius rector traverses equal areas in equal times. This always happens with a force which is called central acceleration—somewhat after the fashion of a falling body. It is a mathematical but not a physical consequence, and does not imply that the planets do actually move under the action of central acceleration.

Newton proves that the converse of this law is also true, namely, if there is a body that follows the law of areas, it moves under the effect of a central force. The mathematical analysis does not and cannot demonstrate the physical existence of any such body. Once Kepler had observed that Mars obeys the law of equal areas for rectors joining it to the sun, it follows inevitably that Mars has a central acceleration toward the sun.

In a similar fashion, it is easy to show that all Galileo formulae for falling bodies follow from the assumption of a constant central acceleration. On this assumption, bodies cannot fall according to any other law, viz., as proportional to the square of the time.

Now Newton's problem was this: According to what law does the attractive force vary with the distance? Very slight consideration suffices to show that the concept of central force alone will not uniquely supply the law of gravitation. The path of the moving body acting under the influence of central acceleration determines the relation of the distance. Since the planet describes a known elliptical path about a body located at the focus of the ellipse, this observational fact coupled with the law of central force supplies the fact that the force of gravity is inversely proportional to the square of the distance.

Thus we see that Newton makes but one hypothesis; that celestial bodies move under action of central forces. It is a mistake, as Lanz has pointed out, to say that Newton's law of gravitation is a hypothesis that "admirably fits the facts." As a matter of fact, it is a scientific formulation of those facts in mathematical form. The statement that intensity of gravitational force is inversely proportional to the square of the distance amounts really to this: Celestial bodies in the immediate neighborhood of each other move with respect to each other in conic sections.

The Starfish Girl

Interesting? Yes, but Not Useful.

MEET MISS GEORGIA GRAVES, STARFISH GIRL

At the Folies Bergere in Paris, where champagne is cheap and Americans are plentiful, this lady stirs the sluggish imagination of spectators, ever seeking "something new."

She gives an imitation of a starfish, at least that's what the program says, and you are bound to admit that she does well what she undertakes to do.

Her "starfish dance" was for a while the rage of Paris.

Why do we like such distortions of the human body? Why would the average million prefer this starfish dance to the most graceful dancing of the famous Taglioni? Why do we prefer the wheezing, grunting saxophone in its jazz dyspepsia to the music of Beethoven or the playing of Paganini?

The answer is, because we are savages.

Why does one savage lady put an enormous piece of bone in her lower lip, pushing it out six inches, or fasten in the lobe of her ear a heavy weight that drags it down to the shoulder?

Why do some savages pierce holes in their cheeks and insert in them heavy bristles from the wild boar?

Ten thousand would pay to see a lady turn three back somersaults, if that were possible, where a hundred wouldn't trouble to see Raphael's Sistine Madonna.

All this is no reflection on this charming starfish girl with her well-made legs, strong, bare feet, marvelous physical self-control.

She is obliged to take civilization and human beings as she finds them. And if the reward for being a human starfish is greater than the reward for being a human mother, many will decide to be starfish—but not ALL, fortunately.

NEW YORK DAY BY DAY

By O. O. McIntyre

NEW YORK, July 1.—Diary of a modern Pepys: Awoke with an old-time jingling in my head and turning on the radio a lady was singing the same song which gave me quite a start. And a fellow telephoned to inquire what reporter in my opinion had the most picturesque name and my choice was Floyd Gibbons.

So came an invitation to join Gene Markey, Irene Castle McLaughlin and others at luncheon, but so tardy in my work I could not. Looking over a list of plays for a year found I had attended 112 but only four stood out as extraordinarily fine. Then Adolphe Menjou telephoned he was at the Warwick.

To dinner at the Embassy Club with my wife to join Reinald and Verna Werrenrath, Rupert and Pat Hughes and Leon and Natalie Gordon, but home early and at my labor again, greatly comforted by a poor serf next door pounding a typewriter, too. So worked until after sun up.

The flappiest of New York flappers during the reign of flapperdom has been found living in a village a two hours' drive from town. Her husband is a minister and she is active in parish work which is a neat answer to somebody all right, all right.

In one of the cobwebby attics in Greenwich Village where genius touches off its deathless odes to trees and things there is a young married couple who started on their wedding day with $800. They decided to exist writing poetry or starve. In nine months they sold $36 worth of poetry and have $25 left. They'll give up.

A millionaire employs a dietician at $10,000 a year to select his meals. Most of the time he gets nothing but graham [illegible] and tepid milk.

And a building superintendent tells me an Italian who has the bootblacking concession in a 40-story or so building has an income of around $12,000 a year and never shines a shoe.

And in big metropolitan barber shops the chief shiner is often next in command to the boss. He is in reality the "spotter" who reports derelictions of the barbers while the owner is absent.

Skyscrapers dwarf Manhattan streets to the eye. Few would believe Fifth avenue is as wide as First avenue, which has only four-storied buildings, but it is. And New York's skyline, so long hailed with huzzahs, is now dubbed an architectural monstrosity. The ginger-bread stepping towers are creating a civic protest. Several organizations are forming to limit buildings to 10 stories. It is pointed out many cloud piercers operate at heavy losses while smaller buildings almost invariably pay dividends.

We always had a sneaking notion that just when New York got all built up some silly would come along and tear it down.

ONCE OVERS

By J. J. Mundy

SOME wives are so selfish that they object to their husbands spending a reasonable time away from home with other men.

They have their own little afternoon chats and card games with women.

Why should they complain if husbands wish to spend an evening or two a week with men friends when the daily grind is over?

Some few men never wish to leave their homes in the evening.

But others like to associate with their fellows occasionally.

It does not indicate that they love home less than those who do not care to go out.

But their natures need variety, and as they must do a man's work they want to keep the man's point of view.

Too many men spend too little time at home nights, and hordes remain out later than they should, it cannot be denied.

But the usual run of men want an occasional, harmless diversion in the shape of an evening once in a while with men friends, and they ought to have it.

Give the husbands a little leeway and have less discord.

The man who likes to go out once in a while will become irritable if, because of the fuss made by his wife, he feels compelled to remain at home all the time.
